About the Book

When the great Siddha Śrī Svatantrāndanātha was ordered by Lord Śiva to correlate Mātṛkāś (Sanskṛta alphabet) with Yoga mārga, he started doing so on the basis of Māheśvara sūtras. Being failed to do, so he went into a cave of hill top called as Kankācala and started his penance by the result of which a Śrī Yantra incarnated from sky and Siddha was able to understand this secret. The Siddha seer found that Mātṛkāś are classified in four states called āgrata or Awaken state; Svapna or Dream state, Suṣupti or Deep sleep state and Turīya or Fourth state and above all is Turīyātīta state which is house of all. He explored that they all are related to each other in a way that they reveal the secret of evolution and liberation of living being and secrets of Lord Śiva and Śrī Lalitā Tripurasundarī. He explained all this by the help of Sūtras.

Being divided into five chapters, first four chapters of this book keep saying that Lord Śiva's power is frigid in nature however as he writes fifth chapter, he reveals a secret which is no less than a great suspense of this entire work.

With great command on subject, great seer had compile the entire mystic relation of Śrī Lalitā Tripura Sundarī, Śrī Yantra, Mātṛkā, Lord Śiva, Śakti, living being, four states with fifth one, prameya, pramāṇa and pramātā and this world in such a beautiful manner that it looks more a Tāntrika symphony than a Tāntrika book.

Preface

म. क्ष

When there was nothing, Lord of Nothing only dwelled; while being nothing. It is hard to imagine with limited mind; the situation which than was. There was not even silence, no directions and not even darkness; as everything was within the Lord of nothing. After dwelling this way, consciousness of Lord shook him and Lord got to know about its self being. Lord decided to create this world for its joy, it ordered its Consciousness to create the world and Consciousness did so. It created, various universes. It created, various filaments. It created various galaxies and when the time came it created this world also. Though such a great creation was done but there was deep frigidity all around. This creation was speechless!

Till the time Lord of everything took shape of Siva, when Lord saw that his creation is speechless, there is no sound at all! He played his damaru (hand-drum), play of his hand-drum produced first ever sound of this world. As the sound was the virtue of desire of Maheśvara (Lord of the Gods); these sounds together were called Māheśvara sūtras. This sūtra created grammar and human being got the capacity to speak.

When the time moved on, human-being started a quest to know who they are! They, started searching here and there! Again it was Lord of everything who came out for help. He discoursed some mystic spells in the form of Vedas, purāṇas and Tantras etc. They became lifeline and user manual for those who live on this planet and beyond this planet.

Humans started realising their real-selves. Again they rose a question! How these mystic spells work?

Lord of everything (the one who is famous for doing five things: manifestation, operation, destruction, concealment and grace on this creation), graced the humans by telling this secret. He told that although the Mantras are made up of Māṭṛkās (Sanskrit alphabet), they are not formed by the virtue of grammar of Sanskrit or any other language of this world. They are created by a Cakra called Māṭṛkā Cakra.

Māṭṛkā

Sanskrit letters from a to kṣa are known as Māṭṛkā. The vowels in it are:

अ, आ, ई, औ, उ, ऊ, ऋ, ॠ, लृ, ए, ऐ, ओ, औ, अं अः

a, ā, i, ī, u, ū, ṛ, ṛk, lṛ, lṛk, e, ai, o, au, am, aḥ

क, ख, ग, घ, ङ, च, छ, ज, झ, ञ, ट, ठ, ड, ढ, ण, त, थ, द,

ध, न, प, फ, ब, भ, म

Ka, kha, ga, gha, ma, Ca, cha, ja, jha, ña, ṭa, ṭha, ḍa, ḍha, ṇa, ta, tha, da, dha, na, pa, phi, ba, Bha, ma

य, र, ल, व, श, ष, स, ह, ल क्ष

ya, Ra, la, va, śa, ṣa, sa, ha, ḷa kṣa

Various permutation and combination of these vowels and consonants together form the words. Mantras also are formed by their permutation and combination though they don't evolve by the virtue of grammar (although they fill on the rules of grammar) for ex:

नमः शिवाय

// Namaḥ śivāya //

Why is it that these letters only invoke Lord Siva and not the set of other letters? What is very special in this combination? The answers to these questions are given by Lord Siva himself.

There are various great works on this topic to answer these questions a few of them are: Śrī Parātriśikā, Śrī Svachanda Tantra, Śrī Nityaṣoḍaṣikarṇava, Śrī Prapñcasāra Tantra (of Ādi Saṅkarācārya), Śrī Śārdātilaka Tantra, Śrī Tantrāloka, Śrī Mātrkāraṇava (not available now), Śrī Mālīni vijyottara Tantra, Śrī Vidyārṇava Tantra, Varivasyā rahadyam and this great epic called Śrī Mātrkācakra Viveka.

As per introduction of M.M Sri Gopinath Kaviraj Ji in Mantra evam mātrikao kā rahasya (written by Dr Siva Shankar Awasthi), schools of Tantra like: Siddhāntaśaiva, Vīraśaiva, Pāśupata, kaula, Natha and krama also have given the phenomenal thoughts on this topic. I have not seen them though I accept that they also are the great schools which tell that what is Mātrkā and how Mantras work?

If you ask me, "Which is most reliable thought of school?"

I would say, "All of them take to the feet of Śrī Tripura-Sundari, hence all of them are equally great!"

Śrī Māṭṛkā Cakra

Śrī Yantra, when reveals the secrets of use of māṭṛkās in Mantra, it is called Śrī Māṭṛkā Cakra. The Śrī Yantra and its various cakras, along with their names, are shown in the picture below:

Components of Śrī Māṭṛkā Cakra

1. Red Bindu: Bindu
2. Upside down white triangle: trikoṇa
3. Eight red triangles: Aṣṭāra
4. Ten blue triangles: Antaradaśāra
5. Ten red triangles: Bahirdaśāra
6. Fourteen green triangles: Caturdaśāra
7. Red lotus: Aṣṭa dala kamala
8. Blue lotus: ṣoḍaśāra (or ṣoḍaṣa dala kamala)
9. Outer rectangles: Caturasra.

The secrets of *Māṭṛkā*s used in Mantra are revealed when the entire Yantra is understood as per the phenomenon of origin, operation and destruction of this entire creation.

There are various Great Books on this topic which explain in detail, what actually the Śrī Yantra is! Śrī Paraṣurāma kalpasūtra, Śrī Śrīvidyāraṇava Tantra, Varivasyārahasya and Śrī Nityṣoḍaṣī kārṇava are the major Books to understand the philosophy of Śrī Yantra.

Mantra forms, when Māṭṛkā's are arranged as per the desire while knowing the attribute of *Māṭṛkā*s in various states of creation. This book tells these attributes in detail. One who would adopt it, would be able to understand the meanings of Mantras.

Śrī Māṭṛkācakra Viveka

This Book was composed in Kashmir by the great seer of Siddha-cult named Śrī Svatantrānandanātha Jī Mahārāja. There is no information about his birth place, life and time accept the fact that he was blessed by Lord Siva himself by the virtue of which, he wrote this Book. This Book comprises of five chapters which have total 121 sūtras in it. I take it that only work speaks in case of Greats!

There is only one commentary of this Book available which was written by great Śrī Śivānanda munī jī Mahārāja. This commentary is quite lucid, I can say that it was nearly impossible for a man like me to translate this book without the commentary of Munī jī. This commentary contradicts with writer at a few places where commentator has expressed his own views.

The Hindi commentary of Śrī Krishṇānada Budhaulīā Jī, which is published from Śrī Pītāmbarā Pīṭha Datia; which is none other than blessings of Sri Swami Ji Maharaj, Datia was very helpful for the commencement of this work. I accept that this English commentary is the grace of Sri Swami Ji Maharaj.

At a few places, I have also found that the commentator's views must be fine-tuned; I have added my views in a bracket in italic character in smaller fonts.

The first chapter of this book is the introduction of this complete Book; first sūtra of every chapter is preamble of that chapter, in that case I don't see that I must write a separate detailed introduction of this Book.

The beautiful and explanatory diagrams and tables have been added in this book for the sake of readers; this would help them to understand the topics.

This book had been translated very carefully and then had been thoroughly revised but I know that I am not capable enough to translate such a great work. It would certainly have errors in it. I request to learned readers, "Please do let me know where I have to correct. It would be incorporated in future". The names of chapters, four and five were not given in Book so I have given names to them; I hope that the Mother, Great writer and commentators will forgive me.

I salute to my Guru Aghoreśvara Bhagvāna Rāma Jī! He is great social reformer and mystic master of this country. This work is his blessing only. This work is done by him only. Please take it that whatever you find correct is what my Guru had done; whatever you find wrong, it is my mistake, i.e. I was not able to understand what he wanted to tell me.

I thank Sri Swami Ji Maharaj, Datia when I completed writing of Śrī Baglātattva Prakāśikā, I thought I should work on this book. I had a hesitation, I thought, "The book was brought into light by Sri Swami Ji Maharaj, it would not be good to translate it in English."

He then came in my dream, where I was sitting in the office of Śrī Pītāmbarā Pīṭha, he directed to someone in the Pīṭha and asked him while indicating at me, "Give him a copy of secret book of Pīṭha on Māṭṛkā, which is only for the pupil of Śrī Pītāmbarā Pīṭha!" (He spoke this in Hindi) It was no less than a surprise for me to see him in my dream, where he himself directed his team member to give me the secret Book on Māṭṛkā. That was the day when I decided to work on it. I thank to him, he is Great master and his blessings have always purified my soul.

My salutations to my mother Srimati Padma Mishra and father Sri Raghvendra Mishra for accepting and appreciating my zeal to work in this field.

My thanks to my wife and my own consciousness, Dr. Anupama; she had been instrumental in the translation of this book; her time to time guidance to understand the complex topics, made me work on this book swiftly. My daughter Aparajita, also must be thanked who maintains the patience when I work; it is not an attribute of the toddler of her age.

I thank to Mr Neeraj Gupta for publishing this book.

I salute to the aura, which rests on Trayi (Jagrat, Svapna and Susupti) the abode of Śakti. Beyond that is the place of rest (Turīya) where, Śrī Guru throbs eternally. Śrī Swatmtrānamdanatha was directed by Śrī Ādinātha Jī to connect the Mātrkāś with Yoga for the sake of wellbeing of human civilization. He first of all tried to solve this question by the help of grammar of this world (Māheśvara Sūtra) but he was not able to do so. Then he went to the cave of mountain named Kanakāncala, where he devoted his consciousness to understand the meaning of Mātrkāś, by effect of which Lord Śiva himself highlighted the Śrī Yantra, the union of four cakras of Lord Śiva and five cakras of Śakti. This Śrī Yantra has a manvasra, daśārayugma, nāgāsra, tryasra and Bindu. This has a clearly visible vedāsra and nṛpanāgādala. While looking at the great image of Yantra with navacakra, he was able to resolve the puzzle of Mātrkā. While learning it this way, he tugged them selflessly in the lace of Sūtra for the sake of wellbeing of mankind. The great Siddha Deśikendra gave it to able disciples very secretly while following the tradition of his cult.

I Śivānanda got this from the antiquity of Gurus and am attempting to write the short commentary on Śrīmatṛkācakraviveka named highly venerable Book.

This surely is the soul of Lord of supreme Lords, who is present in this world as Vidyā and Maya both and dwells as power of Vimarśa within and outside various principles; while robbing off the conflicts between them. The great Siddha Śrī Swatīntrānandanatha spread this knowledge which is great band or holding rope of all the vowels of this universe along with literature, being of the form of eternal truth, this discourse is on the meaning of Māṭṛkā Mantra. In order to prove that Goddess herself is the meaning of Māṭṛkā Mahāmantra; first of all he tells about Jāgrata stages etc.

Jāgrata (Awaken) state: The stage in which the seeker dwells after waking from Suṣṣṭi and differentiates between object to object is known as Jāgrata Suṣṣṭi (deep sleep) state: The state of frigid-sleep.

They both are the right and left body parts of mother. Jāgrata state is Karma based stage, as the karmas are done mostly by right-side of body, Goddess's right body is said to be Jāgrata. As the body is not operational during sleep and left body part is also not operational during sleep, it is said that her left body part is Sushupti stage.

[This is generic statement, it is considered that all the humans use right hand for action in general etc.]

Svapna (dreaming) stage: It is the stage between awaken and deep sleep, in this stage dreams are visualized, thoughts of empirical world come during this stage only, it is considered as the one which gives birth to the thoughts and hence womb of Goddess is said to be this stage.

This way pregnant stage is Deep-sleep state, conceiving stage is Dream state and raising stage is the Awaken state. The triangle formed by them is known as soul's triangle (Jīva Trikoṇa). After researching these, now Turya and Turyātīta states (the form of Śiva), are discussed.

Turya (fourth) state: This stage only flashes as, the three above mentioned states. Although this Turya state (the form of Śiva) is one and no differentiation is visible. Due to pervasion of Cit there is always lack of empirical consciousness in fourth state.

Turyātīta state: In this stage, the soul becomes isolated from the stains of extrinsic world. The liberated pure, introvert and resting state known as Turyātīta state.

These two states are face and heart of mother. As the Fourth state eats away all the previous states, it is said to be mouth of mother. Mouth only does the business of eating. As Turyātīta state is life breath of the stages, it is said to be heart of Mother.

[Note: Jāgrata, svapna, Suṣupti and Turīya states have been mentioned as Awaken, Dream, Deep-sleep and Foruth states respectively throughout the English commentary.]

Hence the caturasra of Śrī Yantra is exposition of Jāgrata, svapna, Suṣupti and Turīya states. Or else, if we consider Fourth state is of three types (due to three forms like Awaken etc.), then Awaken and two other states of soul and Śiva together, form the six organs of Goddess.

The way heart is the source of breath similarly the turātīta state is like prāṇa kalā for Awaken state, Deep-sleep state, Dream state and Fourth state evolved from body parts of mother or else, Awaken state, Deep-sleep state and Dream state of Fourth state and body triangle (right and left body parts and womb) evolve six organs of mother. This is way the Lord of Lord Śiva's breath (Prāṇeśvarī) is said to have four or six organs. It may seem that there is some sixth stage also of (Prāṇeśvarī) which is beyond the Śiva, but it is not. It must be considered as rise of power under the power of Vimarśa of Citsāra (Citasārbhūta Vimarśa Śakti). Use of Parāṃṛśāma etc. tells about the salutations to the supreme deliberating (vimarśātmaka) power of Lord Śiva only.

Sparśa and vowel letters describe Awaken and Deep-sleep states respectively. Letters from Ya onwards describe about the dreams, which arise during deep-sleep. Turīya stage during Awaken state is known by ūśmāṇa letters. Hence I salute to the Goddess who gave birth to the Great Mantra which has four stages like Awaken, Deep-sleep, Dream and Fourth!!!

Comprising of five stages and five parts, the sum of all principle powers of Lord Śiva, is known as Mātrkā Mahāmantra.

Sparśa* letters: Letters from Ka to Ma are subject of creation and destruction of this world hence they are called sparśa letters.

Vowels: Being hit by the throat and palate there is merely expansion and contraction of nāda only, hence the vowels from A to Aha are nāda only. It is said that 'swaro nādaḥ' there is one group which lies between the vowels and sparśa they are Ya, Ra, La and Va and they are called antastha; they make the dreams ascertain. The worldly materials like pot etc. can merely be seen in dream and can't be felt as is done during the Awaken state, hence Dream state is also called research of worldly materials.

"Uśmāṇa: Śa, Ṣa, Sa and Ha are ūśmāṇa. "Uśmāṇa is a phenomenal word (as per grammar) however they are sparśa letters; when they are relived from the contraction and are exposed to the world, then the heat is generated from them and the letters are called ūśmāṇa. This way the nāda again gets displayed by the help of pronunciation of Śa, Ṣa, Sa and Ha. Hence these ūśmāṇa words represent the 'Fourth state.' The Yoganidrā, which is above Awaken state but not deep-sleep is known as Turīya state. Their representatives are ūśmāṇa letters.

This way Goddess Māṭṛkā of the form of four stages is indicated by vowel, sparśa, antastha and ūśmāṇa and dwells in this world as Śrī Vidyā, Parā, Bālā and the group of various Mantras. The writer of Sūtra this way salutes to the Goddess for the sake of attaining the accomplishments by the grace of her blessings. Here after telling about ūśmāṇa letters of Fourth state is set to tell completely about 'Kṣa' which is kūta letter and belongs to turātīta stage.

Svara:- अ, आ, इ, ई, उ, ऊ, ऋ, ॠ, लृ, लृ, ए, ऐ, ओ, औ, अं, अः

Sparśa:- क, ख, ग, घ, ङ।

च, छ, ज, झ, ञ।

ट, ठ, ड, ढ, ण।

त, थ, द, ध, न।

प, फ, ब, भ, म।

antastha:- य, र, ल, व

ūśmāṇa:- श, ष, स, ह।

संकोच-संश्रयण-वर्जन-भाव-भङ्ग्या-

जाग्रत्-सुषुप्ति-दशयोर्गमकौप्रयत्नौ।

स्पर्शस्वराक्षरगतौ परिशीलयामः॥३॥

On the basis of seize and release of contraction, the Awaken and Deep-sleep states are represented by sparśa and vowels respectively. Efforts of 'spr̥ṣṭatā' (or touch effect) of sparśa letters and 'vivṛttatā' (or revolving around) of vowels are told.

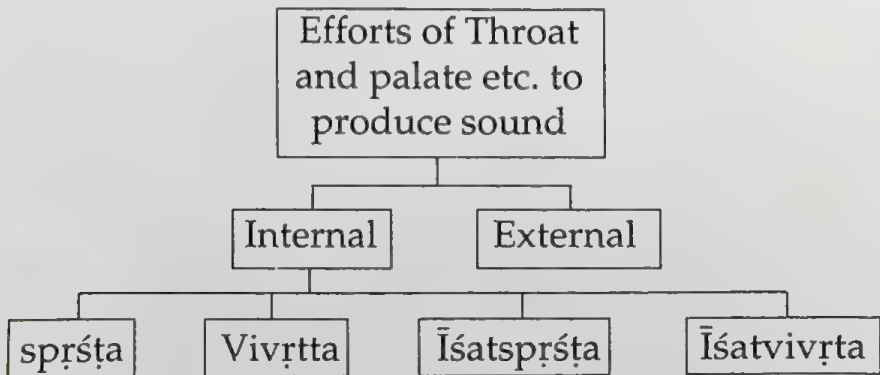

Fig.2: Various efforts pub by throat or palate etc. to produce sound.

Spr̥ṣṭa: The production of sound due to the confluence of lower and upper part of throat and palate is known as spr̥ṣṭatā.

Vivṛtta: The separation of the above said unification is known as vivṛtta.

The adoption or release of contraction in resemblance with spr̥ṣṭatā and vivṛttatā are symbolic to the 'Awaken' and 'deep-sleep' states respectively. The way finger indicates the object, the pronunciation of sound tells which stage it highlights.

The thoughts of differentiation in the 'Awaken state' ceases the supremacy of soul, whereas during 'Deep-sleep state' soul feels completeness due to the above mentioned release of contraction. Hence the way soul's supremacy contracts during the 'Awaken state' the nāda (or vowel effect) ceases in the pronunciation of that letter.

Similarly, the way soul is released from contraction during 'Deep-sleep state' the nāda of vowel also releases, during the pronunciation of letters of Deep sleep state.

Hence due to adoption and release of contraction, the letters of sparśa and vowel class are said to be of the class of 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state'.

Although 'viditau sudhībhiḥ' is used as an adjective for 'praytnau' by which it is very clear that the pronunciation of sparśa and vowel letters are the product of two different kinds of indicative setups ('awaken' and 'deep-sleep' states); then also the base of effort to produce the sound is adoption and release of contraction Hence the 'praytnau' (efforts) are said to be the indicative element of states arise due to their treatments. The way writer wants to research by the help of Vimarśa of 'praytnau' (efforts) we also have the same goal.

[Exercise: Say 'ka' you will feel that your throat contracts, this contraction only is the representation of 'Awaken state' hence the letter 'ka' is the letter of Awaken state. Hence their class which is class of sparśa is of the stage of 'Awaken state.'

Say 'a', when you say this you would feel that all the contractions are released hence the same belongs to 'Deep-sleep state'. The class of vowels are 'Deep-sleep state'.

Writer: Writer of Sūtras

Sprṣṭatā having vivṛttatā are subject of Ya class and vivṛttatā having sprṣṭatā is subject of Śa class.

This way sprṣṭatā is incomplete in Ya class and vivṛttatā is incomplete in Śa class.

Hence both the classes are indicator of 'Dream and 'Fourth states' of the form of incomplete contraction where incomplete contraction is full of incomplete vivṛttatā.

'Antaṣṭha' and ūśmāṇa classes' are called the 'Dream state' and 'Fourth state'; this Sūtra tells the same.

Ya class although are sprṣṭa but this sprṣṭa has some vivṛtta hence the indicative elements of this class are mixed (praytnsya sprṣṭtayā..). Here sprṣṭa is prime and vivṛtta is mixed; here the effect of vivṛtta is seen in pronunciation hence this effort is called īsat-sprṣṭa.

Fig.3: Relationship between dream state, antastha letters and Īsat-sprṣṭa letter Vivṛtta is prime in Śa class with some mixture of sprṣṭa, hence due to presence incomplete vivṛtta, these are known as īsat-vivṛtta.

Fig.4: Relationship between fourth state, īsat vṛtta and śa class

Hence īsat-sprṣṭa and īsat-vivṛtta efforts are indicator of 'Dream state' and 'Fourth state'. Similarly antastha and ūśmāṇa classes also have īsat-sprṣṭa and īsat-vivṛtta efforts.

Here, the principle of Sanskrit grammar is accepted by the writer that cause behind sparśa class has sprṣṭatā and cause behind antastha class is īsat-sprṣṭatā but he disagreed with grammar in terms of defining the vowels and ūśmāṇa classes. Here he declared vowels and ūśmāṇa classes to be of the category of īsat-vivṛtta.

Completeness of soul is felt during 'Deep-sleep state' and complete contraction of soul is felt during 'Awaken state'. As the 'Dream state' and 'Fourth state' are mixture of above mentioned two stages; both have feeling of incompleteness in them.

The Sūtra had been written to understand the completeness felt during the 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state' which is matter of experience. During the stage of nirvikalpa 'deep-sleep', all the senses take rest and hence the completeness is felt. It is proved from the experiences that lack of options is indicator of completeness. Hence during 'nirvikalpa deep sleep' soul feels completeness.

As there is continuous search of various objects along with tendency of differentiation between them, there is lack of rest during 'Awaken state'. Hence 'Awaken state' is the place of extreme rise of options in mind. When these options develop completely the contraction of soul also happens completely. This is proved by the experiences. Hence during the 'Awaken state' soul's incompleteness is experienced.

Fourth state: 'Fourth state' is mixture of 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state'; although the Deep-sleep in this stage comes with rest of Cit (relaxing cit), 'Awaken state' experiences are also seen during this stage. Hence due to touch of multiple tendencies, the Fourth state is follower of 'Awaken state' and hence it is called mixed stage.

Dream state: Although there is dominance of multiple tendencies during 'Dream state' but as both Awaken state and Deep-sleep state are equally found in it, it is also called the mixed stage like 'Fourth state'.

Hence 'Deep-sleep state' is the only state in which soul feels completeness. Dreaming and Fourth states are incomplete due to incompleteness of contraction. In short, soul is complete in 'Deep-sleep state' and totally contracted during 'Awaken state', hence they are complete stages.

स्वप्नः सुषुप्त्यनुगतं ननु जाग्रदेव तुर्यञ्च जाग्रदनुवृत्तसुषुप्तिरेव ।
स्वप्नस्तथाच सति जाग्रत् एव भेद-स्तुर्यादशपि च तथैव सुषुप्तिभेदः ॥६॥

Visualization of dreams during 'Deep-sleep state' is 'Awaken state', similarly uninterrupted 'Fourth state' during 'Awaken state' is 'deep sleep'. Hence the 'Dream state' is a form of 'Awaken state' and the Fourth state is the form of Deep-sleep state.

After discussing and revealing the relationship between 'jñāpya (to be known) and 'jñāpaka' (informing), about sparsā class etc., in terms of contraction and feelings of 'Awaken state', writer has now divided 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state' into two categories viz. jñāna and kriyā.

[kriyā: mentioned as action in English, throughout the book.]

Here the knowledge of dream is mentioned as 'Awaken state'; 'Awaken state' is called as kriyā-Jāgrata or ('action-awaken'); Fourth state is called as 'jñāna-Suṣupti' or ('profound repose of knowledge') and Suṣupti is called as kriyā-Suṣupti. This way 'Dream state' is a type of 'Awaken state' and 'Fourth state' is a type of 'Deep-sleep state'.

In reality the 'Dream state' is a type of 'Awaken state' only because as we visualize the objects in 'Awaken state', we visualize them in 'Dream state' also. The only difference is that 'Dream state' is continuation of 'Deep-sleep state' which goes off while being in 'Awaken state'.

Similarly 'Deep-sleep state' only lies in 'Fourth state'. This has only one speciality that 'Fourth state' is continuation of 'Awaken state' which liberates state' does not lie in 'Deep-sleep state'. That's why considering the 'Dream' and 'Fourth' state as a type of 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state' respectively only is correct.

When the knowledge rises within the 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state' they become 'Dream state' and 'Fourth state' respectively. When the Extrinsic world's activities rise in them, they are known as 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state'.

The 'Dream state' and 'Fourth state' are explained more than 'Awaken state' and 'Deep-sleep state'. The principle of this sūtra is that discrimination (between them) is of the form of knowledge. The search of subjects, done by internal senses of Body is due to knowledge. The experience of movement and rest is first experienced by the internal senses, then by external senses. This means that all experiences related to the movement and rest are of the form of jñāna-kriyā (knowledge and action) as knowledge and action are of the form of Śiva and Śakti.

In short it may be said that Awaken state, Dream state, Deep-sleep state and Fourth state can be categorised as:

1. Jñāna-Jāgrata, kriyā-Jāgrata
2. Jñāna-Suṣupti, kriyā-Suṣupti

If it has to be further categorized then, it must be done as if they roam in the core of 'turātīta-state which is Kala-cakra (cycle of time)'. Which means the above mentioned jñāna-Jāgrata, kriyā-Jāgrata and jñāna-Suṣupti, kriyā-Suṣupti exist in the core of turātīta stage. When this 'cycle of time' rotates, all four stages originate.

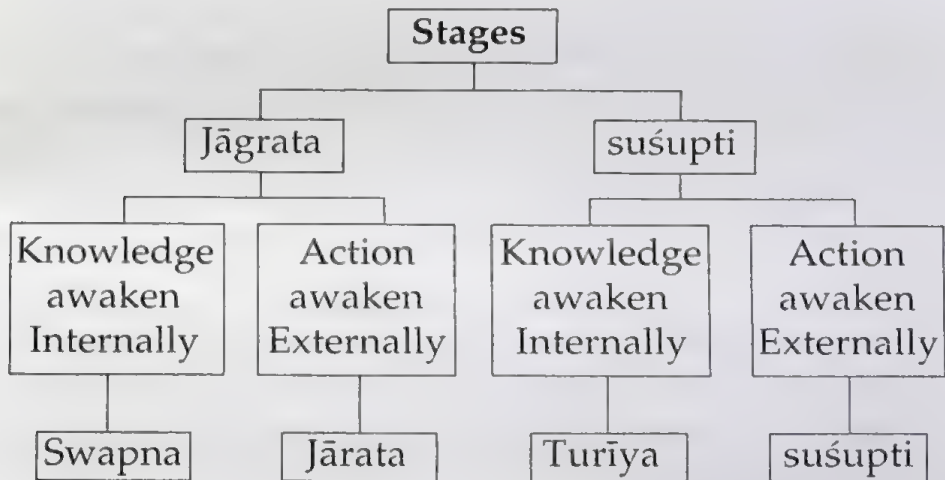

Fig-5: Classification of stages in terms of the internal and external awakening of knowledge and action respectively

Fig-6: The diagrammatic representation of states dwelling in the core of turātīta state (Order of states is not as per actual, it is just to highlight an association of stages)

[Saṁsaraṇa: It is mentioned as 'movement' in entire book.]

[Viśramaṇa: It is mentioned as 'rest' in entire book.]

जाग्रदबहिर्विलसनननुभेदसृष्टेः स्वप्नान्तरुल्लसनमित्युभयीदशैव ।

With discriminating thoughts, the external amorous is 'Awaken state' and internal amorous is 'Dream state'.

With indiscriminating thoughts, these awaken and Dream states are known as Fourth state only. The origin and resting places of both the stages are Deep-sleep state.

The discriminating and indiscriminating forms of this world along with resting-attribute of four states are shown in this Sūtra.

Creation means the manifested world. The exposition of this manifested world in outer-sense's periphery is known as Awaken state. The exposition of this manifested world in inner-sense's-periphery is known as Dream state. Awaken state and Dream state are two states of animal of empirical soul. These two stages only are indiscriminating world also. Indiscriminating means lack of discrimination, which means withdrawal. It means, when an empirical man moves towards the rest and takes the path of salvation from discrimination, Awaken state and Dream state ripe as indiscriminating Fourth state. Unlike discriminating stages like Deep sleep, Dreaming and Awaken this stage is Fourth state hence it is called Turya stage. Turya means fourth.

The rest place of discriminating and indiscriminating world is Deep-sleep state. In order to establish discrimination and indiscrimination as rest, the Deep-sleep state is said to be platform of unification of empirical-soul and Lord Śiva. The empirical soul dwells in these three discriminating stages. While from awaken to deep-sleep three stages when expose without discrimination, it is the Fourth state, the place of rest of Lord Śiva. Although the effects of bond exist in this stage but the 'māyā Vimarśa' (māyā Vimarśa-the illusive form of Śrī Śakti) does not exist here. Hence when the discrimination due to icchā, jñāna and kriyā (three power's i.e. desire, knowledge and action) is not present in Deep-sleep state, Dream state and Awaken state, Lord Śiva dwell in them. The rest is attained from the Fourth state when Awaken, Deep-sleep and Dream states (when they are without any discrimination) are followed through the way of salvation.

Hence, Lord Śiva moves in indiscriminative; Awaken state, Dream state and Deep-sleep state and rests in Fourth state.

Although due to indiscriminative uniformity between pravṛtti mārga (way of evolution or manifestation) and nivṛtti mārga (way of liberation) Fourth state only is for Lord Śiva; hence the way of liberation only is prime. Monistic-movement is same as dualistic-movement hence to explain the same in coming sūtra, the present state is discussed in this sūtra.

[Paśu: The living being who is mingled in discriminating world is called as paśu, the same is mentioned as empirical soul in the book; it is also mentioned as Caitya in this book.]

सृष्टाबहिः शिवचिताप्रकृतिर्विसर्ग-

Eternal named as Śiva or the element known as prakāśa (light), when creates the nature in outer space, she is known as Visarga. When the Śiva withdraws this creation and unifies his nature which is of the form of his Vimarśa, he is called Bindu or dot. Visarga and Bindu are termed here to define Vimarśa (the name of Goddess Śakti as Vimarśa) with attribute of movement and Bindu (the name of Śiva) with attribute of rest. In the state of movement, the union of Śiva and empirical soul, divides into empirical soul and Śiva.

The existence of Vimarśa would be only with prakāśa-the Śiva; Vimarśa has no existence without prakāśa, however the writer of sūtra says that the Vimarśa exists outside the Light (or Śiva) when he wants, which is not possible. Hence the 'outer-space' must be considered as 'just-outer'. It means that it is merely visible from outside, though it exists within Lord Śiva. The withdrawal is merely a wonder, in reality there is neither evolution nor there is withdrawal. Prakṛti is deliberative by its nature and Vimarśa is nature of light, if this would not be the nature of Light, it would become frigid like sphatika (crystal) because of an eclipse in its meaning. Hence the Vimarśa is merely visible outside Lord Śiva and the withdrawal of this Vimarśa by the Lord also is miracle.

The declaration that creation is situated outside Lord Śiva, because, the saṁvita śāstra (here the critic is talking about some book which is not known) says that the samaya siddhanta (principles of this philosophy) must be told only after the initiation. Hence this principal is described in short only here. Revelation of traditional secrets is against the ruling of Epic.

[As the cult's entire philosophy is not available, various facts given in book look like they want some solid proof. In that case present day seekers have only one option, they will have to accept the concepts given as it is and perform their penance; mother would herself reveal the facts to the seeker, once she is pleased.]

Hence the gist of above discussion on prakāśa and Vimarśa tells that Lord Śiva exposes the Vimarśa which is the virile of this world and rest in his soul, in his image as if they are exposed to the Extrinsic world; because of his nature of the form of Parā, Prakṛti, Māyā and Avidyā. Then the Vimarśa (which is expressed by the word) absorbs the knowledge (Lord Śiva) within itself who is exposed as 'to be known'. Hence the Vimarśa is exposed as pramātā and Lord Śiva slip down from his position and becomes empirical soul while attaining the attribute of 'to be known'.

When the same Lord Śiva wants to withdraw this world, he absorbs everything within him and exists as impenetrable Bindu. As per the opinion of Indian intellectuals, "Bindu is uninterrupted form and it is continuous by nature" (here). This way vedya formed Vimarśa power's Visarga form and vedaka Light's Bindu form had been told. Vimarśa is moveable and Light is resting; during the state of movement, Lord Śiva and empirical man look to be two.

[Vedaka, Prakāśa, Cit and Bindu are the names of Lord Śiva used in this book. Prakāśa is called as light throughout this book in English.]

Vedya, the form Vimarśa is called 'to be known' throughout the book.]

Visarga of the form of Vimarśa, creates a dualistic camatkāra, because of avidyā (illusions), hence the movement while being in empirical state is dualistic.

Movement with respect to A-bhava means Śiva is non-dualistic because of the camatkāra of Vimarśa in form of vidyā is monistic.

The movement of Para-Śaṁbhu is both, dualistic and non-dualistic. Hence the bliss of Vimarśa of both types, viz. vidyā and illusion are observed simultaneously. Hence this is the state of rest of all three states.

[Note: As per Kāśmīraśaivadarśanabṛhatakośa (edited by Dr B.N. Padita), camatkāra: Cidāhlādcarvaṇā, suvikhyātā vistareṇeśvarapratyabhijñāvimarśinyāma. As per-Īśvarapratyabhijñāvimarśini, camatkāra is the traverse of pleasure in pure knowledge-Lord Śiva). (see fig. 7 next page)

Paśu, jīva and Parma Śiva have been explained simply in previous sūtra. Their consequent special rotational stages, have been explained in this sūtra.

If Lord Parma Śiva is considered as moving then he would have to be considered as Fourth state, which is explained here as pure, introvert, resting (of the form of supreme Bindu) with all due respects. All three stages take rest in this state.

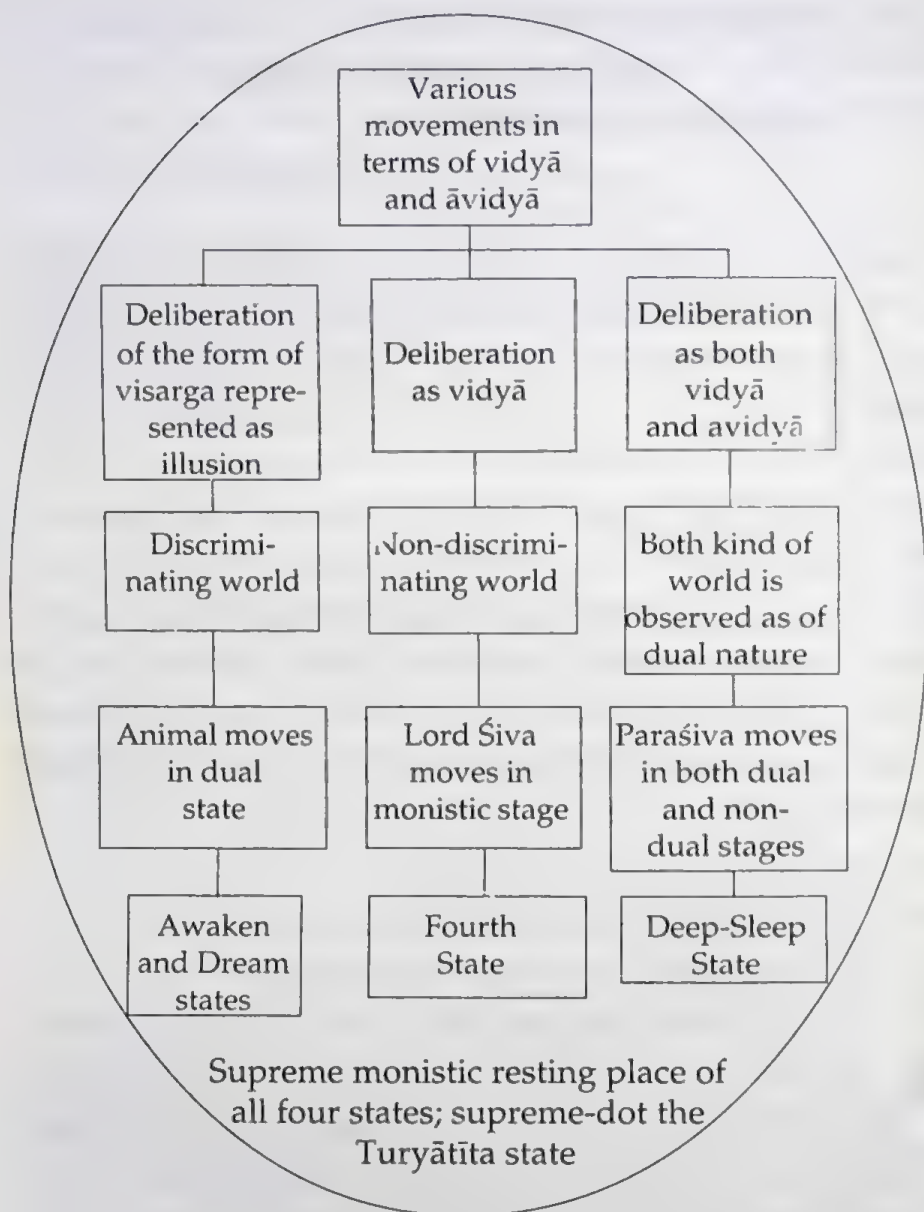

Fig.7: Diagram explaining the various types of Vimarśa of Lord Śiva due to Vidyā and Avidyā

Although the Forth state which possesses entire world, is complete by its nautre and deliberative; is considered as the state of supreme-rest however the smell of prapañca kalā of below three stages does not stop here hence there is one more fifth stage beyond Fourth state which is beyond limits and is of the form of supreme-Bindu.

This means that the three stages like 'Deep-sleep state' etc. are discriminating, or else state beyond the discriminative 'Fourth state' is known as turātīta state. These stages only are mentioned by Mantras of the form of vowel and sparśa states.

This way out of five mentioned states dual, non-dual and 'dual and non-dual' both, take rest in 'Fourth state'. Which means, Awaken etc. three stages dwell in Fourth state. Beyond this Fourth state, there is fifth stage named mahābindu (Supreme-Bindu), in which Awaken to Fourth all stages dwell coherently.

The world exposed in three ways rest in Fourth state and all these four stages rest in fifth stage called mahābindu (turyātīta).

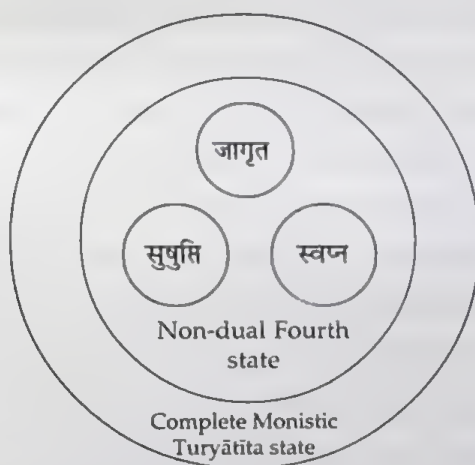

Fig.8: Highlighting resting stages of first three stages and Fourth state

[जाग्रत is jāgrat, स्वप्न is svapna, सुषुप्ति is Suṣupti, तुर्य is turya and तुर्यातीत is turyātīta.]

Bindu is gauḍa (means with qualities); its indiscriminating form is of Samvita Śiva; it is cover of the empirical living being which is known by discrimination. Hence the empirical living being is also known as Visarga. Same is the opinion of erudite of Samaya principle of Mantra Śāstra.

Lord Śiva of the form of Bindu has no discrimination at all however we have just now seen that Fourth state has an impact of discrimination. Due to this the thought that Bindu is complete, corrupts. Hence to prove it, writer has taken help of gauḍa nyāya (calling Bindu to be with qualities), which means the qualities dwell in the womb of Bindu.

The gauḍa Bindu only is behind the business. Here gauḍa Bindu means the one which has qualities. Indiscriminative Bindu has all the qualities within. The gauḍa is added as an adjective with indiscriminative Bindu so that its stature may be maintained while representing him as the Lord of Dual and Non-dual mixed movements (or various movements of this category). Although the Bindu is undoubtedly indiscriminative but it only dwells as living being.

Various intellectuals consider Bindu to be Lord Śiva and animal (empirical soul) also are Bindu. Hence while dwelling an empirical soul-Bindu is Visarga.

Vedya world is discriminative. Lord Śiva of the form of pure knowledge is different from empirical soul. The cover of empirical soul is known as discriminative and of the form of tama (third quality) (is pervading). Hence the Vedyā (this world) is pervading and the empirical soul is to be pervaded. It is a principle that the one who pervades, only is the form of to be pervaded. As the element-Vedyā, is the cover of discriminating soul; hence the vedyā world would be the form of discriminating soul. Hence the soul also is Visarga the same form of vedyā. Hence the way world is Visarga and the soul also is Visarga.

But ultimately the soul is Bindu. Bindu only becomes the Visarga, while moving as Visarga (which is known as soul).

It means although the empirical soul is called episodic but in reality, it is Bindu only which becomes empirical soul while being in the stage of movement. This way Bindu and Visarga are same.

The empirical soul is the result of Vimarśa. The manifestation and withdrawal of Vimarśa happens in Cit hence this Vimarśa is nature of Cit. The knowledge of the existence of Cit happens from the knowledge of Vimarśa. The knowledge of reflected Cit is not possible. Hence Cit also is nature of Vimarśa. It means both Cit and Vimarśa both are nature and bearer of nature of each other.

[Note: As per Kāśmīraśaivadarśanabr̥hatakośa (edited by Dr B.N. Padita), Cit means, "Suddhā deśakālākāra-vaicitryaśūnyā saṁvit." or "Pure Knowledge which is beyond date and time boundaries-Lord Śiva"]

Fig.11: Relation between the nature of Cit and Vimarśa, they are nature and bearer of nature of each other Animal is vedya (to be known) and Lord Śiva is vedaka (knower). This Sūtra shows that both Lord Śiva and animal dwell in each other. This world is result of synonym of Lord Śiva and Goddess Śakti (the Light and Vimarśa).

This is principle of Rahasya Mārga. Ancient intellectuals have accepted this world as a sport of Vimarśa. However the existence of this Vimarśa is under the Light only, hence half of this world is light and half of it is Vimarśa. The constituent of Light is the vedaka and constituent of Vimarśa is vedya. Hence the gist of this discussion is that being the resulting state of Vimarśa the empirical soul is Vimarśa only.

This Vimarśa which has 'to be known' is the nature of Light; this is because the Vimarśa is manifested from and withdrawn, in light only. Hence the creation of this world without being exposed is impossible is proved. This exposition is under subordination of Light, hence considering light as the cause is correct.

Few philosophers consider manifestation and withdrawal of voice form of Vimarśa happens in sky and hence consider the Sky only as Light. This principle is not correct, Sky is part of world and hence the existence of Sky happens from light only.

As per the writer of Sūtra, the Light also is nature of Vimarśa. This is because when space and time coordinates and size of Vimarśa is known then only the existence of Cit is known. If in case the direction of citprakāśa (Light, full of Knowledge which means Lord Śiva) with Vimarśa is not accepted then the existence of citprakāśa would not be there as the dogs don't have horn on their head. Hence to count in the category of worldly objects, Vimarśa is must. Hence the Existence of Light due to Vimarśa is proved, this way the nature of Vimarśa is light.

Hence being the expositor of the existence of Vimarśa, Light is bearer of nature and Vimarśa is its nature and vice-versa.

Cit and Caitya both are nature and bearer of nature of each other hence it is proved that encroachment of Cit on the position of Caitya and vice-versa is there nature. When the Cit is occupied by Caitya it becomes animal; in other case when Caitya is occupied by Cit, it becomes Śiva and this is famous.

After explaining the relationship between the Light and Vimarśa now he is refining the resultant of it.

After considering the relationship between Lord Śiva and Caitya as both are 'bearer of nature' and nature itself of each other, it is proved that their mutual encroachments are innate. The reason for it is that while being Cit, dharmī (bearer of nature) dwells in nature this is specific principle. As Cit and Caitya both are bearer of each other, their mutual encroachment is natural.

The Cit encroached by Caitya is animal because after this Lord Śiva losses his power and attains the living-being stature whereas opposite to it is when Caitya is occupied by Cit it becomes Lord Śiva and it is famous.

Case-1: Caitya occupies the Cit Lord Śiva becomes empirical soul

Case-2: Cit occupies Caitya and Caitya becomes Lord Śiva

Being in resting stage due to mixture of Cit (Lord Śiva) and Acit (empirical living being) elements, Paraśambhu stage is medium stage. This stage is mixture of Śiva and empirical living being, hence it has three forms; it is bearer of nature. The exosure of Vimarśa also happens according to Cit, Caitya mixed form of Cit and Caitya.

This Sūtra tells about Paraśambhu which is situated between Cit and Caitya. Both elements exist equally in Lord Śiva. Hence though this state is resting stage and is steady by nature but as it lies between Cit and caitanya state, it is called the mixed stage.

The writer of Sūtra has used 'tu' in this Sūtra viz. "miśraṁ 'tu' madhyamaṁ padam" which is the expositor of difference between empirical living being and Lord Śiva and as it is the mixture of empirical living being and Lord Śiva, this Paraśambhu state is bearer of nature.

Being mixture of empirical living being and Lord Śiva, Paraśambhu is like conjunction, hence this stage is called middle state. As the Cit equally exists in both Lord Śiva and living being, its existence in Paraśambhu (the one who belongs to both) is proved. This is another reason why this state is called middle state.

The movements causing evolution of living being and liberation (distraction from worldly pleasures) of Lord Śiva happen simultaneously. Hence evolution is stopper of reverse movement and reverse movement is stopper of evolution.

Hence after stopping each other mutually, there would be the chance of existence of only one frigid Paraśambhu. Hence the reason for existence of Cit and Acit (not Lord Śiva, empirical soul) states is Paraśambhu state.

The way various trees and plants mix with each other and grow together but their flower, fruit and roots are considered to be that of original tree or plant similarly it is accepted that Lord Śiva and living being grow separately in Paraśambhu.

If it is thought that all these activities exist separately (not together) in Paraśambhu then thought of equal existence of Lord Śiva and living being in Paraśambhu would become void and then some more superior element will have to be discovered which is not good.

To prove the same, it is said in first-half of Sūtra that being mixture of Lord Śiva and living being it is bearer of nature and as it is investigator of dualistic thoughts, Vimarśa is its nature.

Due to variations in Mantra, this miśra pada (Paraśambhu state) is called trirūpa (having three forms) and not because it is the bearer of nature of three types (trividha dharmī) of Vimarśa of the form of three dualistic stages, which are beyond the Fourth-state and is turātīta state.

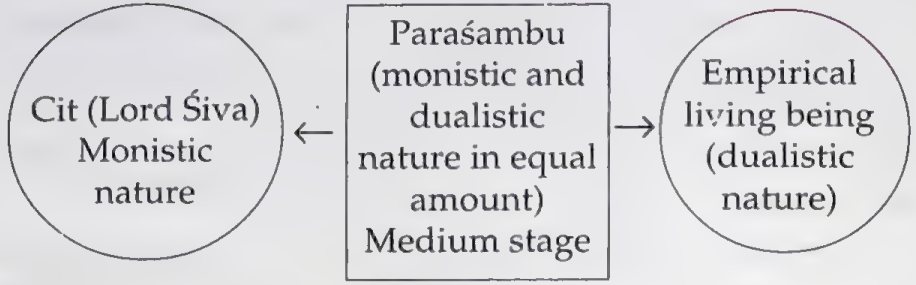

Fig.13: Relation of mixed stage with Lord Śiva and living being Cit (Lord Śiva) is indiscriminating jñāna. Deliberating Caitya (living being) is a kriyā however the difference between knowledge and action of the form of Cit and Caitya is not pāramārthika (highest true knowledge).

In reality, when the knowledge acquires the quality of frigidness it becomes action similarly when action transforms to subtle form, it converts into jñāna.

Being useful to explain the subject of this Book, Lord Śiva had been explained in three living being forms. Hence this sūtra explains the knowledge-action form of Lord Śiva which is very useful.

Cit is Citi, it is indiscriminating knowledge. Although cloths and pot are different but they are felt all together i.e. when they are seen, they are seen together, hence the knowledge is indiscriminating. While feeling empirically, objects like cloth and pot look mutually exclusive, hence the action is differentiating but this; difference between Cit and Caitya is illusive and not eternal. Hence this discrimination between the Lord Śiva and living being is not an inverted-knowledge form of illusion.

[Actually Lord Śiva and living being are one, there is no difference between them at the level of eternal knowledge, the mere difference is seen at the level of action which is virtue of individual living being's thoughts. This is again an illusion and not reality. Last line is reaffirmation of the same.]

Now he explains the elementary difference between Cit and Caitya:

When the frigidness occurs in Light of the form of knowledge, it becomes Vimarśa. The frigidness in sky make it words. Hence the frigid form of Cidākāśa is Vimarśa. As there is no difference between water and snow (the frigid form of water), similarly there is no real difference between the Light and its Vimarśa.

Here the pre-established philosophy may bring in doubt that the difference at the level of action in pot and cloth can't be hidden in the knowledge of the form of light.

This doubt is baseless: pot and cloth may have difference at the level of their physical exposure however there is no existence of these pot and cloth at eternal level except the Vimarśa of sound. The relation of Cit and Caitya with knowledge and action is shown in below diagram:

Fig.14: Knowledge which is Lord Śiva himself, converts into action (the empirical living being), when he attains frigidness

Fig.15: Action (the empirical living being) becomes Lord Śiva (the knowledge), when it attains the subtleness

When the action leaves the frigidness and gains the (subtle) form, then action and knowledge become one. Hence the exposed form of knowledge is action and internal form of action is knowledge. The same is shown in diagrams below:

Fig.17: Knowledge is internal form of action which action attains when it attains subtlety

The Prakāśa form of knowledge can't be accomplished without action and action can't be accomplished without knowledge.

Hence as per opinion of Siddha cult both jñāna and kriyā are accomplished simultaneously and the are equal; the opinion of first or second is given by pūrva-pakṣa.

Knowledge and action of the form of Lord Śiva and Goddess Śakti are equally grand that's why they are accomplished simultaneously. This is opinion of Yāmala siddhānta (principle of couple) of Mantra-śāstra. Hence the relation between knowledge and action is mutual i.e. reason for knowledge is action and reason for action is knowledge. This sūtra tells the same in detail.

To consider that either knowledge or action is grand, is opinion of previous philosophical line of thought. To establish the relation of higher and lower amongst; Vedya-Vedaka, prakṛti-puruṣa, deha-ātmā, śabda-artha or in the form of their synonyms or in knowledge and action is the philosophy of pūrva-pakṣa. Siddha-cult does not accept this.

[prakṛti-puruṣa are Goddess Śakti and Śiva; deha-ātmā are body and soul and śabda-artha are word and its meaning]

अर्द्धक्रियाभवति दक्षिणमन्यदर्धं

ज्ञानं क्रिया च खलु मूलमिहाङ्कुरश्च ॥ १७ ॥

Icchā (Desire) is seed, Jñāna (Knowledge) is root because of its secret growth and as the Kṛyā (action) has external movement, it is sprout.

The relation between knowledge and action is inherent. The conjunction of knowledge and action is desire. Knowledge is male and action is female. Hence, being conjunction of knowledge and action the desire turns out to be full of nature of both male and female. Parma Śiva has two parts male and female. Hence while considering unity of desire with Parma Śiva, Lord Śiva's Ardhanārīśvara Natrāja form would be accomplished.

Writer of sūtra considers ritualistic worship to be dakṣiṇa mārgiya (right hand way of worship) hence he has considered the Lord Śiva's right body part to be action; he considers that knowledge is Vāma mārgiya (Left hand way of worship), hence he considered that Lord Śiva's left side of body as knowledge.

As per old tradition, Śaiva mārga is considered as right hand worship way and Śākta mārga as left hand worship way. Siddha people consider Vimarśa as the power or Goddess Śakti and Light as form of knowledge hence Lord Śiva. In that case, previous philosophies may raise question on establishment of Right side as action and left side as knowledge; this phenomenon of samaya-rahsya-marga can only be understood by the grace of Guru.

Due to mutual cohesion between the Lord Śiva and Goddess Śakti who dwell as Knowledge and action respectively, they both are inherent in each other. This nature of Lord Śiva and Goddess Śakti is innate.

The knowledge is red and action which is jada (frigid) by nature has white colour, hence due to white coloured action knowledge becomes of white colour.

Goddess Śakti is made red by knowledge which is ajāḍa (throbbing) by nature, being mobile it is like Sun and Knowledge traverses like Sun; as Sun has red colour, knowledge also has red colour but as the Action is always indulged with Knowledge, action appears to be red. When these two mix with each other yellow colour originates. Hence the mixed stage for Knowledge and Action is of yellow colour.

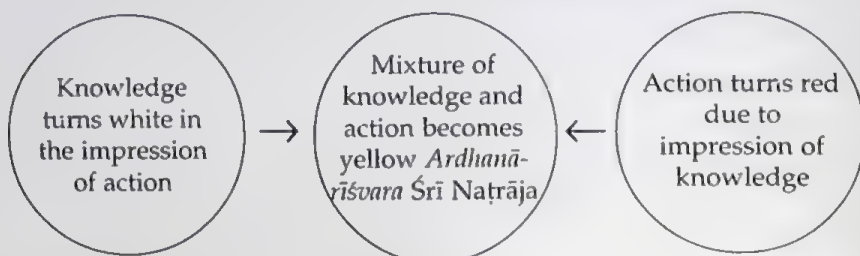

Fig.18: The effect of mutually indulging with each other on the form of knowledge and Action and then further formation of Śrī Naṭrāja in yellow.

This three coloured form of Lord must always be investigated the way Lord Śiva's three forms are investigated. Hence this way Lord Śiva of the form of knowledge is also indulged in investigating the Action which is of the nature of Goddess Śakti; hence form of knowledge is also transactional as is of action. Hence Śrī Kaulopniśata establishes, the knowledge way as left hand way of worship. On the basis of this, writer of Sūtra has also established Knowledge as left part of Lord Śiva's body and action as right part of Lord Śiva's body.

Then he explains about desire which is mixture of Knowledge and Action. Sūtra establishes Desire as addition of Knowledge and action. Hence the position of it is between knowledge and action because it is the base of duality of knowledge and action. Hence it is like seed. Writer has used "and" (evama in icchaiva) because although the three are base of each-other but as Desire lies between Knowledge and action it is like Śuṣumnā. Hence to consider desire as resultant of compulation of Knowledge and action is correct. As Desire is base of this couple it is called as seed. Desire is called as rigid in Sūtra hence it is seed. This always stays at its place however the roots and sprout expand internally and externally respectively. As root expands beneath the seed and Knowledge also expands within, knowledge is called root. As sprout grows above seed in extrinsic world, action is also exposed to extrinsic world action is called sprout.

Desire is collective pervasion of Knowledge and action, which dwells in one sentiment. Hence all the three elements have eternally unified nature.

Pramātā, pramāṇa and prameya also are eternally united and the difference is only of name.

As icchā, jñāna and kriyā are eternally one, hence they are pramātā (one who wants to know), pramāṇa (proof) and prameya (theorem). Hence Desire etc. are known as pramātā etc. Knowledge and Desire are cohesive hence they are inherent. Hence the analogy of desire-trilogy with pramātā etc. is correct. The only difference is of name and the same is said in Sūtra.

स्थित्यन्त कारणतयायात्रिगुणस्वभावम् ॥ १९ ॥

The base of Knowledge and Action is Desire.

Knowledge and Action are the base of desire.

These of the form of triplet are the reason for manifestation, maintenance and withdrawal because of the nature which possesses three qualities.

As per the samaya siddhānta (principle of a specific rites oriented cult, which has strict do's and don'ts known as samaya for its seekers) of Mantra śāstra, a triangle had been contemplated. This triangle is of the form of icchā (Desire), jñāna (Knowledge) and kriyā (Action). Hence to prove the existence of Desire etc. they are said to be the base of each other.

Light and Vimarśa are of the form of Knowledge and Action. Hence Knowledge and Action are the base of each other as Light and Vimarśa are. Which means base of Knowledge is Action and base of Action is Knowledge. Desire is base of Knowledge and Action. Desire can't be accomplished without Knowledge and Action, hence Knowledge and Action are the base of Desire in a mixed way. This way, being base of each other these Desire etc. are of the sum of the form of Hari (Lord Vishnu), Hara (Lord Śiva) and Hirṇyagarbha (Universe) trinity. This means that experience of Goddess Mahāśakti happens in the form of icchā, jñāna and kriyā. Knowledge of trinity also happens in the form of triangle of Desire, Knowledge and Action. As Desire etc. appear as trinity, they are presented as mahātattva.

[Mahātattva: The satoguṇa which came into existence due to first extrovert exposure of mūlaprakṛti. She only resides as intellect in every living being. The sixteen elements of the form of ahaṁkāra etc. come into existence because of her. Hence it is known as comprehensive intellect element.]

Where mūlaprakṛti is known as the compounding element of 23 elements which are reason behind every action happening and reason of that action; principle element.]

The reason behind manifestation, maintenance and withdrawal is trinity of Desire etc. Hence discriminating mixed world's manifestation happens in Desire element; maintenance in Knowledge element and Withdrawal happens in Action element. Being the reason of manifestation, maintenance and withdrawal, the nature of Desire, Knowledge and Action is of three qualities. This means, Desire, Knowledge and Action are satoguṇa, rajoguṇa and tamoguṇa by nature.

Like (Desire, Knowledge and Action) are mutually attached to each other, Deep-sleep state, Awaken state and Dream state are also mutually attached to each other and are equally prime. The stages like Deep-sleep etc., may lie in first second and third position the way the action (frigid in nature) and knowledge does.

Every single object of this world is categorized under Desire, Knowledge and Action. Hence this objective world is of the form of trinity viz. Three worlds, three kinds of words and three Vedas. This means, the presence of paritattva (Supreme Element) in the form of Desire, Knowledge and Action is the reason behind their trinity form. Elementary stages like Deep-sleep state are also of the form Desire, Knowledge and Action. Hence the forms of Deep-sleep state, Awaken state and Dream state are said to Desire, Knowledge and action. The above statement of the writer is generic; esoteric meaning of which had been explained here on the basis of practical experiences and sermons received in the form of words of Guru.

Movement in discriminating World

In discriminating world:

- Deep-sleep state is Desire.
- Dream state is Knowledge.
- Awaken state is Action.

The form of rest in discriminative movement is discriminative and Desire is the first position of discriminative world. That's why the Desire is termed as Deep-Sleep.

The rest somewhat contracts during Dream state hence Dream state is called Knowledge. The Desire is first stage and somewhat accomplished stage of this beginning is Knowledge. Hence the exposition of Desire in Knowledge becomes clearer. This way the form of rest is exposed clearer during dreams, hence the Knowledge throbs during dreams. The action happens in Awaken state hence action is an easy expansion of Desire raised. This means: "I wish"; "I Know" and "I do" all three stages are arrangement of efforts.

When Lord Śiva moves to become living Being, Desire, Knowledge and Action become effort.

Fig. 20: Various stages and their relation with Desire etc. when Lord Śiva moves to become living being in discriminative world

Similarly during liberation where living being attains rest to become Lord Śiva, first stage is Awaken state, hence awaken is denoted by the Desire. Before beginning of any action and conclusion of another there is stage called resting stage. Hence the sign of cessation of Awaken state is Desire. The same principle must be used to understand the symptoms of rest at other places also.

During this movement of mokṣa, Dream state comes after Awaken state. Due to a bit opening of rest, Dream state is of the form of Knowledge.

Being investigator of the resting activity, Action is Deep-sleep state.

Fig.21: Various stages and their relation with Desire etc. in discriminating world when Lord Śiva enters in resting stage

Hence this way during evolution of world and liberation of it in discriminating world, the Deep-sleep state and Awaken states both have been proved to be both Desire and Action.

Indiscriminative World

In indiscriminative world which means during the torrid movement first stage is Dream state; second stage is Awaken state and third stage is Deep-sleep state.

Being with multiple tendency and without any tendency, throbbing Dream state is Light stage and frigid Deep-sleep state is Vimarśa respectively. When both stages accept the being of each other, then Dream state (being initial stage of frigidity) is Desire. Middle stage is Awaken state which is of the form of Knowledge. The splendour of Light in Awaken state is extrovert (not introvert, as it is in Dream state) due to which though some frigidity rises in the portion of vedya, then also it is Light only. The frigidity of Action can be fully investigated during Deep-sleep state hence it is called Action. When the frigid Dream state is manifested as Light during nivṛttyātmaka saṁsaraṇa (movement of liberation); then it is the act of this throbbing process only. Due to this, being at initial stage of throbbing thoughts, Deep-sleep state attains the post of Desire. While being touched by the Light of knower (Lord Śiva) Awaken state is Knowledge stage. Due to splendour of light of vedya in Vedakas somewhat cidbhāva (essence of Lord Śiva) is culminated during this stage. Dream state, being the investigation of ajāḍa-kriyā (throbbing action) is of the form of Action.

This way, in this indiscriminating movement Dream and Deep-sleep states are the form of Desire

Dual (Discriminating and Indiscriminating) world

In this stage of dual movement, during the process of adoption of each other Awaken and Dream state; due to double entendre of Bindu with Vimarśa the stage of dual Deep-sleep state sets to be medium stage. Hence Awaken state and Dream state both are representation of Desire. While being Cidācit, this resting Deep-sleep is bestowed as Knowledge. Living being becomes Lord Śiva in this stage due to awakening of rest and Lord Śiva becomes living being in this stage due to apprehension of frigidity. Hence being the stage of dual apprehension of "being Śiva" and "being living being" during dual movement, this Deep-sleep state is situated in between Awaken state and Dream state.

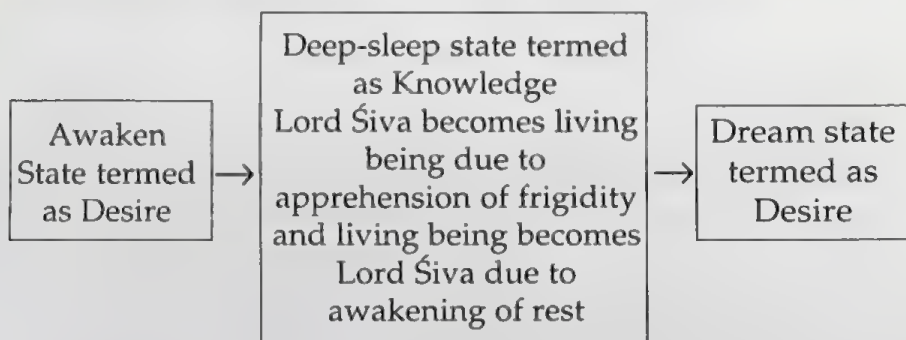

Fig.23: Dual world and role of stage-trinity [Action has no role to play in this stage as entire display of activity is happening in Deep-sleep state only.]

Hence the presence of Lord Śiva-Śakti dwelling in each other only is proved during flow of three stages like Deep-sleep etc. be it in regular order or reverse order.

Hence repetition of three sections of Mātrkā, in any ways is in line with the principle of cult.

As per opinion of laghustotrakāra, "There is rule where Śrī Bālā mantra (which is collection of Mātrkās and has three Seminal Mantras), can be used in regular order or reverse order of its branches named supti etc. to worship three sections of Śrī Yantra." This proves above mentioned fact on the basis of experience. The above disclosed principle based on the investigation of various stages is based on the experiences of preceptor also, hence being proved by all the ways this principle is life-line of Mantra and Śrī Yantra.

Famous cult propounds Desire element and Action element in Deep-sleep state, Awaken state and Dream state. Action is evidently an experience, hence it is more special than memory and hence it is directed towards external world. Its form is not throbbing as is that of Knowledge which throbs intrinsically, rather it is frigid. Hence Dream state is knowledge, Awaken state is action and mixture of Knowledge and Action the Desire is Deep-sleep state.

[laghustotrakāra: Śrī Dharmācārya wrote five hymns of Bhagwatī Śrī Śrī Vidyā, they are collectively called Srīpañcastavī. The first hymn of it is known as Laghustotra and composer is known as laghustotrakāra, this hymn has glorified the Mantra of Bhagwati Śrī Bālā Sundari, the same have been used here in commentary by commentator in the support of his facts.]

The description of three states viz. Deep sleep etc. of mutually merged Cit and Caitya happens in two forms.

These unions of the form of evolution and liberation can be understood by visualising Mātrkāś situated in Śrī Yantra.

As per the previous Sūtra, the three stages like Deep-sleep state etc. have the dual (throbbing and frigid) nature, because of which they exist in two states (throbbing and frigid).

Lord Śiva and living being move and rest naturally. Caitya and Cit are known as living being and Lord Śiva respectively. Hence the form of three stages like Deep-sleep etc. of Caitya and Cit are also movable and resting as is that of Lord Śiva and living being. Cit and Caitya are synonyms of Light and Vimarśa. Hence Cit and Caitya also are mutually merged within each other as Light and Vimarśa do (Sūtra-13). Vimarśa becomes Light and Light become Vimarśa by nature, hence the Light always has amorous of Vimarśa and Vimarśa always has amorous of Light.

Hence the sūtra means that in the setup of ajāḍa (throbbing) and jaḍa (frigid), the throb dwells in frigidity and frigidity dwells in throb, during three states like Deep-sleep etc. of Cit and Caitya (which are of the form of Light and Vimarśa). Dwelling of

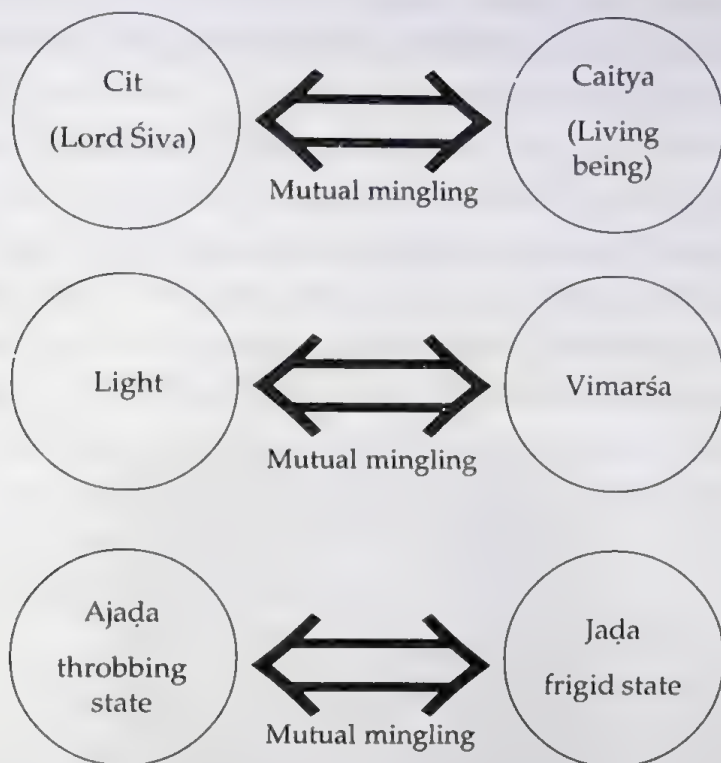

Fig.24: Schematic representation of mutual relation of various stages used by comentator to explain the mutual mingling of Throbbing and frigid state.

Throb of the form Light in frigidity and frigid Vimarśa in Throb of light, happens continuously.

Sūtra says "Caityacityoh" which means first Caitya is used then Cit, this is because first of all living being state arrives due to illusions of māyā, then Cit is used as the Caitya (living being) moves on to become Cit (Lord Śiva). As the movement between Caitya-Cit or Lord Śiva-living being happens in two ways viz.

The description of three states viz. Deep sleep etc. of mutually merged Cit and Caitya happens in two forms.

These unions of the form of evolution and liberation can be understood by visualising Māṭṛkāś situated in Śrī Yantra.

As per the previous Sūtra, the three stages like Deep-sleep state etc. have the dual (throbbing and frigid) nature, because of which they exist in two states (throbbing and frigid).

Lord Śiva and living being move and rest naturally. Caitya and Cit are known as living being and Lord Śiva respectively. Hence the form of three stages like Deep-sleep etc. of Caitya and Cit are also movable and resting as is that of Lord Śiva and living being. Cit and Caitya are synonyms of Light and Vimarśa. Hence Cit and Caitya also are mutually merged within each other as Light and Vimarśa do (Sūtra-13). Vimarśa becomes Light and Light become Vimarśa by nature, hence the Light always has amorous of Vimarśa and Vimarśa always has amorous of Light.

Hence the sūtra means that in the setup of ajāḍa (throbbing) and jaḍa (frigid), the throb dwells in frigidity and frigidity dwells in throb, during three states like Deep-sleep etc. of Cit and Caitya (which are of the form of Light and Vimarśa). Dwelling of

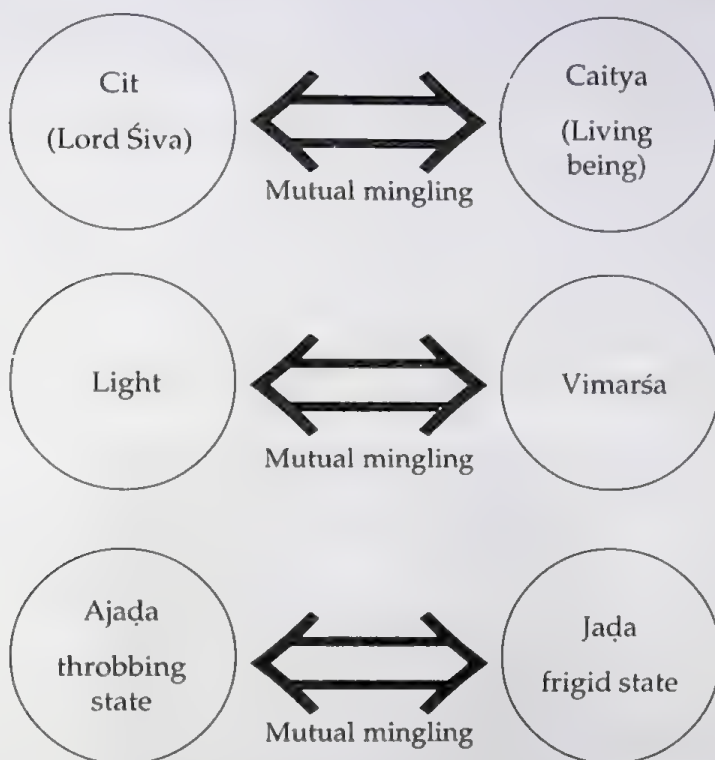

Fig.24: Schematic representation of mutual relation of various stages used by comentator to explain the mutual mingling of Throbbing and frigid state.

Throb of the form Light in frigidity and frigid Vimarśa in Throb of light, happens continuously.

Sūtra says "Caityacityoh" which means first Caitya is used then Cit, this is because first of all living being state arrives due to illusions of māyā, then Cit is used as the Caitya (living being) moves on to become Cit (Lord Śiva). pravṛtti and nivṛtti; hence three stages like Deep-sleep etc. also have two forms viz. jaḍa and ajāḍa.

While studying the position of varmas in Śrī Cakra, the mingling of Lord Śiva and living being with each other becomes clear.

[varma: These are nine triangles of Śrī Yantra, which are mingled with each other.]

The Śrī Yantra which is of the form of sweetheart of Lord Śiva, has nine triangles which are shown as mingled with each other, these mingled nine triangles have special position for Māṭrkās, their attentive

Fig.25: Śrī Yantra with nine triangles mingled with each other are representation of Lord Śiva mingled with living being observation would lead to make one understand the vicinity of Śrī Yantra.

"mūlamanusaṁsthiti" in the sūtra means, each segment out of three segments of Śrī Yantra like caturdaśāra (fourteen petal lotus) have representation of mingled triangles. This mingling means that origin of three stages like Deep-sleep etc, occur sequentially.

[One segment of Śrī Yantra would come after other, also while worshipping Śrī Yantra, seeker worships each layer one by one; this sequence is followed by these stages also. The same is explained above.]

Due to flow of Awaken state, Dream state and Deep-sleep state in regular and reverse order occur one by one as per pravṛtti (evolution) and nivṛtti (liberation), the exposition of mingled stages of Lord Śiva and living being (as represented by nine triangles) happens sequentially, the same is known as quivering which is known by studying the arrangement of letters in Śrī Yantra.

इच्छादयः खलु दशास्त्वजडाः शिवस्य ॥२२॥

Desire is Deep-sleep, Dream state is Knowledge and Awaken state is Action during Frigid state or living being state.

Awaken state, Dream state and Deep-sleep state are Desire, Knowledge and Action of Śiva during Fourth state.

As per samaya principle's opinion, Mātrkā Mantra's arrangement is done as vivṛtti, īśat-sprṣṭi, sprṣṭi, īśat-vivṛtti and vivṛtti, which from Suṣupti (Deep-sleep state) to Jāgrata (Awaken state) stage is representation of Lord Śiva's complete contraction during evolution and from Awaken state to Deep-sleep state as a representation of liberation of living being and rejection of contraction to become Lord Śiva during cessation. Hence in order to make understand the samaya principle by the help of Māṭṛkā Mantra Dream state is said to be Desire etc.

Movement of Deep-sleep state is indiscriminating. Deep-sleep state is Desire. Knowledge arises within hence Knowledge is Dream state and Awaken state is reason for Desire of frigid living being hence it is called Action, during evolution.

Previously Awaken state, Dream state and Deep-sleep state were said to be Fourth state together, hence indiscriminating Awaken, Dream and Deep-sleep states are defined as desire, knowledge and action of Lord Śiva, during liberation.

Lord Śiva had been represented as directed towards world, hence calling Fourth state of Lord Śiva to be stage of liberation may create doubts because living being who is directed towards liberation experiences Fourth state hence Fourth state must be called as the stage which is related to living being. The clarification against doubt is, "Living Being directed towards liberation is called as Lord Śiva and Lord Śiva directed towards the world must be called as living being." Hence the writer's thoughts to call Fourth state as stage of Lord Śiva is correct.

पुर्वसुषुप्तिपदमध्यमुपैति जाग्रन् मध्यात्तमृच्छति परस्तु सुषुप्तिमध्यात् ॥ 23 ॥

As per opinion of Gurus of cult Bindu is introvert and Visarga is extrovert.

As per previous discussion during the movement of liberation Bindu moves from the mid of Awaken state and enters in the mid of Deep-sleep state.

Lord Śiva's introvert and living being's extrovert nature was highlighted in previous sūtra; now Bindu's and Visarga's introvert and extrovert natures are bestowed in this sūtra. As per the Gurus of cult, the nature of Bindu had been told to be introvert and the nature of Visarga has been told to be extrovert. Their nature had already been told to be resting and moving respectively, hence there is no need to reiterate it here.

The essence of above statement is that a Bindu enters in the mid-Deep-sleep state while moving from mid-Awaken state during movement of liberation.

Mid Stage

Awaken state, Dream state and Deep-sleep state each can be divided into two, frigid and throbbing stages; stage lying between the frigid stage and throbbing stage is known as mid stage called sandhi (conjunction). This means a stage famous as frigid awaken when ends Forth stage is experienced, during ajāḍa (throbbing) jāgrata there is one more stage called mid-Awaken state. Similarly after the end of throbbing Deep-sleep state before the start of frigid Deep-sleep, there is one more stage called mid-Deep sleep.

As per the above definition of introvert movement of Bindu: During the movement of liberation, Bindu moves from mid-Awaken state (first step of throbbing Awaken state) to mid Deep-Sleep state (first step of frigid Deep-sleep).

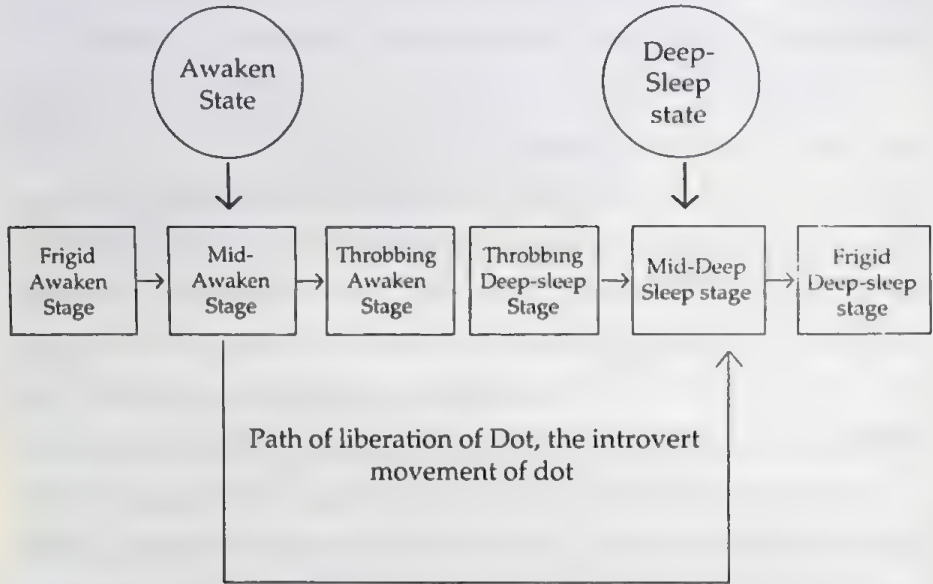

Fig. 26: Path of liberation of Bindu the introvert movement of Bindu

As per the last a few words of sūtra, the meaning of extrovert movement of Visarga means while being in Visarga stage Bindu moves from mid-Deep-sleep state to mid-Awaken state. Here the mid-Deep Sleep means: first step of frigid Deep-sleep right after throbbing Deep-sleep. This way, the Bindu moves from the mid-Deep-sleep state (between last stage of throbbing Deep-sleep state and first step of frigid-Deep-sleep state) to the last stage of frigid Awaken state while being Visarga. This is extrovert movement of Visarga.

State of Lord Śiva of the form of liberation is first step of Awaken state.

तस्मात्प्रवृत्ति विनिवृत्तिमयोभयार्थः

स्वप्नः सुषुप्तिरपि जाग्रदपीतिगोप्यम् ।

भेदानि भेदमय जीवशिवाङ्गकानां

षण्णां विमिश्रणमिदं प्रकृतिर्दशानाम् ॥ 25 ॥

Dream state, Deep-sleep state and Awaken state are of two types each because of pravṛtti and nivṛtti.

These (pravṛtti and nivṛtti) are the form of stages of Living being and Śiva which mingle within each other by the virtue of their nature.

As each state has two parts pravṛtti and nivṛtti these states (Awaken state etc.) become six. This sūtra bestows the same principle of rahasyamārga.

When the living being attains the liberation, it is called Lord Śiva; this means Lord Śiva, is called as living being while dwelling in the world. The difference between Lord Śiva and living being is not real, this difference is due to the difference in the stages of their presence, hence here is the interpretation of unity of Lord Śiva and living being. This unification at the level of Prakāśa and Vimarśa is also correct. Hence the unity between the process of pravṛtti and nivṛtti also is proved; as there is unity between pravṛtti and nivṛtti, the processes on paths of pravṛtti and nivṛtti are same. If they would be considered as two then, another source for liberation from pravṛtti would have to be searched; in that case the present complete form of liberation would be spoiled, hence in that case considering the liberation and evolution as one would be correct.

Hence by the above statement, nivṛtti form of pravṛtti formed Awaken state, Dream state and Deep-sleep state is clear. Hence considering two forms of each stage is ok. These two stages (Lord Śiva-living being) are two lines of thoughts. This has been preached on the basis of pre-set principle.

Hence as per above statement Dream, Deep-sleep and Awaken states have two forms pravṛtti and nivṛtti, this is rahasyamārga (way).

As all the stages have two forms, there are total six forms of the stages of Lord Śiva and living being.

These pravṛtti and nivṛtti are mingled with each other. Which means, stages of pravṛtti and nivṛtti are mixed with each other. This means Śakti resides within Lord Śiva and Lord Śiva reside within Śakti. If this is true, then it is also true that two forms of stages like Awaken etc. also dwell within each other.

The union of Śiva and living being is clearly visible in Śrī Yantra-the eternal form of Goddess, which has aṣṭakoṇa, pañktyasrayugma and manukoṇa of the form of Dream state, Awaken state and Deep-sleep state.

As stages like Awaken etc. are told be discriminating and indiscriminating both, they are said to be of two types. Hence in this sūtra, writer explains these stages using Śrī Yantra which in itself is reflection of these stages. Dream state is represented by Aṣṭakoṇa (octagon), Awaken state is represented by Pañktyasra daśārayugma (two ten petal lotuses) and Deep-sleep state is represented by manukoṇa or caturdaśāra (Tetradecagon).

Pañktyasra daśāra yugma representative of Awaken state; Ka to Na

Aṣṭakoṇa: Representative of Dream state; letters Ya to Ha

Manukoṇa:
Representative of Deep sleep state; letters from A to Au

Fig.28: Representation of three stages on Śrī Yantra

Representation of kalā, māyā, Śuddha-vidyā, Īśvara, Sadāśiva, āñjī, vyāpakā and Śakti named eight elements of Dream state is done by Ya, Ra, La, Va, Śa, Ṣa, Sa and Ha. Hence lettered octagon of Śrī Yantra is representation of Dream state.

Awaken state consists of twenty elements from prthvī to Śrotra represented by letters from Ka to Na. Hence pañcamahābhūta, pañcatanamātrā, karmendriya and jñānendriya are represented in Śrī Yantra by couple of decagons.

Fourteen vowels A to Aau are represented by caturdaśāra.

Hence the union of living being and Lord Śiva in Goddess of all Yantras, skandhatryātmaka Śrī Yantra (Śrī Yantra with three sections) is very clearly visible. It means union of Lord Śiva with living being only exists from octagon to Tetradecagon. The union of two triangles visible in Śrī Cakra also is representation of union of Lord Śiva and living being during Dream state where the stage also is of two types frigid and throbbing.

Writer of sūtra represents each section of Yantra with one stage whereas the set principle says that one triangle must be represented by three stages not merely one. This doubt is baseless, as the three stages are trinity like Ichhā, Jñāna and kriyā which are eternally one; hence be it any stage it has effect of other stages also.

There is no other way to know the true form of Deity other than knowing Mantra form of Deity. Hence the meaning of Mantra obtained from Mātrkā Cakra must not be doubted. It means the letters have been so arranged that the real form the Supreme Power may be known exactly. Hence the form of Mother the power can only be known through alphabet and not by any other way.

Deep-sleep state is frigid like moon, Awaken is like Sun which throbs and Dream state is fire but during the stage of empirical living being it is Sun and they all are fire during Śiva stage.

ŚrīMāṭṛkā Cakra has been redevised into svara, sparśa and vyāpaka words, where vyāpaka has both antastha and ūśmāṇa letters from Ya to Ha in it. Svara, sparśa and vyāpaka stages are proved to be Moon, Sun and Fire.

[Svara: Vowels like A, Ā, I, Ī, U and “Ū do not change their shape, hence are called rigid like moon.

Sparśa: Ka to Ma are called Sun because they are like active Sun and splendour the world, these letters associate with each other in various ways to form a shape.

Vyāpaka: It is composition of antastha ūśmāṇa letters which means the group which has heat (ūśmā) and the letters which are between the svara and sparśa respectively, hence they are represented by fire.]

Deep-sleep is frigid and Moon is also frigid, hence Deep-sleep and Moon are said to be one due to their nature. The nature of reason and action are same. Brahmāṇḍa (Universe) is said to be the reason for piṇḍāṇḍa (body) and piṇḍāṇḍa is said to be reason for brahmāṇḍa hence being reason of each other these two have same nature. Due to this, Moon of brahmāṇḍa which is frigid by nature is known as Deep-sleep in piṇḍāṇḍa.

This mortal world or vedya is merely heated due to the cidātmaktā (eternal knowledge). This means due to cidātmaktā, the heat of Light only (and not the one who is burning) in Deep-sleep is captured by the frigidity. This is because of the acquisition of contraction by ajada. Hence due to cidātmaktā, the Light which is set by the trend of heating in Deep-sleep state behaves like Sun in Awaken state hence Awaken state is like that of Sun.

Light has dual nature:

1. To be self-heated.
2. To heat

In Deep-sleep state, as only heating quality of light is effective the splendour of Awaken state is limited. In this stage the Sun illuminates the extrinsic world only. Sun does not have capacity to enlighten the wisdom of soul which the Fire has.

[He wants to say that internal heat splendour is diminished by rigidity in Deep-sleep. That's why only one nature of Light is expressed in Awaken state, which is to splendour the extrinsic world. As the sun illuminates the extrinsic world it resembles with Awaken state.]

The living being in Dream state dwells in the thoughts within, hence Dream state is known as Fire but the Dream state raised this way from fire is like Sun only during evolution. The reason for it is that although the dreams are visualised within during paśudaśā (in the state of empirical living being) but due to illusion they seem to be the exploration of extrinsic world. This way it is proved by experience that Dream state is also of the form of Sun like Awaken state.

All three states like Deep sleep etc. are of the form of Fire during the stage of Lord Śiva. During this stage, all three states become prime and omnipresent and the world merges within this unity hence Fire form is contemplated in the being of Śivatva (Stage of Lord Śiva).

The limit of quivering of discrimination of a living being is Awaken state in which the self-respect of living being is placed firmly.

When Śambhu is deliberated between the equally-mid stage of Awaken state and Deep-sleep state; Awaken state and Deep-sleep state become free of jāḍya impurity.

Caitya is the one who tries to know the meaning of Mantra for the sake of establishing his self-respect in three stages of Lord Śiva and living being everywhere or wherever.

The maximum limit of discriminating throb of Caitya is Awaken state in which there is stable place of self-respect of a living being. Sparśa letters are indicator of Awaken state, its last limit is Ma, hence it is a sign that Ma is the place of jīvakalā.

When the Śāmbhava element is deliberated, Awaken and Deep-sleep states get the rid of jāḍya (frigid) impurity; this means that during Vimarśa (deliberation) of Śāmbhava both Awaken state and Deep-sleep states seem to be one. Hence due to inherence of vikalpāvikalpa (multiple tendencies and no tendencies) at the equatorial point between the Awaken state and Deep-sleep state; the Awaken state is stage with multiple tendencies and Deep-sleep state is nirvikalpa stage. This Śāmbhavī stage where one does not find any discrimination is known as tūrīya state. This is represented by 'Kṣa' and is said to be the place of Śiva kalā.

Moon is pramātā, Fire is prameya and Sun is pramāṇa in paśu daśā (state of Empirical living being)

Fire is pramātā, Moon is prameya and jñānāgrya-sūrya (Knowledge primal Sun) is pramāṇa in the state of Śiva.

As Awaken state is mentioned between the Deep-sleep state and Dream state here, the Awaken state is called mid-Awaken state.

In this Sūtra pramātā, pramāṇa and prameya stages of Lord Śiva and living being, situated in mid-Awaken state are said to be of the form of Moon, Sun and Fire.

In empirical living being stage, Moon is said to be pramātā. The crescent moon of vowels (ardha candra of ॐ) is Moon. Moon of the form of vedya dwells in the in Empirical living being hence Moon is pramātā.

Prameya is said to be Fire. Ya, Ra, La and Va the half of vyāpaka (or antastha letters) section are known as Fire. Fire is called prameya because of existence of Vedaka (Knower) in empirical living being.

Sun whose representation is of the form of half vedya part of sparśa (Ka to Ca) is said to be pramāṇa. Mixture of Vedaka and vedya is known as pramāṇa. In that case Vedaka is established and vedya is prime. In empirical state Action is prime; hence in Sun's pramāṇa stage, the Action or vedya is prime.

S. No.	Letter	Representation of elements of creation	vedya /Vedaka
1	Ka	pañcamahābhūta (Earth, Water, Fire, Sky and Air)	vedya
2	Ca	pañcatanmatrā (Word, taste, touch, form and smell)	vedya
3	Ṭa	karmendriya (Sense of action)	Vedaka
4	Ta	jñānendriya (Sense of knowledge)	Vedaka

[Hence from the table, "Knower wants to know!" This relation is said to be mixture of vedya and Vedaka. Vedya is prime because the effort is done by them and from them, where Vedaka are merely the sense of organs which raise the Desire. As action is prime in Empirical state, which is done by body made of Fire etc. to attain taste etc. it is said that vedya is prime. Hence in empirical state action aspect of Sun is prime]

Fig.29: State of jāgranmadhyamārga
(Awaken as mid stage) in Empirical living being

In the state of Lord Śiva, movement of Awaken states etc. is inclinatory, hence the one who is pramātā in Awaken state, becomes prameya i.e. Fire becomes pramātā and Vedaka-Moon's pervasion becomes pervasiveness and it becomes prameya.

As knowledge is prime and not Action in the state of liberation called Śiva stage, Awaken state known as Sun which is also known as turya-ravi becomes pramāṇa. Sun's Vedaka stage is prime and vedya becomes secondary. Lord Śiva is felt in Fourth stage which is stage of knowledge, hence the Sun of pramāṇa form is called as turya-ravi.

[Hence in Lord Śiva stage knowledge aspect of Sun is prime.]

(Awaken as mid stage) in Lord Śiva

The fridity of pramāṇa state of Caitya-pramātā enlightens the Cit. This means Caitya gives life to Cit however during this state the complete eradication of Cit is not possible, its sense still survives.

This sūtra deals with the reasons behind discriminative nature of Vimarśa-vedya-pramātā. Caitya-pramātā's frigidness of pramāṇa stage, enlightens the Cit-pramāṇa.

The stage of Lord Śiva is full of Cit element, the frigid is enlightened in this stage by sources of knowledge like cidātmaka (of Lord Śiva the omniscient) ear. In paśudasā (empirical stage) reverse of it happens, during this stage, the empirical soul is prime and hence the visible knowledge is of fridity and the empirical soul ties the Lord Śiva by the help of sound etc. of its nature.

[It means that Lord Śiva is covered by the illusions of frigid world.]

This means the dharmī the Cit is tied up in the bonds of dharma of empirical living being and Cit vanishes hence during empirical state the estate of Cit is known by the pramāṇa of the form of Caitya but this merger is not complete; as is the dissolution of Caitya in Cit, during pervasion of Lord Śiva because the base of existence of Caitya is Cit.

[Dharmī: The follower. Dhamra: The virtue or set of rules to be followed.]

If in case it is considered that there is no existence of Cit, then existence of Caitya would also be a farce, due to the lack of investigator of existence of Caitya in the system the non-existence of the form of Caitya would also be sure.

[Writer means to say that an unreal can't exist without eternal.]

Hence existence of Cit will always be their in Caitya.

Hence in Visarga's state, as the Cit does not completely merge within Caitya both Cit and Caitya exist hence it is proved that the state of Caitya is discriminative.

मोहेन कल्पयति मातृदशाममुष्या
व्याप्तिर्हि मातृपद लक्षणतोपपन्ना ॥३१॥

Here the writer of sūtra clarifies the previous sūtra.

Cit is pramātā in the state of Śiva and in empirical state so is Caitya. In this case Caitya must be Vimarśavāna (reflective) as it is full of mātr̥bhāva (self-pervasiveness) but it is not because of its frigidity. In this state also Cit only is reflective by nature.

As the Caitya is said to be not-reflective, pūrva-pakṣa (opponent-cult) raises a doubt that it would correct to set Cit as pramātā in empirical state; this doubt is baseless because the pūrva-pakṣa has not thought upon the fact that pramātā is the one which has māṭṛbhāva and not the one which is reflective. Pervasiveness is attribute of pramātā not the Vimarśa. In that case accepting Caitya as pramātā is logically acceptable.

In the state of Caitya, reflective Cit dwells in pride of its pervasiveness but it is not pervasive hence it is not pramātā, that's why the doubt of set-cult is baseless.

[As reflection is property of Cit, it thinks that it only is pervading and hence it thinks that it is pramātā; as per principle, it is not true.]

Actually this cult believes that both Śiva and empirical living being together are eligible for being worshipped which would be explained later, it considers the primacy of Caitya also otherwise be it Cit or Caitya both are the form Lord Śiva only.]

मानं तृतीयपदभागपि बाह्यतस्तु

मिश्रं हि मध्यमपदे निखिलस्य दृष्टं

द्वैरूप्यमस्य च नपुंसकता च धाम्नः ॥ ३२ ॥

Although the pramāṇa is eligible for the third position but being the mixture of prameya and pramātā, it sits on mid-position. Being mixture of the two, it in itself is mid-position and has dual nature that's why it has neuter tendency.

It is said that Awaken state is represented by sparśa class (Ka to Ma), hence it is denoted by Sun. Pramāṇa stage is mixture of prameya and pramātā stages in that case the third position of Awaken state during empirical living being's state is self-proven. In that case the statement of Sūtra-31 seems to be doubtful, this Sūtra clarifies the same doubt.

Although pramāṇa is eligible for the third position but the free form of prameya and pramāṇa in mid-resting position (svapna-madhya), is self-proven and takeover pervasive nature of each other externally; due to this, pramāṇa rises to second position from third position.

[Pramāṇa is mixture of prameya and pramātā.]

During state of liberation, the pervasion of prameya and pramātā over each other doesn't happen; when they move to pervade each other externally, the dualistic pramāṇa stage originates. Hence, due to rise on second stage externally pramāṇa posed on third place rises to second place.

It is said using 'bāhyatastu' in sūtra which means, "Pramāṇa sits on third position intrinsically and on second place extrinsically."

Pramāṇa is mixture of prameya and pramātā. Here prameya adopts nature of pramātā and pramātā adopts the nature of prameya; due to this adoption of nature of each other, the mid stage is confluence stage.

In principle, mixed stage is mid-stage, the confluence of day and night is called twilight and hence calling pramāṇa, the mixture of prameya and pramātā is suitable. Mid stage of the form of prameya and pramātā is of dual nature. Prameya and pramātā are of the form of Lord Śiva and Śakti, hence having nature of both male and female it is called neuter, hence this stage is called neuter.

Image arises when the rays arise, hence the Visarga within vowel class are moon.

The confined Bindu within 'Ka' class of alphabet are Sun and the same in 'Ya' class is like fire. Hence Moon, Sun and Fire dwell in three classes of vowel, 'Ka' and 'Ya'.

First the rays rise then image follows it. It is accepted by majority of erudite that first avayava (a part) takes birth then the avayavī (complete body); hence Aḥ in vowel class is said to be Moon. The pronunciation of A to Am the first fifteen vowels before Aḥ is destined, this primal pronunciation (of first fifteen vowels) is symbolic to the first rise which is the giver of Candra kalā in first fifteen vowels. This means being exposed first, vowels from A to Am are fifteen kalā of the form of vowel avayava. Hence the reason for kalāttva (measurability) in A to Am is due to their first pronunciation. Hence A to Am are fifteen avayavakalās and sixteenth kalā is Aḥ which is denoted as image or Moon.

[A to Am are constituents which when come together they form 'Aḥ'. As fifteen vowel come first in alphabetical order they are said to be avayava, their image is 'Aḥ'. As the moon is enlightened by Sun 'Aḥ' is said to be like Moon.]

On the basis of same principle, arrangement of kalā and image in sparśa (Ka to Ma) and vyāpaka letters had been explained.

In the group of sparśa letters which start from 'Ka', four letters from Pa to Bha have been represented as Sun with two types of kalā which are avayava and avayavī, due to limitation in Bindu with mixed nature of mixed pramātā and prameya; where the Sun is Lord of this class.

S.No.	Letter/Lord	avayava (Limb) of class	Bimba (Image)
1	svara / Moon	A to Am	Aḥ
2	sparśa / Sun	Ka to Na	Pa to Ma

Tab.2: Various classes of letters, Lord of class and their further classifications

Being composed of pramātā and prameya, Sun has dual nature. Sun has twelve kalās, hence here two letters of clasp class join together to make one kalā. Ka to Na join together to make ten kalās of the form pramātā and prameya and Pa to Bha merge with each other to form ekādaśamī (eleventh) and dvādaśamī (twelfth) pramāṇakalās which is mixture of pramātā and prameya.

As mentioned above, first avayava is manifested then avayavī etc. hence first ka to Na is pronounced and then Pa to Bha. Hence ten kalās of Sun, originated from Ka to Na are avayava and ekādaśamī and dvādaśamī pramāṇakalās originate from Pa to Bha are imagery kalās.

As per above principle, esteemed Bindu in Ya, Ra, La and Va comprising vyāpaka class is fire which is Lord of the class and further the imagery and kalā are explained.

It is proved from the vowels, sparsā and vyāpaka letters arranged over three sections of Māṭṛkā Cakra are the form of Moon, Sun and Fire.

Its central idea is, "As established earlier, the way Bindu or kṣa's form is told in mid-Dream state. In the same way, amalgamation of Bināu (the representative of Cit) with Visarga (the representative of Caitya), in svara, sparsā and vyāpaka (which again are representative of Deep-sleep etc.) within mid-Awaken state is manifested. This is mentioned as below:

1. Pronunciation of ekamātrātmaka (single unit, lower node of vowel) a happens before dvimātrātmaka (double unit, higher node of vowel) ā; similarly i before ī; u before ū; ṛ before ṛk; ḷ before ḷk; e before ai; o before au and a before aḥ means first single unit vowels (the representative of Bindu) would appear then double unit vowels (the representation of Vimarśa). These single unit vowels show that kalā of Bindu are present in the intrinsic world, whereas double unit vowels show that Vimarśakalā are present in extrinsic world. This representation of Bindu and Vimarśa in intrinsic and extrinsic world respectively means Vimarśa is situated outside and Bindu is situated within. This means Lord Śiva only dwells within Śakti; hence these are stages of Śakti which represent Caitya.

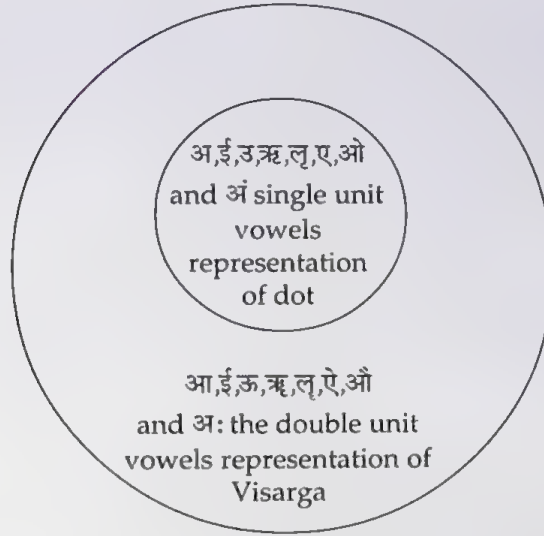

Fig.31: Single unit vowel of the form of Śiva reside in double unit vowel Śakti the Caitya

2. Second stage is of throbbing dream, this is representation of vyāpaka class. Vyāpaka class comprises of Ya-class (īśatsprṣṭa) and Śa class (īśatvivṛtta). Ya-class is bheda pramāṭṛ (discrimination pervades) by nature hence it is representation of Visargakalā. Śa being īśatvivṛtta is abheda pramāṭṛ (indiscrimination pervades) and is representation of Bindukalā. Hence Ma being discriminative in nature is of the form of Visarga (the Lord of discriminative class) and Kśa being of indiscriminative in nature is of the class of Bindu (the Lord of indiscriminative form).

Here first Ya class is pronounced then Śa class, this means first one is internally exposed and second one is externally exposed. This means in this state Visarga rests with in Bindu.

Dreams of the form of aṇḍa viśrānti (throbbing rest) are discriminative in nature, hence in this state also Lord Śiva rests in Śakti however as Vimarśa rests within Bindu, here Śiva element is prime, hence it is exalted state.

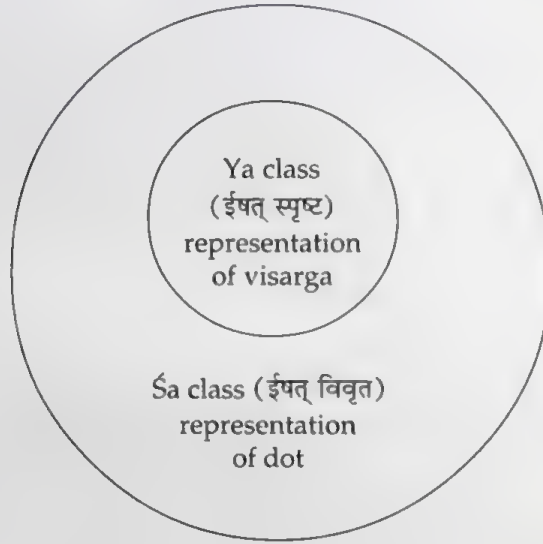

Fig.32: Explaining the vyāpaka letters and their position; Lord Śiva is prime in spite of the fact that everything lies within Śakti, where Visarga means Visarga

After explaining the position of Bindu and Visarga in frigid Deep-sleep and Dream state on the stage of ajāḍa viśrānti (throbbing rest), he now discusses about the position of Bindu and Visarga in Awaken state:

3. Critic mentions the Awaken state as acceptor of each other (viśaya and karana), the indicator of this class is sparśa class:

- ka section- Representative of five elements: Earth, water, fire, air and space; of the form of Visarga.
- ca section- Representation of pañcatanmatrās smell, taste, view, touch and hearing; of the form of Visarga.

- ṭa section: Representation of pañca kāmendriya: exerting, sexing, grasping, moving and speaking; of the form of Bindu.
- ta section: Representation of pañcajñānedriya Smelling, Tasting, Seeing, Feeling and Hearing; of the form of Bindu.

Fives elements and tanmātrās are collectively known as viśaya (subject). Ten senses of organ together are known as karaṇa. They both mingle with each other in Awaken state and appear to be one in Awaken state hence it is said that they accept each other. In this stage ten senses and ten karaṇa when come together they form the ten rays of Sun.

[karaṇa: It is organ of sense or an instrument of an action. Here it is the one which ensures what reflex would be given to any observation through ten extrinsic constarints the ten organs of senses along with three intrinsic parameters of it which are mana buddhi (intellect) and ahaṁkāra (arrogance)]

Here ka and ca family is prime this is because of their nature which describe acceptance of the senses. First vedya pervades then Vedaka. First Lord Śiva moves to become animal then from animal he becomes Śiva again. As Deep-sleep state and Dream state are resting stages; hurling of Bindu and Visarga is fit.

[It is tendency of all elements to attain the rest or to move towards the point of lesser entropy.]

This means, in sparśa family, during exposition of ka to na it is seen that both Bindu and Visarga are prime and their unified and highly mingled form is exposed during the rest.

After explaining ka to na in sparśa family, pa to bha is explained. Bindukalā and Visargakala formed from two letters each of this set show that both Bindu and Visarga are Lord of this class. Composition of pramātā and prameya form pramāṇa hence Bindu and Visarga two kalās are pramāṇakalā.

First exposition of vedya during pravṛtti means, there is pervasion of Vimarśa in all three sections (of Śrī Yantra). First exposition of Vedaka during niṣṛtti would mean, there is pervasion of Bindu.

While reciting the three sections of Mātrkā in regular order, Moon (vowels) coverts into Fire (vyāpaka) and while reciting the same in reverse order Fire converts into Moon.

This way, the recitation of Mātrkā in regular and reverse order reveal the overstepping of Caitya and Cit or Visarga and Bindu over each other. In regular order overstepping of Caitya over Cit is shown and in reverse order it is overstepping of Cit over Caitya shown.

In regular order Caitya is prime and in reverse order Cit is prime.

स्वप्नश्च जाग्रदपि वासरपूर्वयामौ

Dream state and Awaken states are two yāmas of first half of the day. Fourth state (with two yāmas is second half of the day. Fourth state has with Dream state and Awaken state of first-half, that's why the second half of the day would also have two yāmas of the day which are, turya-Jāgrata (initial stage of liberation) and turya-svapna (fourth yāma of the day).

Dream state is in the mid of the sequence of Deep-sleep state, Dream state and Awaken state. Hence this sequence of stage is called svapnamadhyamārga. This Sūtra has description of various stages which revolve again and again around svapnamadhyamārga.

[Here is the discussion in the sequence, where Lord Śiva is moving on to become living being.]

The time of the form of ahorātra has eight yāmas. Dream state is enforced during Deep-sleep state, hence the first yāma of the day is Dream state. As the Awaken state is enforced after the Dream state and due to peak of pramāṇa formed discrimination in the form of grāhaka (acceptor), hence Awaken state is called the second yāma. This way Dream and Awakens state are the first half of the day.

[Ahorātra: A day has two ahorātras, Day and night; here we are discussing about the day only.]

Yāma: A day has eight yāmas, this means each would have three hours.]

Fourth state is second half of the day. Fourth state comprises of just passed on Awaken state and Dream state, hence the Fourth state also has two yāmas; amongst which turya-jāgrata (Awaken state with essence of Turya) state is third yāma of the day because it is initial stage of liberation and the turya-svapna (Dream state with essence of Turya) is fourth yāma.

The discriminative nature of Sun is liberated during the turya-jāgrata state hence the turya-svapna stage is said to be the fourth yāma of the day.

[Now the Sūtra talks about night and its relation with stages.]

The land of withdrawal of above mentioned Fourth state (which arose from just passed, Awaken state and Dream state) is Deep-sleep state. Being the reason behind origin of all the stages, Deep-sleep state is the resting place of various discriminating and indiscriminating stages, hence the first two yāmas of or first half of night are resting turya-jāgrata stage and resting turya-svapna stages respectively.

Dreaming and Awaken states dwell in Deep-sleep state during the second half of night. Resting Dream-state and resting Awaken state are third and fourth yāma of night.

This principle-the soul of Mantra is expounded on the basis of consistent experience and after learning the (related) theorems by heart.

As the topic concludes here, the reason for the origin of epic and its name is revealed.

[Below mentioned is not the part of sūtra, this is prepounded by the commentator.]

Māṭṛkā has two meanings in Tantra:

1. Māṭṛkā means Māṭṛkā Śakti (Mother force).
2. Māṭṛkācakra (Yantra).
3. Sanskrit alphabet (not given in commentary but is added to make the line of thought more clear.)

From Māṭṛkā Cakra Viveka, both meanings are accepted. The Cakra formed by the association of *Māṭṛkā*s (letters) is known as Māṭṛkācakra (Cakra of letters) or else it may be said that *Māṭṛkā*s only are present as the Cakra.

A manvasra (A fourteen leaves lotus) is situated with-in Śrī Yantra. Letters from a to au are shown on this manvasra. All single node vowels i.e. a, i, u, ṛ, lṛ, e and au known as Bindu, are situated on one side of manvasra and ā, ī, ū, ṛk, lṛk, ai and au known as Visarga, are situated on the other side of it. These are situated on the inner side of the corners of manvasra. These vowels are called caturdaśadala (fourteen leaves lotus).

A sixteen petal lotus circumscribed on the circle is shown in Śrī Yantra. Fourteen letters of vowel used above along with aṁ and aḥ are total sixteen and out of these sixteen vowels eight are low node vowels called Bindu and eight high node vowels called Visarga. The petals with letters of Bindu series are called image and Fire and the petals with letters of Vimarśa series are called Moon. This way Bindu and Visarga along with fourteen vowels of caturdaśāra are present in ṣodaśāra.

When Visarga is prime Bindu lies within Visarga and when the Bindu is prime Visarga lies within Bindu. That's why the exposition of Bindu and Visarga in both external and internal parts of Cakra (in both caturdaśāra and ṣodaśāra) is correct.

There are two daśāracakras (ten petal lotus) with twenty letters of ka class, ca class, ṭa class and ta class. Pa, pha, ba and bha are shown in the quadrilateral just outside the outer daśāracakra. These pa, pha, ba and bha represent prakṛti, ahamkāra, buddhi and mana elements amongst the thirty-six elements of creation.

[Now the commentator gives his own opinion on the position of ka class.]

Above mentioned meaning of daśārayugma (A couple of ten petal lotus) and a quadrilateral is conventional but as per the opinion of the commentator there is one more meaning of it.

There are twenty-four letters from ka to bha sparśa letters, out of which from ka to ṭha (placed in regular order) there are twelve vedya letters and from bha to ḍa there are twelve Vedaka letters. When vedya and Vedaka are joined together twelve kalās originate (ka, bha; kha, ba and ga, pha etc.) amongst these first two are imagery and rest are avayava, the placement of them on the corners would be good as they would reveal the relationship between Vedya and Vedaka.

Then there is aṣṭāra (eight petal lotus). In this, on one side ya, ra, la and va are placed and on other side śa to ha are placed. A triangle and Bindu is placed inside aṣṭāra, in which ma is representative of living being amalgamated with three qualities viz. sata, raja and tama and kṣa is the representative of Lord Śiva the one who is above all qualities; reside. Lord Śiva and living being pervade each other that's why the ma and kṣa are shown together in the last and central point of Cakra. This process of assemblage of letters seems to be virgin hence it has been slightly opened.

Erudite have disclosed the meaning of Mantra using the assemblage of Māṭṛkās in Māṭṛkācakra but then also there is lack of specific meaning hence this process to explain the meaning of letters is blameless. This is why the Cakra with nine triangles only is Māṭṛkā Cakra, this is a secret. This composition is viveka of Māṭṛkā Cakra and this entire topic is theorem of this action.-35

Indra's wisdom was hallucinated while explaining the meaning of Māṭṛkās but this statement in the case of judgement of caturdaśāra and daśāra yugma is not correct. Ten kalās out of twelve kalās of Sun are of the form of avayava which again is the form of world. Eight kalās in the octagon are of the form of avayava of Fire; hence this is judgment of kalās.

The exposition of a quadrilateral outside the caturdaśāra is not merely an inattention. I have invented the union of pramātā and mantrāvayava (catuśkona and daśāradvya) based on Samaya principle the way someone fathers a children while being able to play with his organs. This principle is not available elsewhere though it is merely not an inattention, hence it is not for blame; it is for worship.

The Judgement of Sleep

माया बलात्प्रथम भासि जडस्वभावं
विद्योदयादथ विकस्वर चिन्मयत्वम्।
सुप्त्याह्वयं किमपि विश्रमणं बिभाति
चित्रक्रमं चिदचिदेक रसस्वभावम्॥१॥

First jaḍa nature is revealed due to the effect of māyā and then ajaḍa nature is revealed by the effect of Vidyā during the movement for rest in Deep-sleep states of the form of both Cit and Acit; the way it happens in a picture.

In order to explain three sections of Māṭṛkā Mantra in Deep-sleep state, Dream state, Awaken state, Fourth state and turātīta state; first Deep-sleep state (the seed of entire creation) is explained in detail in its vowel section, which has wonder of both jaḍa and ajaḍa. This is done because Lord Śiva and Living being initially rest in this state.

The way elephant and bull are picturised in a painting without any categorization; Cit and Acit elements both dwell together in Deep-sleep state; an unutterable resting stage called Deep-sleep arises which has jaḍa and ajaḍa both together in a unified way.

The imitation of Bindu and Visarga as jaḍa and ajaḍa is shown the way cohesion of elephant and bull is shown in one painting. The frigidity of painting is used as adjective to show frigidity in Deep-sleep state.

The expression of feeling, "I slept well" is done in the end of Deep-sleep state. Hence this way the frigidity is exposed by the above mentioned thought. Citra word also mean, "Amazing." Here commentator has used that meaning also. Concurrence of jaḍa and ajaḍa the opposite elements together is amazing.

[Citra: This word means, "Painting and Amazing."]

Being flashing first in extrinsic world; māyā is exposed after the vidyā. It would had been correct procedure to explain vidyā first, however the writer of Sūtra has told māyā to be much stronger than vidyā. This is because vidyā resides within māyā during extrovert exposure.

[I maintain that be it whatever situation, vidyā is stronger than māyā. Even if sun is covered by clouds for a while clouds can't be considered stronger than Sun.]

Hence writer of Sūtra says, "At first jaḍa is exposed due to māyā and then ajaḍa is exposed due to vidyā."

[This could have been explained in a different manner, "Although the Vidyā is stronger but in extrinsic exposition, first māyā related elements are exposed. This happens because Vidyā is situated within māyā. Once the māyā elements are revealed Vidyā elements are exposed. This is similar to great ocean churn in which first poison was extracted and then elixir. Here extrinsic exposition means, the stage in which Lord Śiva dwells as living being.]

The most wonderful fact here is that due to the concurrence in Cit, jaḍa and ajaḍa both exist together while being mingled with each other.

The experience of occurrence of copulation due to coherence in "icchā, jñāna and kriyā" the form of jaḍa and ajaḍa is known by Māṭṛkā Mantra. Hence concurrence, spanda dvaya (jaḍa and ajaḍa) and copulation (of jaḍa and ajaḍa) in Deep-sleep state is perceptible. Due to this copulation in jaḍa and ajaḍa, the arrangement of order in icchā, jñāna and kriyā is not decided. Hence such sequence is not perceptible in the section of Mantras also. Hence there is no such sequence in three sections of Māṭṛkā Cakra like caturdaśāra etc. also. The process of sequence (first, second and third) etc. had already been discussed earlier to establish primacy within components of skandhatraya (In Chapter-1).

[skandhatraya: Deep-sleep state, Dream state and Awaken state.]

Stage originated by the confluence of Sky and horizon is pramātā, confluence of Air and fire is pramāṇa stage and Water and earth is prameya.

Sky, air and water are jñāna elements and horizon, fire and earth are kriyā elements.

writer of sūtra writes the preface on the judgment of vowels and says that all letters are the form of five elements (Sky, water, air earth and fire).

Gross earth and sky are the subject of self-conceit of being pramātr, hence the confluence of sky and horizon is said to be pramātā. As pramātā stage is decided, similarly air and fire are pramāṇa and water and earth are prameya, is also proved. The association of prameya etc. with each other is already proved hence all of them are jñāna-kriyātmika (full of knowledge and action force). Classification of above mentioned couple is done. Amongst first couple of sky- kṛiti (kṛiti formed body) first one is jñāna-pramata and second one is kriya-pramata; in second couple air is jñāna-pramata and fire is kriya-pramata and in third couple water is jñāna-prameya earth is kriya-prameya.

The same concept is reiterated by the commentator.

There is existence of jñāna-kriyā in the stages like pramāṇa and prameya. Hence being appropriate, it is described here.

वर्णा खवायु शिखितोयधराः क्रमेण

स्युः कण्ठ तालुक शिरोरदनोष्ठ जाता ।

स्थानोच्चयापचयजौ महदल्पभावौ

स्याद्व्युत्क्रमः पशुपदे सलिलानलादौ ॥३॥

Letters originated by confluence of throat, palate, head, teeth and lips are representatives of sky, air, fire, water and earth elements respectively. Accumulation and diminution of these places of pronunciation of letters are responsible for mighty and downtrodden forms of these five elements. The order of sequence of water etc. reverses during animal stage.

Now the letters associated to the five elements which are of the form of pramātā etc. is told.

The letters are created when the breath hits throat, palate, head, teeth and lips to produce the sound. Hence the nomenclature of these letters are done on the basis of organ used to produce them. Same as per the opinion of grammar is mentioned in a table below:

S. No.	Letters/Class of letters	Nomenclature
1	a, ka-class and ha	Kaṇṭhaja
2	i, ca-class, ya and śa	tāluja
3	ṛ, ṭa-class, ra and ṣa	śirobhava
4	lṛ, ta-class, la and sa	dantaja
5	u, pa-class and va	oṣṭhaja
6	kṣa	Kūtākṣara

Tab-3: Classification of letters as per grammar

Sounds produced in a sequence, from the five places from throat to lips are indicator of sky, air, fire, water and earth. Principally bodhya (to be known) and bodhaka (wants to know) are one. Hence the letters are said to be of the form of five elements by the help of treatment of this union of bodhya and bodhaka. It is shown above that sound produced from throat etc. is of the form of sky etc. Hence in order to know as to how the letters are capable to make one aware of its origin, sky and throat etc. have been shown to be mutually related to each other in the first half of treatise.

The rise and fall in the tone of letters is directly proportional to rise and fall in statutre of elements like sky etc. This means rise and fall in the tone of letter's sound created by throat etc. would lead to establish the upper or lower position of five elements like sky etc. with other elements. This shows, there is direct relation between the letters and five elements. This is why letters indicate the five elements.

Throat has highest position amongst five places where the letter-sound is originated; similarly sky has highest place amongst five elements, hence as the sounds produced by throat are at highest position. This way palate is at higher position than head etc. and air is at higher position than fire etc. hence palate originated letter-sounds are indicator of air element. On the basis of this principle, other elements are indicated by rest of the organs.

Here a doubt may come, "As head is in the mid of all organs, why is it not considered to be placed at highest position?" This is because the letter-sound produced by the throat has highest vivṛtta (torque) this way associating sky with throat would be reasonable and throat is at highest position.

In empirical living being's stage, the indication of sky etc. by throat etc. is done in reverse order. Caitya pervades during the animal stage; hence due to seize of pervasion, sky takes over place of earth. Being deseeded, earth takes over place of sky and air attains the position of sky (represented by the kaṇṭhaja letters), hence air is said to be earth in this stage. Air (represented by the letter-sound of palate), is called water. Ajaḍānśa (part of throbbing) fire represented by śirobhava and water letters are called jaḍānśa (part of frigid) fire.

Fire is called jaḍājaḍa formed aura, air is called ajaḍa form of aura and water is called jaḍa formed aura in Awaken section. Letter-sound created by air and sky are indicated by earth and water. As kriyā (action) pervades in animal stage, hence earth only pervades in water as a form of part of knowledge in water and hence indication of earth and water by letter-sound originated by teeth is correct. It is famous that dantyośṭhala and ha are representative of water and earth respectively, hence the above statement is correct.

Hence from above mentioned discussion, bestowal of five elements from the Mantras is logical.

Hence being coming into exigence due to torque etc. and being resembling with Deep-sleep etc., these letter-sounds are indicator of states like Deep-sleep etc. Being originated from throat etc. and being resembling with sky etc. these letters are indicator of five principal elements. Hence states like Deep-sleep etc. are proved to be the indicator of elements like sky.

Letter-sound originated from palate and lips are indicator of icchā (Desire). Letter-sound originated from head and teeth are its form which means, they are pramāṇa couple the form of kriyā.

a is both Bindu and Visarga because, it is both with contraction and without contraction and is associated with pramātr being.

It is a rule that there is union between the Action and its reason during Deep-sleep state, hence to reside within Deep-sleep state (the reason behind the origin of entire world), it is necessary to establish its constitution. Hence writer of Sūtra preaches about this world, which is both discriminative and indiscriminative or 'aham' under five vowels a, i, u, ṛ and lṛ.

i produced from palate and u from lips are representative of desire of living being and Lord Śiva respectively. The last line of sūtra says, "Jaḍa and ajada pramātā means, Bindu and Visarga," hence here it is established that two desires mentioned, signify the desires of Bindu and Visarga. i and u signify desire in pervaded stage; not in pervading stage.

When Visarga (stage of living being) pervades, a is desire and i is its source. a and i both are of the form of action, hence during pervasion of Visarga i does not exist and i is known by a.

When Bindu pervades a of the form of Bindu only is indicator of desire and u unifies with a. This is because a and u both are the form of knowledge. It means when Visarga pervades, u becomes indicator of desire, because it is inferior form of Bindu. When Bindu pervades, i becomes indicator of desire of Visarga because it is inferior form of Visarga

[The inferior form of either becomes desire, in this case.]

Mūrdhanya and dāntvya ṛ and ḷṛ are the form of karmendriya (sense of action) and jñānendriya (sense of desire) respectively hence being of the form of jñāna kriyā it is pramāṇa; it is also of the form of two desires.

Being both confined or discriminative and open or indiscriminative, a is both Bindu and Visarga. Hence a only is pramātā when both Bindu and Visarga pervade, this means, "a only is indiscriminative Bindu and discriminative Visarga." It only is the stage of concurrence between Bindu and Visarga.

a which is steady at the stage of concurrence only exposes in Extrinsic world as desire of jñānakriyātmaka (of the form of knowledge and desire) Bindu and Visarga.

When a first throbs as Visarga, at the same time the masculine and feminine world comprising of the form of letters a, i, ṛ and ḷṛ vibrate outside womb of a.

When a throbs as Bindu, above mentioned four letters along with world vibrate within the stomach of a.

Fig.33: a and position of world in its Bindu and Visarga stages

Hence the place of concurrence of a is a only. Hence the Upaniśadas say, Bindu and Visarga vibrate in extrinsic world because a only vibrates as five elements (sky, air, fire, water and earth) in Extrinsic world. The place of origin and termination of Mātrkā is a.

[aham: 'a'+ 'h'. This word is created from the first and last letter of alphabet ('kṣa' is not a letter, it is combination letters).]

This 'a' and 'ha' is exposition of the world created by union of Lord Śiva and his power.

While explaining 'mahā' of Śrī Parātriśikā:

Mahāmaheśvara Abhinavagupta said:

It is 'aham' during creation of world and 'mahā' during the withdrawal of this world. 'mahā' means, "Union of Lord Śiva(ma) and Śakti (ha) with a great secret (a)."

Here in this Sūtra the creation and destruction is studied along with revelation of great secret which is nothing but role of a in creation and destruction.

Please note that philosophy of this book say that Ma is empirical living being though it also considers that empirical living being is Lord Śiva only captured in contraction.]

Two Mātrkāś arise in mūladvya (basic-twins) which are symbolic to two desires. Further again two Mātrkāś of the form of pramāṇa originate from two Mātrkāś of desire; this way it is an even stage from which uneven stage arises. Uneven stage arises when Caitya pervades and even stage arises when Cit pervades.

It is established in previous sūtra that a is Bindu, Visarga and concurrence of both. The liberating world of the form of four letters 'a, i, ṛ and lṛ' originate from it. This way this entire discriminating and indiscriminating world originated from a, i, u, ṛ and lṛ. aḥ, [The one which dwells within a while being under the control of two types of vibration (previous sūtra) and exposed in extrinsic world as Bindu and Visarga] is explained.

Mūladvaya in sūtra means a and aḥ (The letters of the form of Bindu and Visarga, two pramātās). Once a and aḥ arise, i and u residing within them arise as per the situation. Where i arise from Visarga and u arise from Bindu and they are the desire of Visarga and Bindu respectively.

Further ṛ and lṛ (the form of two pramāṇas) reside within two desires.

Starting from a of Visarga; a, i, u, ṛ, lṛ and a these six letters from Visarga to Bindu are the even stage. These six letters are even stage in which the pervasion of Bindu and Visarga are equal.

When Visarga pervades then a becomes u and only u, i, ṛ, lṛ and a formed uneven set is left.

When further Cit pervades, a of Visarga becomes i and u becomes a in that case above mentioned uneven step becomes: a, i, ṛ and lṛ.

Five downward triangles originate from the five letters of Visarga state, which came into existence by the virtue of states like Deep-sleep etc. and four upward triangles originate from four letters of Bindu state. This way mutually united five triangles are of the form of Goddess Śakti with four triangles are of the form of Lord Śiva; total nine triangles are the asset of Śrī Yantra. Hence Śrī Cakra had been illustrated by the mutual union of five triangles of Goddess Śakti and four triangles of Lord Śiva.

साम्यं भवेत् प्रकृतमन्त्र चमत्क्रियैव

Coherence in padatraya of even and uneven is natural. Exposer of spanda (vibration) is a defect. Uneven takes birth from even; it is wonder of Vimarśa. Vimarśa stays steady in even stage and it vibrates in uneven stage because of the rise of Cit and Caitya.

The natural attribute and deviation in that attribute is found in nine triangles [which have five triangle formed Visarga and four triangle formed Bindu (together called as padatrya)] is described in this sūtra.

The nine triangles of Śrī Cakra are called as (sama-pada) even state and four triangles of Lord Śiva and five triangles of Goddess Śakti looked upon discriminatively are called viṣama-pada (the uneven or odd steps). The natural form of Lord Śiva and Goddess Śakti represented by nine triangles is even, naturally. As per the principle of yāmala, there is no opportunity of natural and attentive observation of three steps (mentioned above) because of the lack of previous and next steps of them but then also experience of steady perfection of even state rises, hence the consistency of even step is natural and vibration or deviation is merely a spectacle.

While observing it attentively, it is found that deviation is continuation of steady coherence, hence steady state is image of vibration.

Vibration and steadiness are opposite to each other, in that case how the concurrence between them can be proved? This means, existence of two opposite elements together in one system is not possible! Writer of sūtra says, that it is wonder of Vimarśa!

This means, the entire business of mūlaprakṛti (Goddess Śakti) of this world, attains steadiness; the vibration in the nature takes place due to the co-ordinated pervasion of the form of rise of Cit and Acit pramātā duo. This way, enforcement of both steadiness and vibration of the form of Bindu and Visarga happens simultaneously and the vibration is felt in that study state by the help of revolution.

[If you would look at Śrī Cakra, nine triangles exist along with five and four triangles simultaneously; hence both steadiness and vibration are visible together. This is further explanation of first sūtra of this chapter.]

Here the vibration does not arise from the steadiness, hence the steady state must be perceived after perceiving two vibrations of Bindu and Visarga. This way, experiencing two vibrations in steadiness is destined due to its revolving nature.

[Please refer to the Sūtra-2.1; it is clearly mentioned that māyā become effective prior to vidyā.; same concept is applied here, steadiness comes into effect after two vibrations.]

At the time of experience of frigid-vibration, two vibrations are subject of revolution, hence the rest is throbbing (in nature) and during the time of experience of ajaḍa or Cit, rest being throbbled by the frigid vibration is experienced.

Now he explains the joint experience of vibration and steadiness optionally which arises without any delay. Unity is experienced at the time of conjunction, due to this, at the time of union of caitra and maitra, resting stage of caitra, outside exposed vibration of maitra and internal vibration of Devdatta is experienced.

[Caitra, maitra are objects and Devdatta is subject; are taken as objects to explain the phenomenon.]

This way, both vibration and steadiness exist in one element. Same has both frigid and throbbing vibrations and the same is steady by nature, hence this nature of Vimarśa is called wonderful!

चैत्यं यदोल्लसति संघटितस्वकेच्छम्

चित् स्वस्वभावमणुमाश्रयतेनिजेच्छम्।

अन्तर्भवेदथ चिदुल्लसनेतु चैत्यम्
पञ्चाङ्गकम् जडपदमचतुरङ्गमन्यत् ॥७॥

When Caitya pervades by the virtue of its own desire, Cit coverts into an atom and absorbs its desire within. When Cit pervades, then Caitya is absorbed by it. This way jaḍa becomes with five organs and ajaḍa is exposed with four organs.

This sūtra had been written to make the concept of Visarga with five organs along with Bindu with four organs, easier to understand.

Even stage is created by a, i, u, r, lṛ and a. Uneven or odd stage is manifested by even stage. Cit becomes empirical and dependent on a and u which are symbolic to the unlimited pramātā formed desire, when it excites itself by desire of the form of gandha and ahamkāra bestowed by Caitya class and i.

This means that when Caitya pervades, then a (the representative of Cit) vanishes and merges into u (the representative of desire of Cit). In that case i, u, r, lṛ and a only are left, hence they are called pañcāṅgaka.

[gandha means, "Smell" and ahamkāra means, "arrogance" Merger of self of Cit in its desire of the form of u means, pervasion of Caitya is desire of Cit only. If Cit would not do so, how Sri Yantra would evolve?]

When the Cit pervades, Caitya's or Visarga's limited pramātā enters within Cit and the desire of Visarga exists within Cit only. This way, u of Visarga merges within a of Bindu. Similarly the desire of Cit u also merges with in Cit in that case only a, i, r and lṛ are left which are caturaṅgaka (having four parts)

अन्तर वहिः करण जृम्भणयोरदीर्घ
 दीर्घस्वरेषु जडसंसरणं द्विरूपं।
 ए ऐ इति द्वयमिहोल्लिखति क्रमेण
 स्वीयेच्छया पदयुगे घटनं जडस्य ॥८॥

There are two forms of vowels (low node and high node) being present in the form of jaḍātmaka (frigid) movement by the virtue of opening intrinsic and extrinsic senses. The occurrence of these two stages happen by the virtue of self-desire and the experience of these two states happen by the virtue of letters e and ai.

Being exposed by prameya, pramāṇa and pramātā, reason behind stages like Dream state etc., Deep-sleep state with three classes is represented by a, i, u, ṛ and lṛ and ā, ī, ū, ṛk and lṛk the low node and high node vowels (together known as prameya). The existence of world within Deep-sleep state of the form of Bindu and Visarga had been done by the help three forms of pramātā viz. discriminating, indiscriminating and mixed formed world in previous sūtras.

Writer now teaches about the pramāṇa stage of Suṣupti by the help of the four conjunctive letters along with amorous of this pramātr world, due to its nature of acceptance in this sūtra and next sūtra.

Dreaming and awaken two formed movement happened due to opening of intrinsic and extrinsic senses is known as action; this is realized by e and ai. The worker of jaḍasaṁsaraṇātmaka (frigid operational) formed action svapna pramātā and Jāgrata-pramātā are bestowed by five low node and five high node vowels.

e and ai bestow two stages of jaḍa-pramātā. Word 'svareṣu' used in sūtra is adhikaraṇa saptami. This means during low node adhikaraṇa form e is used which bestows Dreaming intrinsic world and in high node of adhikaraṇa form ai is used which bestows Awaken extrinsic world.

[Adhikaraṇasaptami: Adhikaraṇa: The form of word from which the base of verb is known as adhikaraṇa, it is a type of kāraka. Saptami means, "Seventh Kārak".]

This way while knowing about e and ai "e and ai (vowels of high and low node) are the exposers of intrinsic and extrinsic frigid movement stages. These are bestowed by the desire of jaḍātmaka or Vimarśa pramātā which itself is known by a and ā intrinsically and extrinsically. Hence, a the representation of Bindu when conjuncts with i, a is created and when high node of a and i conjunct ai is created.

Awaken movement is represented by sparśa class and Dreaming movement is represented by vyāpaka class. In both the stages prameya, pramāṇa and pramātā are present. (Please refer to the commentary of 1.32 and 1.33.)

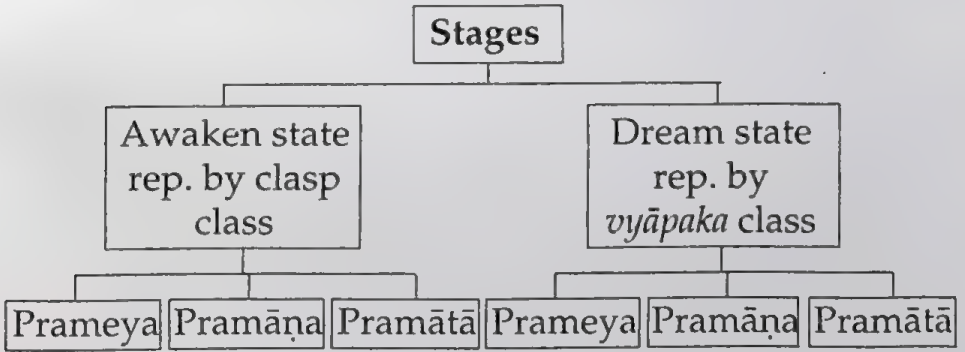

Fig-35: Stages and their further classification in terms of pramātā etc.

The reason stage of action stages of Awaken and Dream states is Deep-sleep state. As action and reason are one, investigation of above mentioned classifications like pramātā etc. of Awaken state and Deep-sleep state is necessary Deep-sleep.

On the basis of it, a, i, u, ṛ and lṛ and ā, ī, ū, ṛk and lṛk belong to prameya class and e, ai, o and au belong to pramāṇa class of Deep sleep state.

It is clear from above exposition that pramāṇa class is jaḍa viśrānti (discriminating rest); pramāṇa is jaḍājaḍa viśrānti (dual rest) and prameya is ajaḍa viśrānti (indiscriminating rest). First four sūtras talk about the prameya as they talked about dual world. This prameya is the base of dual stage of rest of world.

This sūtra reveals intrinsic and extrinsic movements of frigid pramātā by the help of e and ai which are conjunction of letters and hence are pramāṇa.

Pramāṇa is mixed stage of prameya and pramātā. Conjunction letters are the form of pramāṇa. Hence to know about the mixed nature of pramāṇa, form of conjunction letters are told by two letters.

Being stage of rest, thoughts of origin of world during Deep-sleep is merely the desire. i, u, ṛ and lṛ (of Vimarśa) reside in visargātmikā (Goddess Śakti formed) desire of the Bindu. This way the acceptability of Cit is told because of visargātmikā (Goddess Śakti formed) desire.

e has dual nature of receivable and receiver so has ai. The extrovert nature of svapna-pramātā only is Jāgrata-pramāṭṛtva (which means extrovert nature of svapnapramātā only is called Awaken pramātā). This way it is known that e only becomes ai, when a and i of high node conjunct together and not by the conjunction of ā and ai. That's why ai is bestowed using conjunction. From this revelation, it is clear that intrinsic last stage of dream is Bindu and extrinsic last stage of Awaken is Vimarśa.

There are two forms of ajāḍa saṁsarana (throbbing movement) under low node and high node vowels, due to the behaviour of intrinsic and extrinsic senses. These are indicated by o and au and this movement of duo happen on their own desire.

o and au have been bestowed in this sūtra as subject of internal and external world of ajāḍa (Bindu; Lord Śiva)-pramātā. Here also ajāḍa-pramātā of the form of Bindu being represented by low node and high node vowels, move in two forms on their own desire. Internally, conjunction of low node vowel a-the Bindu and u-Bindu's own desire is seen. Externally high node u conjuncts with high node a to form au. This way, while adding one mātrā (unit) to o it becomes au. o and au both are shown as grāhya and grahaka.

Bindu in discriminating world and Visarga in indiscriminating world are exposed as knowledge in intrinsic class and action in extrinsic class respectively. These Bindu and Visarga, do not attain their original discriminating and indiscriminating natures because of the force of above mentioned episode of discrimination and indiscrimination.

Both jaḍa and ajāḍa have been explained as Awaken state and Deep-sleep state in last two sūtras. Although the Bindu is indiscriminative by nature but then also it had been bestowed in intrinsic horizon of bheda pramātā i.e. Dream state. This way, although the Visarga is discriminative by nature but it had been bestowed in extrinsic horizon of abheda-pramātā i.e. turya-jāgrata state. This sūtra clarifies the same doubt.

a, i, u, ṛ and ḷ these five vowels are Lord of low node vowels and ā, ī, ū, ṛk and ḷk are the Lord of high node vowels. This way Bindu and Visarga being told to be two Lords are represented as knowledge and action in discriminative and indiscriminative world's in intrinsic and extrinsic horizons. This means, Bindu is indicated as knowledge in discriminative Dream state (or bheda pramātā). On extrinsic horizon i.e. turya-jāgrata state, Visarga is indicated as action.

The indiscriminative nature of Bindu and discriminative nature of Visarga can't be exposed completely due to the force of above mentioned episode i.e. there is minute exposition of nature only. This means, indiscriminative nature of Bindu can't be exposed completely as it resides within the discriminative Dream state; its nature is exposed minutely. This way, there is special touch of indiscrimination within discriminative-Dream state with respect indiscriminative state. This way Visarga also is not able to attain its complete discrimination because of its residence in turya-Jāgrata stage. There is some speciality in turya-Jāgrata state in comparison to turīya-svapna state; it is attainment of slight discrimination by turya-Jāgrata state.

Bindu and its kalās are part of Visarga and its kalās similarly Visarga and its kalās are part of Bindu and its kalās. Bindu of the form of fire exploits Visarga and hence it has eight kalās. Visarga has sixteen kalās and it is of the form moon. Bindu of the form of fire is called as unperishable.

Bindu, Visarga and their kalās as are the part of each other in Deep-sleep state. Writer reveals the form of Bindu and Visarga while bestowing the same thought.

When Visarga pervades, Bindu and its kalās become part of Visarga and its kalās; similarly when Bindu pervades, Visarga and its kalās become part of Bindu and its kalās. Bindu formed fire has eight kalās these are eight low node vowels, also here the eight kalās of Visarga also are part of Bindu kalās. Their might be a doubt, "why is it not visible?" Writer says, it is so because fire formed Bindu has exploited away the eight kalās of Visarga. The kalās of Visarga completely merge within in Bindu. This unity of kalās is told under the pervasion of unperishable Bindu.

As Bindu does not vanish within Visarga, Visarga has sixteen kalās. Eight kalās of Bindu reside within Visarga along with eight kalās of Visarga, hence they become total sixteen.

This way, eight kalās of Bindu and sixteen kalās of Visarga determined in this Sūtra.

The seven kalās of Bindu and seven kalās of Visarga total fourteen are reflected as caturdaśāra. The aṣṭadala is refection of eight Bindu kalās and sixteen kalās of Visarga are reflected as ṣoḍaśāra.

Seven kalās of Bindu and Visarga means, without componential aṁ and aḥ kalās. They together are caturdaśāra. Rest is explained in diagram below:

Fig.36: caturdaśāra, Ṣodaśāra and aṣṭāra the reflection of Bindu and Visarga, Visarga and Bindu respectively with there kalās

Fire of the form eight low node vowels are picturised on eight leaves lotus. Moon is picturised as sixteen petal lotus. This way the kalās of sun and moon together become three times of the kalās of Bindu. Bindu of the form of fire is shown as plutāṣṭaka.

Bindu has eight vowels of low node means with one mātrā each. Visarga has eight vowels of high node which means two mātrās each. In that case although the Visarga has eight mātrās but they seem to be sixteen in count as eight mātrās of Bindu are also part of it.

Due to this Bindu and Visarga seem to be representation of Sun and moon.

Sun had been told to be reflector of discrimination, hence it is the lord of world with remains and fire is lord of world without any remains. This way Bindu sat on indiscrimination stage is mentioned as both, with remains and without remains.

[When we talk of Sun, total mātrās become twenty four as Sun is reflector of discrimination; all of its sixteen mātrās would be visible in its light.]

Pluta means, "Three times of one mātrā or unit." When eight mātrās of Bindu are added with sixteen mātrās of Visarga, it becomes twenty-four. Hence the total mātrās of Sun and Moon are three times the mātrā of Bindu. When it is divided by three, mātrās of pluta come out to be eight. This means pluta fire with eight plutas, this is known as Mahā bindu (Great Bindu). While pervading discriminating and indiscriminating both sides, this Mahābindu only is fire, it is not denoted as Sun. This strategic conjunction of Sun and Moon is under Fire only.

The nāda (sound) of nose is pluta. Hence this pluta stage, (the nāda form of Bindu and Vimarśa) is the steady shelter of liberatings evolving vibration called as mahātattva. This only is eternal element.

Śāṅkarī-the one reflected as Indiscriminating, discriminating and dual-natured (bhedābheda) while being meaning of vowels; is reflected as one idol in the heart of Saints.

Manifested as Bindu and Visarga; of the form of central line and as an indicator of stage of concurrence; base of all accomplishments and reflection of anuttara, letter a only should worshipped and recited.

First Bindu is manifested intrinsically then eight Visarga are manifested in extrinsic world. Hence worship of i the image in regular order must be done first and then worship of a must be done reverse order.

[‘T’is māyā, ‘a’is Cit; first māyā exposes then Cit hence this sequence of worship is given.]

Complete Bindu the indicator of mixed stage is in centre; indicator of Cit Bindu is situated above and Acit Bindu is situated below. The sandals of Lord Śiva is situated on ī the reflection and the form of Sun, Moon and Fire which must be contemplated on head.

This svara kalā associated with sixteen letters is eternal along with triangular shape. The apprehension of wave of union of potion of new substance happens in sky. One who constantly does worship while being constantly aggregate with the manifestation of this wave; knows the secrets of vowels by the grace of Śrī Ambikā.

Śivananda muni has written these rhymes in the second chapter of Māṭṛkā Cakra Viveka by the grace of his Guru.

The Judgement of Dream

विश्वस्य कारण दशेति विचारतैवम्
कार्यक्रमो भवति कार्यमिदं विमर्शात्।
विश्रान्तमात्मनि पराह्वयवाचि सुप्तौ
विश्वं वमत्यथ विबोधपदे विमर्शः॥१॥

Deep-sleep state is kāraṇa stage of this world which had been discussed. Now the discussion of kārya form of this world begins. Kārya world originates from Vimarśa. Vimarśa manifests the world during vyuthāna daśā (opposite of present state stage) which rests within Parāvāka during Deep sleep.

New chapter is started. Summary of previous chapter and preamble of new chapter is given here.

The world is illuminated in two forms resting and operational. Resting world of the form of Deep sleep is the kāraṇa stage; hence the world in this stage is called kāraṇa world. Dream state is operational stage; hence the world in this stage is called kārya world. Hence kāraṇa world originates from rest and kārya world originates from operational stage.

Principally kārya and kāraṇa are same hence sequence of stages of kārya world would be same as that of kāraṇa world. As Deep-sleep state dwells in dual stage (jadājada); kāraṇa world has three stages viz. prameya, pramāṇa and pramātā. Vimarśa is investigation of idaṃ (this), īdṛg and iti of kārya world of the form of voice; hence the base of kārya world also is Vimarśa. To support this, first of all Vimarśa is analysed in the rest of Deep sleep. During Deep-sleep state, Parāvāṇī rests within Vimarśa; hence it is proved that world merged with in Parāvāṇī is also merged within Vimarśa.

Fig.37: Status of world during the state of Deep sleep; it rests within Vimarśa.

Hence the world which is submerged within Parāvāṇī or Vimarśa, is exposed to outer class during vyuthāna daśā (opposite of present state stage) by Vimarśa. This way it is proved that world rests with in womb of Vimarśa. Being the form of a morons of it (Vimarśa), a morons of Vimarśa only is a morons of world.

Parāvāṇī of the form of contracted r and lṛ exists even in Deep-sleep state. Contracted state of Cidcit gagana only is voice. Sky contracts itself within its being, during pervasion of Vimaraśa.

Form of Vimarśa in the rest of Deep-sleep state is said to be Parāvāka. The nature and place of Parāvāka (being known by letters from a to u) is described in this sūtra.

r and lṛ are told to be Parāvāka. They have already been said to be pramāṇa stage (sūtra-2.4), hence it is proved that Vimarśa also is pramāṇa stage. This way considering Vimarśa to be pramāṇa in vyuthāna state also is reasonable.

Senses are of the form of pramāṇa in vyuthāna state, hence as they are of the form of investigation these senses are of the form of Vimarśa only because investigation terminates as Vimarśa.

Origin of pramāṇa (of the form of r and lṛ) in Parāvāka formed Vimarśa are different; first one is subtle and second one is gross. The contraction of r and lṛ in Deep-sleep seems to be more than contraction of i and u. Hence there bigness is experienced the way it is experienced for consonants. If nature of Parāvāka formed Vimarśa is proved to be contracted then appearance of r and lṛ (denoted as contracted being) as pramāṇa is proved. This way contracted nature of Parāvāka formed Vimarśa is proved.

Concurrent Cidcit gagana has two forms resting and contracted. In the state of Vimarśa as voice, resting nature of sky is fully experienced and this sky only accepts its role as per investigation and contracts itself within Vimarśa (illuminated as acceptable and accepter). This seems logical, now there is only one doubt, "Why does sky contract?" To this writer has said, "It is natural that resting element adopts contracted-being of Vimarśa, there is no other reason behind it."

[Cidcit gagana: It means, "Eternal sky of the form Cit or Lord Śiva; this element is Lord Śiva only.]

धर्मे स्वके स्वरस वाहिनि वाक्स्वरूपे

तद्धर्मतां गगनमप्युपयाति चित्रम् ॥ ३ ॥

Vimarśa the seed of kārya world is the seed of kāraṇa world also; this principle is described in present sūtra.

Contraction in Parama vyoma happens in the form of voice; in that case Parama vyoma becomes dharmī and voice becomes its dharma; this principle had been told previously also. Due to distinction in continuity, Vimarśa of the form of voice is proved by Parama vyoma; however in this sūtra, Parama vyoma is accomplished by Vimarśa of the form of voice which is opposite. Although the dharma of Parama vyoma is Vimarśa, but then also its existence is known when it dwells within its own Vimarśa. If the eternal existence of kriyā Vimarśa is not accepted then existence of jñāna of Parama vyoma would also not be possible. This way, Vimarśa becomes dharmī as it exposes Parama vyoma and Parama vyoma becomes dharma, this relation between Parama vyoma and Vimarśa is a great wonder!

Vimarśa is said to be the one which makes vowels move because Vimarśa-kriyā is self-motivated and is not driven by others. If it is done, this would lead to the defect of instability.

The flow of Cit in Acit and Acit in Cit is eternal. Cit only develops to become Acit and hence Cit always pervades in Acit. As there is no existence of Acit without Cit, Cit is dharmī and Acit is dharma.

This way if Acit is not seen, the knowledge of existence of Cit is impossible. In this case Acit is dharmī and Cit is its dharma i.e. both Cit and Acit are dharmī and dharma

तस्मात्परैव जननी समुपासनीया

व्योम्नः परस्यगतजाड्यमियंहरूपम्।

जन्तून्विमोचयतिचोन्नमिताऽहमंशात्॥४॥

Hence Parā janani only is venerable. She is the form of Parama vyoma without frigidity.

When her idaṃ part rises, she becomes reason for bond and when her ahaṃ form rises she become giver of liberation to living being.

Hence being foundation of everything, Vimarśa is said to be venerable. Foundation of rest is Vimarśa hence being foundation of everything Vimarśa power the Parā Śakti is venerable. This is decisive opinion.

Para Vyoma is without any Vimarśa hence it is beyond doubt of frigidity. Hence Para Vyoma only must be considered as venerable. Parāvāka is enlightened kalā of Para-vyoma because he must be worshiped while being enlightened, Parāvāka is honoured as enlightened component. By this statement, unity between Vimarśa and Prakāśa is established. As Vimarśa is venerable, pramāṇa tattva also is venerable. To show that pramāṇa tattva must be worshipped first, caturasra is shown on Śrī Yantra.

The reason to involve in the worship of Śrī Yantra is Vimarśa's power of action to bind or liberate.

[Para Vyoma or Parama Vyoma are the names of Cit or Lord Śiva only]

There are two components of Vimarśa's own form; discriminative and indiscriminative which are mentioned as idaṃ and ahaṃ respectively. When idaṃ rises she ties living being in bonds. He dwells while believing idaṃ only everywhere, mortal body also seems to be immortal and hence one who attains it is called bonded. When ahaṃ rises she becomes liberator.

When ahaṃ rises, Parā Śakti of the form of Vimarśa bestows mokṣa and hence the one who urns it is called liberated.

त्रेधेदमित्यहमिति स्फुरणात्मिकाया-

तद्धर्म संगति वशेन तथा त्रिरूपो

धर्मी च चैत्यचितिमेलनसिद्धरूपः ॥ ५ ॥

Quivering as idaṃ and ahaṃ, Parā is divided into three parts. This happens due to quivering of substantial part of idaṃ and ahaṃ into even, uneven and dualistic form (both even and uneven together), due to the effect of accompanying the dharma (Parā or Vimarśa) dharmī also is divided into three parts; this form of dharmī is proved by the virtue of association of Cit and Caitya.

It was told in previous sūtra that Vimarśa formed Parā has two parts viz. idaṃ conviction and ahaṃ conviction. The same is elaborated in this sūtra.

Quivering as idaṃ and ahaṃ, Parā is has three parts. This happens due to even and uneven quivering of idaṃ and ahaṃ. They are:

1. Quivering of idaṃ and ahaṃ equally.
2. Quivering of both with idaṃ part as prime.
3. Quivering of both with ahaṃ part as prime.

Here use of world añśa is done to serve the fact, actually from idaṃ and ahaṃ, Parā only is known. The way jadājada is used to tell about the state of concurrence, here añśa is used to serve the undivided evenness (This means undivided evenness only has two components idaṃ and ahaṃ).

[añśa: partial or part of]

Similarly observing Vimarśa (of the form of dharma), dharmī also is said to have three parts. While mating with dharma, dharmī also has three parts.

[dharma: Custom or tradition; dharmī: the follower of custom or tradition.]

Dharmī takes birth when Cit mats with Caitya. There are three cases related to it:

1. When dharmī mats with Vimarśa which has idaṃ as prime; dharmī is pervading Caitya.
2. When dharmī mats with Vimarśa which has ahaṃ as prime; dharmī is pervading Cit.
3. When dharmī mats with Vimarśa which has both idaṃ and ahaṃ as prime; dharmī is pervading citcaitya.

Now the amorous of Vimarśa the independent power of Parma Śiva, which is also famous as camatkāra (the bliss of Vimarśa) is described in three coming sūtras.

Vimarśa is submerged within Cit-Caitya during Deep-sleep state. When Vimarśa exposes as this world, Cit-Caitya is merged within Vimarśa. Hence the base of this world is multiple tendencies (two types of mergers) and base of that multiple tendencies is Vimarśa. Hence the base of pramātā etc. is Vimarśa.

Hence it is proved that the shelter of Cit-Caitya is Vimarśa.

This way, while merging Cit and Caitya within it, Vimarśa plays within and outside. This means Vimarśa flows from inside to outside and outside to inside independently while keeping Cit-Caitya within itself.

[Here the discussion "When the world is exposed, Vimarśa keeps dwelling from inside to outside and vice-versa" is again the continuation of the thought that all the stages are merged with each other.]

स्वप्नेस्फुरत्यबहिरिन्द्रियमूर्तिरन्त-

र्बाह्ये बहिः करणमूर्तिरथप्रबोधे ।

संकोचमाश्रयति पूर्वपदेऽत्र

किञ्चिदत्यर्थमुत्तरपदे तु तमादधाति ॥७॥

Vimarśa is exposed within intrinsic senses i.e. in mana and buddhi, during Dream state. This means Vimarśa exposes her amorous of awaken form within. Dream world is indicator of natural world also, hence in natural world also amorous of Vimarśa is exposed within only. (Here the world is considered as illusion, like dream hence another meaning has also been taken here). Hence in this natural world also Vimarśa exposes world in mana and buddhi.

When Vimarśa is relieved from Deep sleep state and attains the Awaken state, Vimarśa is exposed to outer world as sense of knowledge like ear etc. and sense of action (the form of Bāhyakaraṇas) in outer class.

[Bāhyakaraṇa or extrinsic karaṇa are ten organs of sense like eyes, ears, hands and legs etc.]

Here, there is a bit of contraction of Vimarśa within Dream state. Vimarśa which is complete during Deep-sleep state as it is set in rest state; attains some contraction during Dream state. Due to this pramātā and prameya also contract. This partial contraction of Vimarśa becomes complete contraction in Awaken state.

संकोचवर्तिपरसीमनि बाह्यरङ्गे

व्याप्तिं समर्पयति नान्तर धाम्नि पूर्णे ।

विश्रान्तिमर्पयति पूर्णतरामितोऽपि

मायाचमत्कृतिमवाप्य जडो विमर्शः ॥४॥

Vimarśa attains completeness in Awaken state; the stage of complete contraction. This completeness is not conferred on Vimarśa in Dream state, where it rests internally. Vimarśa is exposed completely in Awaken state due to the effect of illusion and it dwells in complete rest in the state of Deep sleep.

Opposite realisation of Vimarśa due to wonder of illusion is because of world being in the state of living being is shown in this sūtra.

Vimarśa pervades or is complete because contraction in Awaken world is at maxima. As objects are clearly visible in this state, light within Awaken state is said to be complete. Vimarśa does not attain completeness during Dream state due to the fact that this light is low in Dream state than Awaken state (Here light is not Lord Śiva but is a light by which discrimination is clearly visible). The object exposed during Dream state, vanishes in Awaken state. The light of Dream is considered as no light as is done with the light of Deep sleep state.

Vimarśa attains more rest in Deep-sleep state than Dream state; this means it attains less contraction in Deep-sleep state than Dream state. This is because objects seen during dreams are not visible while being in Deep-sleep state. This means there is more contraction in Awaken state than Deep-sleep state, hence Vimarśa becomes kriyā in Awaken state and jñāna in Deep-sleep state. Hence due to opposite exposition of Vimarśa in Awaken state and Deep-sleep state, there is no difference between māyā and Vidyā. When idaṃ is prime Vimarśa becomes māyā and when ahaṃ is prime Vimarśa becomes Vidyā.

Fig.38: Exposition of Vimarśa as māyā and Vidyā during pervasion of idaṃ and ahaṃ

Pramāṇa couple reside between two desires in ya class, hence the Dream state represented by ya class is said to be frigid. In this case la is mana pramātā.

Hence this Dream is famous as mentally operational state.

Before Dream and Awaken state of the form of kriyā and jñāna, which are away from Deep-sleep state the form of desire (merely the movement of desire); Vimarśa is situated between Deep-sleep state, Awaken state and Dream state. Vimarśa is the name of kriyā, kriyā is prime in Awaken state. Hence although it is correct to accept that Awaken stage comes before Dream state but during evolution, first knowledge evolves and then action. This is why īśat-saṅkoca (slight-contraction) formed Dream state is described under contracted Ya class.

As per the process of vowels class; i is frigid desire and u is throbbing desire. i contracts to become Ya and u contracts to become va. ṛ and lṛ contract to become ra and la, which are shown between ya and va. This means, "Between ya-the frigid desire and la-the throbbing desire, exists ra (the jñāna) and la (the kriyā)." The sequence of ya class is ya, ra, la and va. The couple ya class and Dream are associated with slight contraction, hence due to its familiarity with slight contraction, ya-class is called Dream state.

The gross form of la is mana pramātā. la is place of jñāna pramāṇa. The seat of jñāna pramāṇa is mana and not ear and senses. The reason is that if there would be no mana, there would be no enforcement of senses in their subjects. On the basis of this, mana can also be explained.

la, expounded as replacement of jñānendriya (sense of know-ledge) is mana. Similarly ra is intellect, this means intrinsic form of karmendriya (senses of action) is intellect.

The wonder of wrapping pramātā, pramāṇa and prameya during Dream state is movement of mana i.e. it is mental only and hence these are not experienced by deha (physical) pramātā in Awaken state. The experience of this trinity during Dream state is done by mana and these ears etc. present extrinsically, also are the amorous of mana only. Hence, it is proved that there is nothing which exist intrinsically and extrinsically except Vimarśa. Those, whose blackout of illusion of heart had been relinquished by the grace of Guru; had approved this principle by their experience.

The things which are seen during dreams are seen when the one is awoken but it does not mean that whatever one just saw in dream is true, hence dreams are mental amorous, it is proved. Hence this way "mana is pramātā" during Dream state is proved.

Śakti of the form of Vimarśa is devoured by her own mental body, hence the way Sun is not visible due to its rays, soul is not visible because it is covered by pañca-kañcuka.

Cit is covered by mental power the synonym of Vimarśa. Body etc. (the intrinsic display) and earth etc. (the extrinsic display) are the form of mental power, which have covered the Cit element. The concealment of Cit by Vimarśa is described in this sūtra.

Being situated within Vimarśa, mana is dharma of Vimarśa. Body display and earth display i.e. intrinsic and extrinsic display are the form of dharma of Vimarśa (which in itself is of the form mana), the one which has devoured the soul. Due to this thought of being ahaṃ vanishes. This devour of Cit element by the display (as told above) is the wonder of opposite experience of Vimarśa; actually this devour is not the supreme truth. This devour of Cit element during circumspection of rise of Vidyā is merely the wonder of Vimarśa Śakti.

Mana is dharma of Vimarśa, hence a question arises, "How Vimarśa can cover itself by its own dharma?" The answer to it is, "The way rays of sun cover it, dharma covers the Vimarśa!"

Hence being covered by its own display Cit element only is real form and this display of world is wonder of opposite experience of Vimarśa Śakti.

Soul on Pramātā stage is associated with body and antaḥ-karaṇa (mana, buddhi and ahaṁkāra). When this pañcāṅgi (having five parts) form is merely amorous of mana; it is called as māyā stage and when it is experienced evidently, it is called nature.

Possible pañcāṅgika (with five components) Dream state is the matter of pervasion of Vimarśa, hence after telling the place of Dream, difference between Dream stage and prakṛti saṁsāra (stage of world called nature) is told.

Pramātā stage comprises of soul, body and antaḥkaraṇa (mana, buddhi and ahaṁkāra). Here, while using word 'stage' with pramātā, writer wants to say that pramātā is lord of soul. During pramātā stage of Dream, power of self is amorous of mana, hence it is proved that amorous of mana is amorous of self.

Though it would be told latter; in Awaken stage the realiser of prakṛti stage is pa-class. In pa-class also pramātā stage comprises of soul, body and antaḥkaraṇa, hence it is necessary to differentiate between prakṛti stage and svapna stage.

This is explained by the writer as, "When pramātā stage is merely an amorous of mana, synonym of Dream state is māyā stage and when the body is felt evidently then prakṛti is pramātā stage in Awaken state.

[This sūtra talks about existence of soul, body and antaḥkaraṇa in mana and reality; in mana it is said to be māyā stage or else it is said to be prakṛti stage.]

पञ्चाङ्गकम् पदमिदम् चतुरङ्गमेव ॥ 12 ॥

Svapnas tage (ya-class) is said to have five parts in last sūtra because of pervasion of Vimarśa. As per grammar, ya-class has five letters ya, ra, la, va and ḷa in which last letter is said to be frigid pramātā in 9th sūtra however as per Mantra śāstra, ya-class has four letters ya, ra, la and va. In which ya and va are indicator of frigid and throbbing desires and ra and la are two pramāṇa. Hence, here there is no place visible for local la (the frigid desire), this raises doubt on existence of svapna state which is said to have five parts!

Two logics are given to answer this objection:

1. As per Mantra śāstra, Dream is first place of expression, within discriminating Vimarśa. Hence svapna stage (ya-class) is called illusion. In this stage mana only attains the form of body (or the one who experiences discriminations) and there is no body other than mana in this Dream state. Hence la at fifth place (the one set at pramātā stage of Vimarśa) is situated within va or else la falling before va can also be called as pramātā, this is in line with sermons of cult (writer's and commentator's cult). i.e. in both the cases mana only is proved to be body (one who would experience the discrimination) during svapna. Hence, it is proved that even though there are four letters of Mātrkā Mantra only in svapna state and there is no existence fifth la of the form of pramātā, it must be investigated within va.

2. He now explains the position of Visarga-pramātā in va during pervasion of Vimarśa. Visarga is said to be within Bindu in svapna stage and when Visarga pervades Bindu seems to be vanishing or Bindu is not realised. Due to this, during the state of pervasion of Cidcit as la does not expose its existence within va seems to be doubtful, due to this rival cult support the miśrādvaita but during Awaken stage, Visarga-pramātā exists outside the Bindu, hence above phenomenon seems to be false. As Visarga-pramātā resides within soul, settling three antaḥkaraṇas with in soul would also be correct. Hence the way Visarga resides in Bindu during Dream, la resides within va however instead of accepting the intrinsic pervasion considering la as exposed to outside world would be more reasonable.

Fig. 39: Relation of la and va and their analogy with Bindu and Visarga

This way svapna state becomes visible (as the one with five components), in that case ya-class becomes ya, ra, la, va and la.

Rivals questioned, "In Octagon of Śrī Cakra, four letters of ya-class and śa-class are shown then how here ya-class would have five letters? and How svapna-Visarga can pervade?" The answer to it is that la resides within va hence experts have accepted five components or letters in ya-class and have accepted existence of fifth letter la out of va. Hence svapna-Visarga is subject of pervasion.

In scattered state, indicator of ākāśātmaka pṛthvī (earth with the being of sky) is denoted by la. Indicator of kriyātmaka (in the being of action) air is ya and jñānātmaka (in the being of knowledge) fire is ra; earth is denoted by la and water is denoted by va.

This sūtra tells about five elements of Dream state in reverse order during the pervasion of Vimarśa in paśudaśā (empirical state). Here la is ākāśātmaka pṛthvī (earth with being of sky); va is indicator of water; third letter la is indicator of earth; ra is indicator of fire and ya is indicator of air.

In sūtra 2.2 Sky and earth are told to be miśra pramātā, like that here also the earth is said to be ākāśātmaka. This way in Dream state, la within va becomes ya; this means ākāśātmaka earth attains pramātā state when it is in empirical stage and this Visarga-pramātā is indicated by la situated within va.

By telling earth to be ākāśātmaka, writer wants to say that when Visarga moves towards Cit, then two karaṇas of Visargapramātā of ākāśātmaka earth are air and fire.

[Karaṇa: It is third kāraka of Sanskrit grammar; take an example: Ganges originate from Himalayas, in this case Himalayas are karaṇa. Here karaṇa means the one from which some thing would come into being. Writer wants to say that ya and ra are those two karaṇas.]

Air (indicated by ya) is indicator of action force and fire (indicated by ra) is indicator of knowledge force. Hence ya (kriyātmaka air); ra (jñānātmaka fire) are two karaṇas of Visarga-pramātā. As action is prime when Visarga pervades, ya comes first in sequence.

In scattered state; both la are the part of air ya and fire ra. As air puts an end to water and fire puts an end to earth, it is proved that water and earth are part of air and fire.

As earth is submerged in water it is said that fifth letter la is within va.

This way it proved that air, fire, water and earth are karaṇa of Visarga-pramātā represented by la which rests within va.

मग्नःपुमान् वपुषि चित्तमहंक्रियायां

बुद्धौ जडांश जठरेऽप्यजडस्तदंशः ।

इत्थंप्रमातरि जडांशगताजडांशे

ज्ञानक्रियान्तरवभातिमहानजाण्डः ॥१४॥

Cit dissolves in ahamkāra (literally arrogance but here it is one of three intrinsic karaṇas also) and throbbing part dissolves in frigid; in human body. This way universe dissolves in jñāna and kriyā situated within 'throbbing part of' pramātā's frigid part.

After explaining pervasion of soul in body (in Dream state where Vimarśa pervades) and after explaining how Vimarśa of the form of mana and buddhi are related to ahamkāra of body in intrinsic world; writer now describes about wonder of extrinsic world.

"Soul pervades within body", this principle is explained using letters. Soul of the form of va merges in body of the form of la; first la (the Cit) merges in Ya (the form of ahamkāra). Ajaḍāṁśa (throbbing part) buddhi merges in jaḍāṁśa (frigid part) buddhi.

Last sūtra described, "How air of the form of ahamkāra merges within earth of the form of Cit and soul of the form of water merges in intellect of the form of fire." This sūtra describes, "How Soul merge in body."

There are two karaṇas of pramātā, jñāna and kriyā which merge in ahamkāra and buddhi. As jñāna and kriyā are part of soul; here it means, soul merges in body.

[This is correct as we are talking about the evolution flow.]

This way it is process of sinking. jñāna and kriyā are situated within throbbing part of Vimarśa's frigid part (which in itself is merged within mana and buddhi); hence the universe originates from the womb of mana and buddhi. From mana and buddhi, first intrinsic world takes birth then external universe. This means in Dream state, "Universe is due to body." This is felt by everyone.

Fig.40: As Vimarśa and jñāna and kriyā dwell within mana and buddhi, Universe dwells within body during Dream state during movement of evolution

There are other versions also:

- As per dakṣiṇacāra and perception of common world: "During Awaken state, body comes into existence due to universe."

- As per vāmamārga: "Body only is reason for universe in both Awaken and Dream state."
- As per yāmala: Both body and universe are cohesive and 'reason and action' for each other:
 - In intrinsic world: universe is part of body.
 - In extrinsic world: Body is part of universe.

Body is the foundation of universe however a living being sees that universe pervades everywhere extrinsically. While being hallucinated by māyā he considers pañcāṅga (deha buddhi etc.) to be minute in front of universe.

Writer wants to tell that it is effect of māyā, by which we consider that universe only pervades and pañcāṅga (deha, buddhi etc.) are minute in front of universe.

सङ्कलृप्त वायुशिखि भूजलखापकर्षा

बन्धाःस्युरन्तरणुकस्य कलाप्यविद्या ।

रागश्च कालनियती इतिकञ्चुकास्ते

मायात्मनः प्रथमकञ्चुकता सुषुप्तेः ॥16॥

The elements determined by the soul (Air, fire, earth, water and sky) are the bonds which degrade the minute. These five elements are known as five kañcuka (kalā, avidyā, rāga, kāla and niyati). First kañcuka māyā, degrades the Dream state.

Only five elements are visible in universe in empirical state; due to this the form of piṇḍāṇḍa contracts which is the reason behind its decay.

Determined air, fire, earth, water and sky are degrader of aṇu-pramātā (empirical experiencer).

Five elements are said to be bounder of soul because this determination arises in the heart. Pervasion of this determined display only is base of this bondage, this means the soul is bonded due to its own determination.

Due to these determined bonds air etc. being indicated by ya etc. they become ṣat-kañcuka like kalā etc. (see next page Fig. 42)

[The commentary on how the five elements and Deep sleep state become six kañcuka is already shown in diagram above, hence it is not elaborated further.]

As kañcukas are six, now māyā is discussed. Frigid Deep sleep state (the one which rises prior to Dream state) with five kañcukas, is the foundation of this world. Māyā is first kañcuka as it only pervades as thirty six elements from Śiva to earth or from kṣa to ka.

The alphabet has two la; even though it is added there are thirty-five element letters only. As experts of cult consider kṣa as within ṣa; māyā element of the form of vowel is considered as part of ya class. This way count of thirty-six letters (the representative of thirty-six elements), completes.

As the foundation of discriminative Dream is ya-

class and indiscriminative Dream is Śa-class; the foundation of vyāpaka khaṇḍa are vowels only.

Knowledge is prime regardless of manifestation and action is prime regardless of realisation; vowels exist in Deep sleep state which is situated between Dream state (the movement of knowledge) and Awaken state (the movement of action).

Hence i symbolic to amorous of Dream state had been placed in vowel class as māyā element.

[i is symbolic to māyā element.]

Five supreme elements like air etc. (denoted by ya etc.) have the powers of Śiva and living being when they are complete and incomplete.

Air is power of doing everything; fire is power of omniscience; earth is power of completeness; water is power eternality and sky is power of consistency of Lord Śiva. These complete powers are the form of Lord Śiva. When they contract and attain incompleteness they become living being.

All actions are of the form of vibration; vibration is statute of air hence air has power all doing.

Form of knowledge is light; virtue of light is brilliance hence fire has power of knowledge.

The base of completeness are all consumable items; earth is base of all consumable items, hence earth has power of completeness.

The foundation of eternity is satisfaction; base of satisfaction is water, water has power of eternity.

Might is base of pervasion; pervasion is virtue of sky, hence sky has power of might.

Śiva has five power because of his nature, this world is operational within him only. Body sees the universe residing within, outside due to power of illusion, this is speciality of living being.

Here the custom, discriminating between Śiva and living being is discussed.

Eight idols of Lord Śiva are famous. Amongst them moon and sun merge in fire and fire merge in sky. As Lord Śiva unifies with sky, five supreme elements are the form of Lord Śiva only.

The world of the form of bhu and bhuvah (land and earth) rests within five supreme elements, hence it is proved that the operation of this world happens within Lord Śiva only. Hence it is proved this way, Lord Śiva has five powers.

Being made up of five elements, pinḍāṇḍa resides within living being and universe has originated from and rests in pinḍāṇḍa.

Living being sees universe outside due to the opposite reflection of Vimarśa power. This difference between living being from Lord Śiva is called virtue of discrimination.

When a living being of the form of piṇḍāṇḍa considers his form greater than universe he attains universality and other higher stages i.e. he attains viśvamayaṇi-viśvotter ṇaṁ Śivattva (Form of Śiva which is this world and beyond this world).

Caitya residing within mana is incomplete. As Cit moves within Caitya this Cit also becomes incomplete.

Writer wants to tell about miśrādhvatā (mixed ways or two different lines together), hence he talks mating of Cit and Caitya.

As Caitya merges within Cit completeness of Caitya is not possible. Similarly when Cit merges within Caitya it also becomes incomplete and hence their incompleteness of Cit and Caitya during Dream state.

One may have doubt, "When Caitya resides within Cit. Cit is complete eternally then how come Cit would be incomplete when it would reside within Caitya?"

Answer to it is, "First case is case of ultimate truth. it is not the case when Caitya pervades. This world is not ultimate truth, hence the Vimarśa shining in this state is not true." This is sermon of rahasya mārga.

[It is more close to advaita of Ācārya Śaṅkara; Lord Śiva is true but the world is not! Tantra considers world also ultimate truth.]

Hence it is logical to accept the incompleteness of Cit and Caitya during Dream-State.

When Cit falls from its position its adhvā becomes impure. When Caitya falls, it becomes pure adhva. During unanimity fall all and rise of both Cit and Caitya adhvā has mixed form, known as mayika stage.

Adhvā is the path of movement of Cit and Caitya. The rule is, "The one by whose virtue the degradation happens due to imperfection during any stage would be impure adhvā of that stage" Hence during discriminating Awaken state the 'Frigid-Deep-sleep state' is impure adhvā as there is lack of Cit in it.

When Caitya falls it becomes pure adhvā, i.e. Fourth state is purest adhvā because Cit only pervades here. When Cit and Caitya equally rise and fall, it is called māyika pada or mixed adhvā stage.

In eternal stage, earth is cinmaya state, hence the experience of pervasion of Cit only is said to be pure adhvā.

Merely wonder of pervasion of Caitya, covers the Cit and hence the pervasion of Caitya only is impurity and hence it is impure adhvā.

[It is ultimate duty of a seeker to refine his adhvā.]

u-the self-realiser contracts in vowels like a etc. and become va. This va only moves in the form of body.

The investigation of amorous of living being is not possible without his body, the way amorous of Lord Śiva is investigated in Cidākāśa.

For this mana is considered as body of living being in Dream state. One may have doubt, "Living being would not have same reaction in dream as he would have when he is awaken and his finger breaks!" Answer is, "Realisation of this break of finger is done by mana only." Hence mana is considered as body, this way as per the principle of pariśeṣya (that which is left over, remainder) mana becomes body in Dream.

[Cidākāśa: The eternal sky unlimited body of Lord Śiva.]

Ya is expert in annihilating the expansion done by right eye of Lord Śiva. Ra is always active to burn all the worlds situated in the central eye of Lord Śiva. Va is proficient in submerging the worlds created by the left eye of Paṣupati (Lord of all animals). The one who recites these Ya, Ra and Va, attain trainetra pada (stage).

As it bears the world asleep in the ocean of sleep while refining it, Mantra experts call this ya class as dhārṇā Śakti.

The one who penetrates va and la by the virtue of his sharp mind is known as Valabhita or else there is no demon of such name.

Valabhita is the name of Indra. It means the one who penetrated va (the force) and la.

The Judgement of Dream

[Commentator says, "Valabhita is not a demon who if killed the winner would get the throne of Lord Indra, as some others have defined it as Valabhita."]

The one who worships while drinking the ya originated while churning the navarasa (nine types of taste of poetry as told by greats) of discriminating knowledge and while eating the fruit la (originated from manifestation of discriminating knowledge); such erudite sits on a-class i.e. he enters in knowledge and gets to know the reason behind the origin of illusion.

These passages have been composed by Śivānandamuni by the grace of his Guru in third chapter of Śrī Māṭrkā Cakra Viveka.

Here ends Śrī Māṭrkā Cakra Viveka's "The judgment of Dream" named third chapter's Sarveśvari Slightly contracted Vimarśa contracts completely in external world! This contraction is the regular activeness of five supreme elements in Awaken stage!!!

While starting the new chapter, writer is establishing the relationship between previous chapter and this chapter and while telling about previous chapter he writes the preface of this chapter. The slight contraction of Vimarśa in Dream state attains complete contraction in this state. This is result regular activities of the five elements in Awaken state. At the time of complete contraction of Vimarśa, all elements are present in each element i.e. when contraction is at par, earth would contain all elements in it etc.

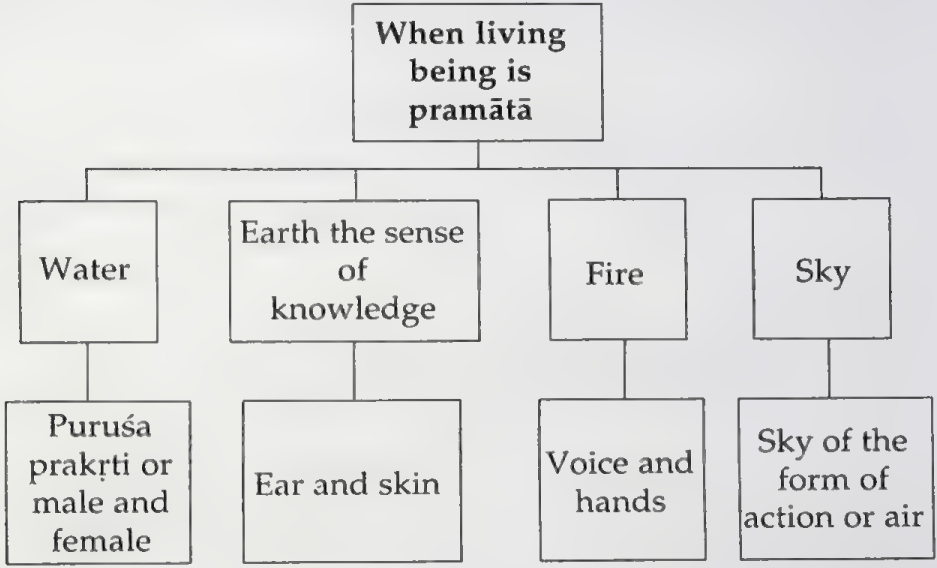

Fig.42: Result of contraction on supreme elements in Awaken state

This means, elements like earth etc. have some content of other four elements. These five elements are not manifested in Deep-sleep and Awaken state, they exist in indistinct manner there.

By bestowing this principle, inherent relation between the elements also is proved.

a, i, u, ṛ and lṛ five vowels are the source of origin of all other letters. Letter from ka to ma belonging to sparśa class are Awaken state 'the state of action'; contraction level is high in this state. To prove it, proving process of origin of letters a, i, u and ṛ etc. is must.

Vowels class has first position in alphabet, hence they are called ādivarga. There is slight contraction (word used is sparśa means touch) in vowels, hence they are called īśatsprśṭa. Due to this contraction of avyava(parts), vowels contract hence they are called īśat sanikucita. Due to this vowels become antastha:

- a becomes ya
- u becomes va
- ṛ becomes ra
- lṛ becomes la

When these īśatsprśṭa letters attain complete contraction:

- a becomes ka
- i becomes ca
- ṛ becomes ṭa
- lṛ becomes ta
- u becomes pa

When these five letters become īśatvivṛtta this a class becomes śa, ṣa, sa and ha. In this sequence of change:

- ca class becomes śa
- ṭa class becomes ṣa
- ta class becomes sa
- ka class becomes ha

This way letter of kārya (action state) form are the special form of the kāraṇa (reason) a, i, u, ṛ and lṛ etc. five letters.

The elements like earth etc. have been defined within sparśa earlier. Now pa-class is defined in terms of ātmā, mana, buddhi, ahamkāra and prakṛti while bestowing it as pramātā.

The nature of earth etc. had been defined earlier in terms of rise and fall of nodes of throat and palate. Although pramātā pa-class is indicator of earth etc. due to its pervasion; in general, ka-class is considered as pramātā but this pramātā is defective in Caitya state and hence Cit also attains defects, (defects in Cit only make it Caitya), hence accepting pa-class as pramātā is logical.

Now the letters of pa-class are bestowed in reverse order:

- ma represents ātmā (soul) the substantial part of sky
- ya represents mana the part of air
- ba represents buddhi the part of fire
- pha represents ahamkāra, the part of water
- pa represents prakṛti, the part of earth

"In general prakṛti comes after puruṣa (ātmā) in sequence however here mana etc. are told then prakṛti comes in sequence," isn't this wrong?

Commentator explains this as:

Puruṣa and Prakṛti (the parts of sky and earth respectively) are the reason behind origin of mana, buddhi and ahaṁkāra; mana, buddhi and ahaṁkāra are dharma (custom) and puruṣa and prakṛti are dharmī (follower of custom), dharma originates from dharmī, in this case as puruṣa and prakṛti exist prior to mana, buddhi and ahaṁkāra, it would be better to place the trio between puruṣa and prakṛti.

bha near ma (see above) is indicator of mana, pha near pa is ahaṁkāra, their virtue is buddhi (intellect) hence buddhi (represented by ba) is placed between bha and ma.

The sequence during pervasion of Vimarśa is-"prakṛti, ahaṁkāra, buddhi, mana and puruṣa"

The sequence during pervasion of Lord Śiva is"puruṣa, mana, buddhi, ahaṁkāra and prakṛti"

First Vimarśa pervades hence here pervasion of Vimarśa is bestowed.

Ear etc. only are the representation of ta-class; speech etc. in reverse order are the representation of ṭa-class and word etc. and sky etc. are the representative of ca-class and ka-class; this is amorous of air, fire, water and earth etc.

The letters of ka, ca, ṭa and ta classes and their representation along with their Lords (each class is amorous of its Lord which are air, fire, water and earth) in creation along with their composition are given in the table below in reverse order:

Subtle form of gross earth (represented by Ka-class) is prakṛti; subtle form of water (ca class) is ahamkāra; subtle form of fire (ṭa class) is buddhi; subtle form of air (ta class) is mana and subtle form of world (Pa-class) is prakṛti. This means earth is gross form of subtle prakṛti only.

Reason behind origin of earth, ahaṁkāra, buddhi and mana is subtle prakṛti and it is also the reason behind earth, water, fire and air represented by ka, ca, ṭa and ta class respectively.

This means earth is gross form of this subtle prakṛti. Universe [the form of prākṛitika (natural) world] is the foundation of elements like earth etc. and the amorous of māyā also is up to the prakṛti.

This may be represented on Śrī Cakra as:

Fig.43: Śrī Yantra's four doors (image of sun) representing mana, buddhi, ahaṁkāra and prakṛti and two ten petal lotuses (rays of sun) representing jñān-ndriya, karmendriya, pañcatanmatrā and five elements

Body and soul are prakṛti and puruṣa (respectively in the state of Visarga), body is pramātā and soul rests within it. (When Lord Śiva pervade) Soul becomes pramātā and attains the Śivattva while keeping body within.

Writer now describes prakṛti-aṇḍa.

When Visarga pervades, body becomes pramātā and soul becomes its part because the shelter of dharma is dharmī. When Bindu or Lord Śiva pervade, soul becomes pramātā and the body rests within it.

Body never decays; if it would decay pervasion of Vimarśa further would not happen, though when Vimarśa is seen time to time not that Vimarśa decay completely during pervasion of Prakāśa.

Prakāśa and Vimarśa continuously dwell within each other, hence the decay of them is not possible.

Togetherness is the nature of Lord Śiva and Śakti; this means their unity is eternal. There is no Prakāśa without Vimarśa and vice-versa. There is only one difference, when Prakāśa pervades, Prakāśa and Vimarśa become one and when Vimarśa pervades Prakāśa is visible as different taste.

When jaḍa acquires Vimarśa, it becomes ahamkāra; when jaḍājaḍa acquires Vimarśa, it becomes buddhi and when ajāḍa acquires Vimarśa it becomes mana. These three intrinsic karaṇas of Vimarśa own three qualities hence they are the seed of Deep sleep state, Dream state and Awaken state.

After describing about deha (of the form of dharmī), now he describes about three *dharma*s of Vimarśa known as mana, buddhi and ahamkāra.

Being frigid, Vimarśa becomes famous as ahamkāra. As frigid Vimarśa is dependent on deha pramātā and is its dharma; it in itself is frigid. That's why this Vimarśa is known as ahamkāra. When it resides within and is known as word, touch, form, taste and smell and becomes the dharma of earth.

When Vimarśa acquires role of jaḍājaḍa, it is known as buddhi. The senses which are source of action are frigid themselves because they are gross by nature; as they rise themselves they are throbbing also. (see Table 5 next page)

Living being moves in three states like Deep sleep etc. when it is accompanied by prakṛti of three qualities. Ahamkāra is prime in these three states hence prameya is prime amongst pramātā, pramāṇa and prameya because of supremacy of kriyā

Prameya is prime within body pramātā due to frigidity in Vimarśa.

[Considering supremacy of body is virtue of ahanikāra or arrogance.]

This means ahanikāra is prime in three states, hence during evolution state of pramātā, pervasion of prameya in nature is investigated due to primacy of action.

When the mana attains frigidity, the foundation role of Vimarśa in trinity of pramātā etc. it is called ahanikāra and splendours the existence of prameya. When the same mana attains ajāḍa, it splendours the trinity as pramātā or it splendours Cidpramātā (Lord Śiva). When the same mana acquires the state of jaḍājāḍa mid-position it is known as buddhi.

Pervasion of mana in mid-position leads to splendour of pramāṇa. Here it is proved that it is mana only which is reflected as buddhi and ahanikāra.

Soul (the ma) is merged within prakṛti (the pa). Ahanikāra, buddhi and mana reside between prakṛti and puruśa.

After accepting mana as reason in previous sūtra, now writer explains prakṛti etc. indicated by pa-class.

Though the soul (the form of ma) is present in vyāpaka class as pramātā but then also being situated between pa-class and vyāpaka class, ma has dual nature i.e. Soul (the form of ma) is related to both pramātā and prameya. Sparśa-class is pramāṇa state and soul is considered to be pramātā due to splendour of the light of Sparśa-class but due to its position (between Sparśa-class and vyāpaka class) considering it to be pramāṇa is wise. Hence pervasion of prakṛti is up to ma. As they are in caturasra; mana and buddhi are pervaded by ahanikāra and prakṛti and vice-versa not the puruṣa (the form of soul).

This way, up to nature, mana and buddhi only perform the wonder of unfolding this universe. Hence this pramātā stage is up to prakṛti only. This world attached to senses has relation with senses of knowledge and action only, which are the form of mana and buddhi respectively.

Senses are the shelter of pramātā in Awaken stage and all senses are in shelter of mana. It is the leader of family of all senses. It is reason behind the manifestation of Vimarśa and it only is behind amorous of Cit, Caitya and mixed stages.

This sūtra says mana is behind everything in awoken stage.

[It looks correct also, we know what is right and what is wrong then also we are not able to control ourselves, this is nothing but the virtue of mana. It forces our senses to act as per its desire instead of as per the judgement of good and bad. In that case it is must for a seeker to move to next stages instead of dwelling in Awaken stage.

Śrī Yantra is merely not the Yantra of mysticism, it is key of attaining Śivattva.]

मिच्छात्मनोमनसएवविभातिकुक्षौ ।

पूर्वत्र मातृमनएवशरीरताभाक्-

प्रत्यक्षमुत्तरपदे तु शरीरमेव ॥ 12 ॥

The amorous of this world in Awaken and Dream states happens within desirous mana. Mana is said to be pramātā in Dream state and as the mana is realised in Awaken state, body is said to be pramātā.

In Awaken state and Dream state within serene pramātā state (in pa-class), intrinsic and extrinsic worlds are displayed within desirous mana. This means the existence of Dream world and this natural world is full of desire. In the world of knowledge (knowledge is prime in Dream state hence here the discussion is of Dream world) the world brought in being by knowledge and action are known as jñāna saṁsāra and kriyā saṁsāra (knowledge world and action-world) respectively.

[Awaken world is created by Dream world's knowledge.]

It was told earlier that the world in Dream state of the form of knowledge is mana; the world in Awaken stage is action and it is desire in Deep-sleep state. Here bestowing Dream state and Awaken state as desire world raises doubt.

The reason of extrinsic movement of Deep sleep world is desire, hence this world is called as world of desire. Dream state is knowledge world and Awaken state is Action world. Viśrānti (rest) is of two types frigid and throbbing. Frigid rest is felt in Deep sleep and throbbing rest is felt in Dream, then only Awaken state is left which is known as world of knowledge and action due to business of jñānendriya and karmendriya. Or else we can say, prakṛti world is world of knowledge and mortal world is world of action.

The experience of knowledge in Dream state and action in Awaken state is the virtue of jaḍājāḍa (frigid and throbbing) desire of Deep sleep.

As the world of Dream state is world of mana, it is proved that its being is desirous and mana only is accepted as body. This would lie on Awaken state also as in Awaken state this mana is realised and body becomes pramātā.

चेतश्चमत्कृतिपदं वमति स्वलीनं

तत्रापि धीन्द्रिय गणः पवनोऽपि पृथ्वी

ज्ञेयैर्जलैरपि मरूद्भिरुदीरितोऽन्तः ॥१३॥

Mana reveals this world resting in it (during pervasion of Vimarśa), in awaken state by accepting the forms like sense of knowledge like voice etc. and sense of action like ear etc. At the time of rest (pervasion of Lord Śiva) earth rests within air and water the form of jñeya rests within air.

The extrinsic exposure of this world is wonder of mana and hence the world is called full of mana.

Jñānendriyas manifest knowledge world and karmendriyas manifest action world. As per this principle, world is felt by the help of senses hence they are reason of this world. This means when they vanish, world also ends. Hence the world is created, when senses are quivered and not by the atoms of Kaṇāda.

The world is exposed outside empirical state in the splendour of senses and it is ultimate truth. The world created within mana intrinsically looks like as if it is exposed outside; during Awaken state.

When the Cit pervades, earth placed in air's place contracts and water (the form of jñeya) also rests in its contrary air and ta-class (sense of knowledge) rests in ca-class (five tanmātrās).

कर्मेन्द्रियाणि कठिनत्वपरान्त भाञ्जि

वह्नयाकृतीनि खपदस्थ धराश्रितानि ।

पृथ्वीमय प्रकृति खग्रहणोन्मुखानि

बोध्यानि भूत विततेरिहवैपरीत्ये ॥ 14 ॥

The nature of kriyā is to contract that's why senses of action (represented by ṭa-class) contracts and they and kārya-world both attain frigidity. In empirical state, fire's frigid part is prime and when Cit pervades its throbbing part is prime hence when Cit pervades senses of action rest in earth (which has transformed into sky). Although the senses of action like voice etc. are dependent on prakṛti but then also they seem to be dependent on earth (form of kārya).

When the senses of action resting in great earth (situated in sky during pervasion of Cit) move towards the pervasion of physical nature, five supreme elements are felt as opposite, i.e. the subtle senses become rigid.

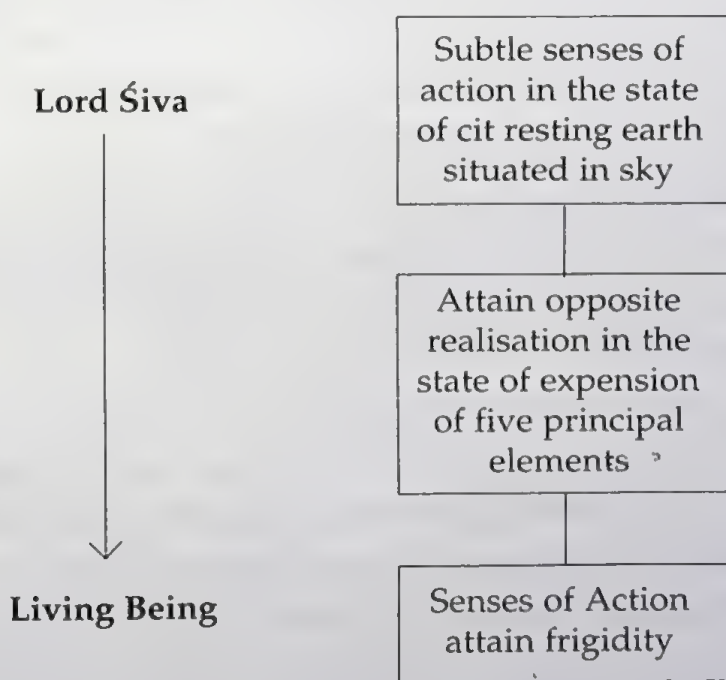

Fig. 44: Effect of pervasion of living being on action

This means, senses of knowledge are not capable enough to know about speech etc. (the jñeya) in empirical state, it means jñānendriyas are pervaded by jñeya (to be known). Speech etc. only become sentence in this state and then are exposed in sky. Senses of action can only reveal the sky (of the form of sentences) only, they cannot manifest the sky (of the form of five supreme elements) hence they are pervaded by five supreme elements (of the form of action).

[1 Sky means space, voice would be generated when there would be a space.

2 An element can reveal up to the level of it only, it cannot realise the states above it, here the same is with senses of action. They can't make realise the five principal elements which exist even when there is a state of Deep Sleep.]

This way these senses of action and knowledge offer the pervasion of jñeya and action to soul pramātā (Dream state) and deha pramātā (Awaken state) because they are pervaded by two types of vedyas.

Soul accompanies entire jñeya class by pervading in it by the help of its sources like senses of knowledge, during pervasion of Cit and becomes omniscient. Similarly deha pramātā accompanies and pervade in kārya vedyā by its senses of action and attains power to do everything; in the state of Cit.

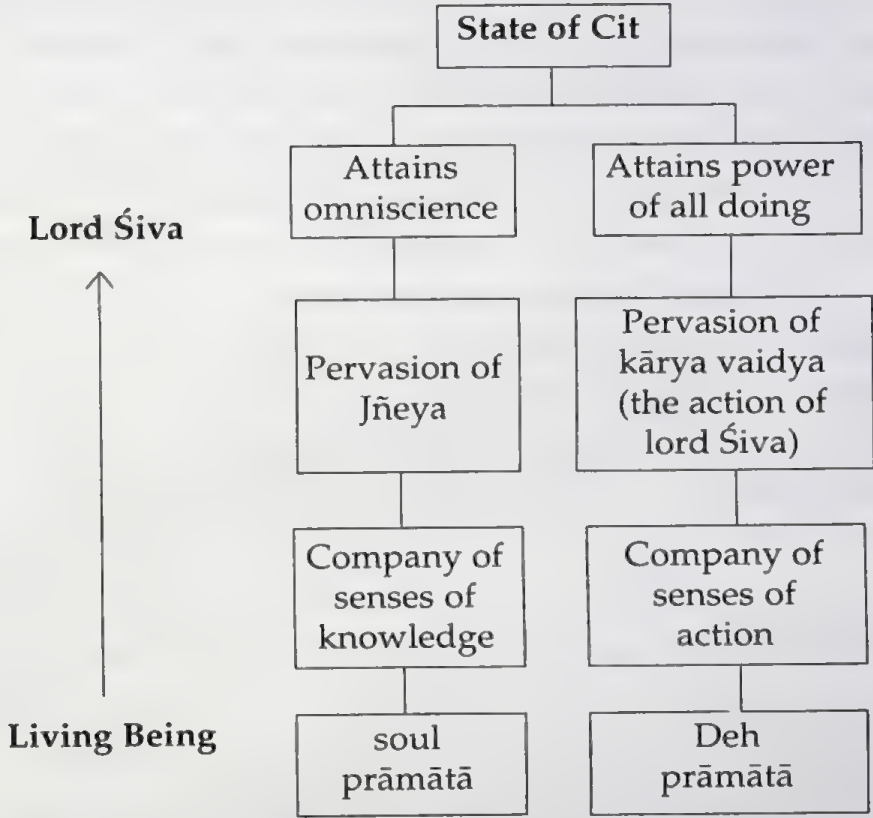

Fig. 45: Pervasion of Lord Śiva and knowledge and action

Pramāṇa is mixture of pramātā and prameya. (Sun is pramāṇa) hence it is proved that it is mixture of pramātā and prameya. As māyā is strong hence sun is visible as prameya first. The kalās manifested from of the kalās of Sun splended in intrinsic and extrinsic classes came into existence by the virtue of union of grāhya and grāhaka.

Here the arrangement of kalās of sun is bestowed with two-two letters each which are segregated in two categories grāhya and grāhaka. The kalās of sun become kalā when grāhya and grāhaka add up together. The kalās of sun are set from ka to ta (as earth) in extrinsic world and from pa to bha (as prakṛti) in intrinsic world.

ka class is added up with ṭa class and ca-class is added up with ta-class systematically. (This topic is already covered). This way pa adds up with ba and pha adds up with bha. This way the couple of ten petal lotuses of Śrī Cakra are Sun's Cakra of rays and caturasra is reflection of sun.

As per other opinion, "Letter from ka to ḍa in regular order and bha to ḍa reverse order are twelve prameya and pramātā formed kalās of sun respectively.

But these twenty four kalās of sun (of the form of prameya and pramātā) have not been given place in Śrī Yantra. They have been ignored by the experts of Mātrkā Cakra.

Ten senses of the pramātā are first ten petal lotus and five tanmātrās and five kañcukas (known as prameya together) are second ten petal lotus. The two intrinsic kalās dwell as caturasra image with ma as soul of prakṛti having trinity of qualities.

ta class the senses of knowledge and ṭa class the senses of action together form ten kalās of pramātā are placed on first ten petal louts. Ca and ka class the indicators of tanmātrā and pañcamāhābhuta (five principal elements) together known as prameya are the second ten petal lotus.

pa (the prakṛti and the seed of kārya vedyā) and ba (the buddhi, the seed of karmendriya) join together to form the first intrinsic kalā and pha (the ahamkāra and the seed of gyeya vedyā) and bha (the mana jñānaendriya) join together to form second intrinsic kalā. ma dwells as soul within prakṛti (having three qualities) which is inside caturasra (the form of four letters of pa-class which are image of Sun).

This means merger of mana, buddhi and ahamkāra in prakṛti is merger of soul only.

Though pramāṇa (being indicator of sparsā letters in Cakra) are the placing of puruśa (of the form of mana, buddhi and ahamkāra) not ma hence the transformation of mana and buddhi is puruśa however the position of puruśa (bestowed by ma) is proved to be between pramāṇa Cakra (two ten petal lotuses) and pramātā (caturasra); hence the puruśa is associated to both pramāṇa and pramātā. Hence here, "In caturasra, puruśa lies within prakṛti" is settled.

The relation of puruśa represented by ma, with pramāṇa and prameya is done in this sūtra.

Grāhya and grāhaka (acceptor and acceptable) are inherent in pramāṇa stage, hence pramāṇa stage is of the form of two ten petal lotuses and hence they are shown as unified couple. The way Śrī Yantra has eight and fourteen petal two different lotuses, pramāṇa does not have two different figure to show Cit and Acit or prameya and pramātā. As the nature of senses (the representation of pramāṇa) is both grāhya and grāhaka, they are not shown separately in pramāṇa stage. Being subject of pervasion of prakṛti, ma has prime relation with pramāṇa Cakra but then also it does not have power of puruṣa of ma. This means ma is not twenty-fifth letter after twenty-four letters which come together to form twelve kalās of sun. Now the question is, "What is the relation of ma with pramāṇa Cakra?"

Bindu pramātā has only one position in Śrī Cakra named aṣṭāra though pramātā is of two types discriminating investigator and indiscriminating investigator, in which discriminating investigator is puruṣa (represented by ma). Hence Bindu pramātā must be placed in aṣṭāra and not in pramāṇa stage.

[As pramāṇa has inherence between acceptor and acceptable.]

Only mana and buddhi etc. (the transformed form of ma) are placed in pramāṇa Cakra. This is the relation of puruṣa the ma with pramāṇa stage.

Being present as perception in Deep sleep, this world looks real like eternal truth in Awaken state because of experiences. This way Cit deceeds from pramātā stage and ma becomes madhyandina-dyumaṇi (sun).

Writer explains how Āditaḥ abosrbes Vimarśa Bindu within it and how Bindu decedes to prameya stage from pramātā stage. This world which is present mentally in Deep sleep state and appears like an eternal truth which is not true in reality. When Lord Śiva who dwells within as eternal; without any cover as indeterminate and cidātmaka aquries pramātā stage, the wonder of vibration of Vimarśa is exposed externally.

Lord Śiva only becomes Vimarśa power and becomes mental body within and phisical body in extrinsic world and bind himself in prakṛti centered body and earth (physical) body while being deceeded from the postion of pramātā and attain prameya stage.

This way Bindu known by ma becomes madhyāndiniya ākāśamaṇi (or sun).

This means the way sun is not visible due to cover of its rays; Lord Śiva also is not visible when he is covered by his own intrinsic and extrinsic displays of Vimarśa.

This sūtra is preamble of next chapter hence here it is told how Visarga pramātā (in Dream state and Awaken state cakras of Śrī Yantra) is exposed as the letters of Awaken state, Dream state and Fourth state.

Awaken state is state of sparśa (or contraction) and Dream state is Īsat-sprṣṭa (or slightly contracted); when they leave their confinement, letters of Fourth state śa, ṣa, sa and ha are manifested. Here two motives are fulfilled by one activity only as per the Tantra i.e. the origin of ūśmāṇa letters (the indicator of Fourth state) happens by addition of sparśa-class and antastha-class together. Discriminating and indiscriminating Awaken state and discriminating and indiscriminating Dream states merge with each other to become Fourth state.

The entire, sūtra is summarized in table below:

Sl.	Awaken state	Sum	Dream state	Fourth state (result of sum of two states)
1	pa -class	+	va	ha
2	ta -class	+	la	ṣa
3	ṭa -class	+	ra	śa
4	ca -class	+	ya	śa
5	ka -class	+	la	ha

Tab. 6: Origin of letters in fourth state form the union of classes of Awaken state and Dream state

The Jāgrata pramāta ka and svapna pramātā la merge in the form of cit.

Hence to summarise, when the discriminating and in discriminating Awaken state and Dream state when release their contraction, they become fourth state.

First discriminating stage appears then indiscriminating stage by the virtue intellect, Śakti only is prakṛti of Lord Śiva and is his indistinct soul, hence first discrimination only must be worshipped.

Those who are follower of dualistic path and worship Lord Śiva first and then māyā, such a fool can never attain accomplishment. Hence the worship of prakṛti (māyā) the caturasra at first is important.

Bindu merges in Visarga kalā originated from the union of ī. Hence pratyāhāra (described or set in abridged manner) of Visarga happens by letters ka and la. This way soon the world is established on one stage, hence the letters of the form of klīṅ must always be recited day and night.

ka and la the two on whose head i [the indicator of māyā (posed within e and ī)] rests (klīṅ); if such ka and la is recited by the red rosary, seeker attains the accomplishments like aṇimā along with liberation.

Śivānandamuni described the Fourth chapter of Māṭṛkā CakraViveka by the grace of his Guru.

Here ends Śrī Māṭṛkā Cakra Viveka's "The judgment of
English commentary based on commentary of Sri Śivananda Muni.

Conjunction of vedya with ten senses is Śuddhavidyā, when this conjuncts with body it becomes Īśvara. Īśvara only is Deity who dwells as body of the form of world; hence union of Awaken Śiva state and Empirical Awaken state is shown in Śrī Cakra as union of daśāradvaya (two ten petal lotuses)

The experience of turya happens in Awaken state, hence turya is called liberating Awaken state. Lord Śiva is the Lord of liberating Awaken state. The form of all doing power of Lord Śiva is known as Īśvara pramātā and the extrinsic state of Īśvara element is Śuddhavidyā, hence first of all Īśvara and Śuddhavidyā elements are discussed via this sūtra.

As per the writer's definition of Śuddhavidyā it is merger of vedya in senses (i.e. merger of five principle

Fig 46: Origin of Śuddhavidyā

The vedya (exposed in extrinsic world along with extrinsic subjects) unifies with senses, in the light of senses and within senses, due to the efforts of prakāśa and Vimarśa. This way, Śuddhavidyā (the conjunction of vedya with ten senses) rises by the grace of Guru and liberates the living being. When it rises, it establishes ahaṃ in vedya subjects (which were previously known as idantā). Hence when Śuddhavidyā rises, idam merges in ahaṃ.

[Idam is symbolic to discrimination, Śuddhavidyā makes the seeker feel that it's only me who dwells everywhere. Idantā is the one representing idam.]

Fig.47: Liberating world with its elements

The world of the form of prameya is mixture of aharṁtā with idarṁtā. The world merged within body stage is rigid aharṁtā. Hence the all doing attribute of Lord Śiva, in world of the form of body is proved and the attribute of Īśvara to do everything is porved. As idarṁtā is prime in the stage of Śuddhavidyā, this all doing attribute does not arise in that stage. That's why, Īśvara element is Awaken state of Lord Śiva; hence it is attached to empirical Awaken state. Īśvara in the worldly body is an arrogant Deity, hence attachment of Śiva (proud of his all doing attribute in Awaken state of Lord Śiva) with arrogant living being (of empirical Awaken state) is shown by daśāradvaya (two ten petal lotuses) in Śrī Cakra which is logical.

The attachment of three states like Deep-sleep etc. with jadājada etc. had already been shown earlier.

As the knowledge of discrimination is not shunned in Śuddhavidyā formed pramātā because of the presence of ahaṃ felt in prameya, Śuddhavidyā does not become Lord of indiscriminating Awaken state. Śuddhavidyā is letter śa of śa-class where Īśvara element is ṣa.

Extrinsic meanings merge with in intrinsic meanings during the pervasion of Cid; this is shown below as:

Pervasion of cid

Fig.48: Merger of matrī-traya during pervasion of Cid

Stage of Śuddhavidyā, Īśvara, Sadāśiva and Śakti named four pramātās, is śa-class. Amongst them śa is indicator of merger of Vedyā in the light of senses, hence it is prameya.

Śa is the result of loss of contraction of ca class and ya class (indicators of tanmātrās like word etc.), śa must also be called as placed within vedyā tanmātrās. (There is an objection) It would not be good to call it the indicator of entire prameya-class.

To answer this objection commentator says, "ka-class and la are indicator of prameya. When ka class and la merge in aharikāra (placed within Cid-state) then śa (formed by union of ca class and ya) also becomes prameya; hence there is no wrong in considering śa as prameya."

Another objection in considering śa as prameya is that it is Śuddhavidyā-pramātā. The origin of pramātā happens from pramātā, pramāṇa and prameya. Hence there would be no sense in, indicating śa as pramātā because it only bestows prameya only. To this answer of commentator says, "In general, śa-class is indicator of pramātās like Śuddhavidyā etc.; however Śuddhavidyā, Īśvara, Sadāśiva and Śakti are indicator of śa, ṣa, sa and ha hence each letter is pramātā of one element by this treatment. Union of senses with Vedyā is must for the accomplishment of Śuddhavidyā hence śa (the one which bestows the union of senses with Vedyā) is pramātā of Śuddhavidyā.

The union of Kārya (united with body) and Vedyā is must to accomplish Īśvara element. This phenomenon is known as karmendriyatva, hence ṣa (the one which bestows karmendriya) is known as Īśvara.

स्वात्मा स्वविश्रममयो ह इतीह शक्तिः ।

एतत्तुरीयपदमङ्गचतुष्टयाढ्यम्

बाह्यान्तराल पदयोः श्रितरूपसाम्यम् ॥३॥

Jñānendriya are sa the Sadāśiva (the one unified with soul). Being the form of harmony of self and soul is ha the Śakti.

These, with four parts are famous as Fourth state the harmony of extrinsic and intrinsic stages.

Form of harmony between continuous Cit and Acit; (signposted by the symptoms of both body and soul and the form of resting sky) is known as ha. Ha is indicator of Śakti pramātā. Sky element (which is unending, resting and of the form of harmony of soul and body) is important for the sake of accomplishing the form of Śaktipramātā. Hence ha represents Śakti.

This way Śuddhavidyā etc. have been bestowed by the help of letters and then classification of subjects is done.

Now writer bestows the similarity between release of contraction of sparśa and antastha stages outside of the śa-class.

This Fourth state has four parts; Great-earth (with earth, water, fire and air) and prakṛti merge within ha(Cit). This way, it is proved that both extrinsic and intrinsic stages have four parts (aṅga-catuṣṭaya); this stage is known as turīya state (or Fourth state).

This state is indiscriminating form of Awaken state and Dream state i.e. four letters of Awaken state (sparśa-class) and one letter of Dream state (antastha) when come together and release their contraction, they become letter of Fourth state.

Sl.	Awaken state-class	Dream State-letter	Fourth state-letter	Element
1	ca	ya	śa	Śuddhavidyā
2	ṭa	ra	ṣa	Īśvara
3	ta	la	sa	Sadāśiva
4	Pa	va	Ha	Śakti

Being undivided, śa-class represents four elements like Śuddhavidyā etc.! This is the sequence of quivering of Citi as Cit by the virtue of dusk of vedya!!!

Śuddhavidyā, Īśvara, Sadāśiva and Śakti śa, ṣa, sa and ha though are complete and undivided but it is hard to define the pramātā stages (which is representation of pramāṇa and prameya etc.) in one letter only. Hence writer describes Śuddhavidyā etc.one by one!

When Caitya is about to be dissolved i.e. when Caitya flows towards Cit, first of all prameya is experienced. At the end of Caitya (or Paśu-daśā), when the seeker attains viveka-dṛṣṭī (the sight to visualize right or wrong and to see the ultimate truth) by the grace of Guru, then prameya merges in a given manner:

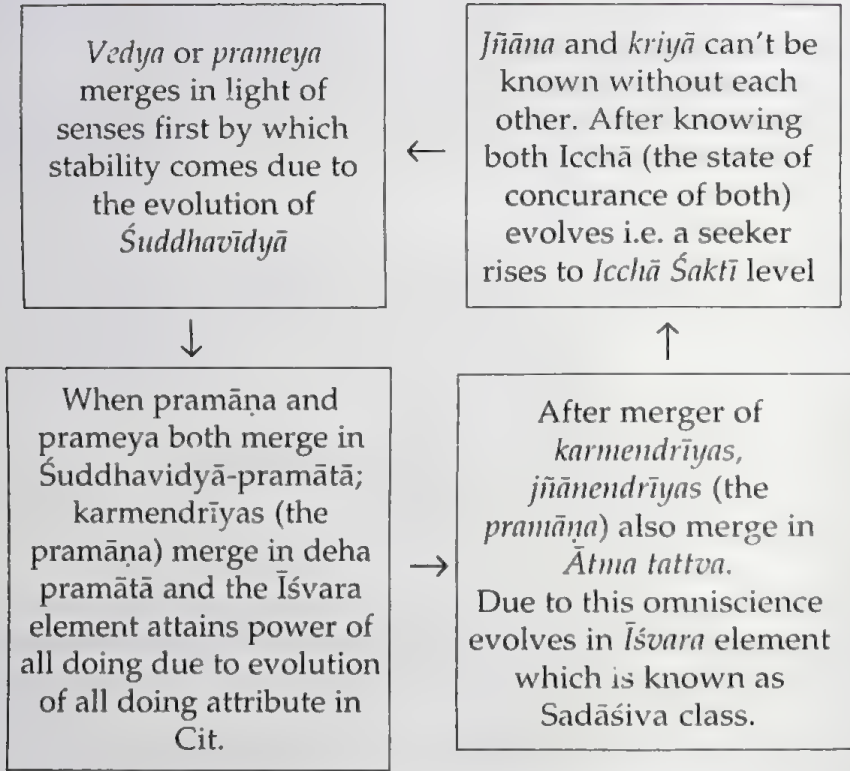

Fig.49: Step by step rise of Seeker and evolution of elements.

[Evolution of element does not mean these elements come in to existence when the seeker reaches at any level. They are eternal, it is only that the seeker realises them once he reaches to certain level; they are eternal and are within.]

Writer has mentioned that prameya etc. merge with in Śuddhavidyā however it really happens in pramātās of these elements. Hence, here all four elements are signified when Śuddhavidyā is mentioned.

सा (स) दा शिवः सखलुबिन्दुमयस्तवर्ग-तत्रेश्वराङ्गमयमान्तरधामयोग्यः ।

ज्ञानक्रिये ननु शिवस्य सदाशिवेशा- वन्तर्वहिश्च नियताङ्गिपदौ क्रमेण ॥५॥

Although sa (evolved due to rejection of contraction of ta-class) is Sadāśiva, however there is no significance of primacy of it in Extrinsic world; Sadāśiva is part of Īśvara in Extrinsic world and ṣa (the rejection of contraction of ra) known as Īśvara is part of Sadāśiva in intrinsic court.

Ta without contraction means with Bindu is known as Sadāśiva. Sadāśiva element is Dreaming knowledge state. Hence it is part of Īśvara (action led) element in extrinsic world. Sadāśiva and Īśvara element both are knowledge and action forms of Lord Śiva, respectively. Sadāśiva is prime in intrinsic world as knowledge is prime intrinsically and is secondary in extrinsic world, hence it becomes the part of Īśvara element. In extrinsic world Īśvara element is prime as the same action is prime in extrinsic world and as Īśvara becomes secondary in intrinsic world as the part of Sadāśiva.

ज्ञान क्रिया समपदं खलु सोभयात्मा ।
बिन्दौ समुन्मिषति सर्गपदे क्रमेण
संसृष्टिरापरिसमाप्तितयोर्विभाव्या ॥६॥

Ha is manifested when Pa-class and Va reject their contraction and keep the Bindu within. Icchā Śakti is identical to both jñāna and kriyā. During Vimarśa krama, when Bindu is manifested in Visarga stage, it stays along with Visarga till the time it does not pervade.

Sadāśiva is prime in intrinsic world and Īśvara is prime extrinsic world. Here the primacy of Ichā-Śakti is established as it is foundation of Jñāna and Kriyā both. Śakti stage is the stage of rejection of contraction in pa class and va (comprising Bindu), represented by Ha. The nature of Śakti is desirous. Equalisation of Jñāna and Kriyā is Ichā. Jñāna and Kriyā would not be operative if there is no Ichā-Śakti. The logical internal form of Jñāna and Kriyā is Ichā. Hence Ichā is prime in both intrinsic and extrinsic world.

When the Bindu rises in states like Vidyā during state of Visarga, it exists along with Visarga till the time Bindu does not pervade and Bindu exists along with Visarga. Hence this creation is full of Bindu and Visarga. The only thing is that some times Bindu pervades and places some times Visarga pervades.

When Vedyā (lies under the light of senses) merges within Śuddhavidyā pramātā, then Cit rises. Though sense merge in pramātā stage but their, is lack of expertise (discrimination still exists) i.e. presence of Visarga still stays. Hence this stage has both Bindu and Visarga.

After this, experience of prameya is felt during the rise of Cit under the stage of Īśvara element. Karmendriyas merge in deha-pramātā during this state.

When senses of knowledge merge in soul pramātā, then soul becomes prime and the lack of expertise of seeker becomes secondary; discrimination exists as secondary in this state hence this creation is Visarga's creation and the quivering of indiscriminating Cit from Sadāśiva to Īśvara element is proved.

When jñeya merges in svātma-pramātā stage along with senses of knowledge, then Sadāśiva merges in Ichhā-Śakti however some part of discrimination still stays. Hence, being state of rest indiscrimination only dwells in undiscerned Śakti state only.

The state of quivering of Bindu (associated with judgement of proportion of Visarga's continuation in it) is the reason behind the rise of knowledge in Śuddhavidyā elements. Hence the directions to worship Bindu is given by Śāstras.

पूर्वत्र नैव हि परोनियत परत्र

पूर्वो भवेन्नियत एव शषादिबृन्दे ।

एकत्र संविदुदयेऽप्यपरत्रभासस्तस्या

सममेवबिन्दुः ॥७॥

Elements indicated by Śa and Ṣa etc. does not have inclusion of next elements however previous element lies within them.

Śuddhavidyā etc. denoted by Śa and Ṣa etc. does not have essence of the elements of next stages i.e. Śuddhavidyā does not have essence of Īśvara; Īśvara does not have essence of Sadāśiva and Sadāśiva does not have essence of Śakti; they have elements of lower stage within them. (see next page fig. 50)

When Samvita arises in Vedya, then letters bestowing vedya i.e. Śa Ṣa Sa and ha release their contraction simultaneously due to continuous flow of rays of Samvita. This means, when Samvita arises in Vedya, then pramāṇa etc. also are enlightened by Samvita.

Fig.50: Layering of elements as per their primacy

This means the release of contraction is the virtue of Bindu. When Samvita arises in Vedya, contraction of all four elements releases simultaneously; hence there is no limit of time defined in the merger of these elements. This may fortunately happen immediately by the virtue of Śaktipāta within seconds or it may happen slowly.

The Awaken state of Śiva is merged with Awaken state of paśu in Daśārayugma. When indiscriminating stage comes into being; these various corners of (Daśārayugma) merge with each other and attain indiscriminating state, this secret is bestowed here.

The indicator of paśu-Awaken state of Śrī Cakra, the Daśāra-yugma has various letters in it. Īśvara is Lord Antaradaśāra (the indicator of senses) however just now it had been shown that Īśvara is Lord of Śa, Ṣa, Sa and Ha, hence this sūtra is to clarify this fact.

Awaken state of Śiva is united with Awaken state of paśu hence the Lord of Antaradaśāra is Īśvara. As discriminations are visible in this state, Antaradaśāra has various angles in it.

When the indiscriminating stage arises, these various angles merge; this secret is secret of jñāna-mārga (cult of knowledge). This means the place of origin of this discriminating world are letters from Ka to Bha (known as sparśa-kadmbaka) during pervasion of Visarga. These twenty four letters are divided in to five parts known as pañcāṅgaka. These *pañcāṅgaka*s have been placed in four *koṇa-pañcaka*s (five corners) of daśārayugma.

[Daśārayugma means two ten petal lotuses; this means it would have total 20 corners. If 20 is divided by four, it would be five. Hence here four *koṇa-pañcaka*s are mentioned.]

When paśu Jāgrata stage and Śiva Jāgrata stages unify, Caturasra with pa, pha, ba and bha becomes ha. Ka-class shown on pañca-koṇa (five corners) of Bahirdaśāra merges in Ha.

This way Ca-class becomes Śa; Ṭa class becomes Ṣa; Ta-class becomes Sa and relation of Ma (placed in Pa-class) converted into Ha, is revealed.

The process of rise of Bindu within Visarga converts Caturasra, Antardaśāra and Bahirdaśāra into koṇa-catuśṭaya (four corners). Those who consider letters and Koṇas (angles) during Bindu stage and Vimarśa stage as one, consider discriminating and indiscriminating stages also as one.

The rise of Cit in pārthivāṇḍa (form of extrinsic senses) only is Śuddhavidyā. Rise of Cit in prakṛtiāṇḍa is Īśvara. The rise of Cit in māyāṇḍa is Sadāśiva. This bestowal of the secret of three forms is esoteric knowledge of Guru's cult.

Writer propounds subjects differently which are Cinmaya (eternal) in pṛthvi, prakṛti and māyā; the display of Senses, body and soul (the form of Śuddhavidyā, Īśvara, Sadāśiva).

"Yaḥ pārthivam":-The pervasion of Cit in Pārthivāṇḍa the form of subjects of extrinsic senses is the dawn of Bindu which had been denoted as Śuddhavidyā. As ten senses merge (along with their light) and prameya merge in Śuddhavidyā, Visraga ends and Bindu dawns.

Pa class is related to Pārthivāṇḍa and as per principle Ma is eternally related to ahamkāra, buddhi and mana. Hence origin of śa class happens when the contraction of Pārthivānda is released i.e. three letter of pa-class pha, bha and ma are the representatives of ahanikāra, buddhi and mana respectively and these three are eternally related to ma-pramātā, hence the ma (of the form of Cit) dwells is in this trinity coherently. Hence when the contraction ends in Pārthivānda the śa-class (comprising four letters) is evolved.

Hence this way, process of rejection of contraction in Śuddhavidyā-pramātā happens as per the commentator. Hence this is the state in which the rise of Śuddhavidyā starts in Empirical Awaken state which has multiple angles (Empirical Awaken state is represented by two ten petal lotuses) and is the intrinsic state of merger of Visarga-sparśa in śa-class i.e. discrimination is still left in this state. Hence Īśvara element only is the conjunction of empirical Awaken state and Śiva Awaken state. Śuddhavidyā is merely a partial conjunction as the complete discretion does not rise in this state.

Yah prākṛte aṇde:- The rise of Cit in prakṛtyāṇḍa is Īśvara element. When the rise of Cit happens in prakṛtyāṇḍa, then clasp letters release their contraction and become śa, this only is virtue of Īśvara.

ma (the letter manifested by lips) becomes ha when it releases its contraction; pa also merges in ha. Pha, ba and bha and śa, ṣa and sa are the representatives of water, fire and air respectively, hence being letters of same being (water etc.) pha etc. become śa, ṣa and sa when they lose their contraction.

Now the form of pha etc. is discussed under abhāva vimarśa as given below:

Sl. No.	Letter	Level of efforts	Representation of Element
1	pa	alpaprāṇa	Earth
2	pha	mahāprāṇa	Water
3	ba	nāda	Fire
4	bha	nāda and ghośa	Air

Tab. 8: Table representing various letters along with the effort behind their generation and related elements

[abhāva vimarśa: It is the discussion of lack of excess of prāṇa (or life) or efforts to pronounce the letter; as per grammar they are of two types:

- Internal efforts: sprṣṭa, īśat sprṣṭa, īśat vivṛtta, vivṛtta and samvṛtta
- External efforts: vivāra, saṁvāra, śvāsa, nāda, ghośa, aghośa, alpa-prāṇa, mahāprāṇa, uddāta, anuddāta and swarita.]

The level of existence prāṇa is higher in sky than earth etc. hence it bestowed by Ma.

This way Śa, Ṣa and Sa and pha, ba and bha bestow the same elements and the same is proved by commentator.

Prakṛtyāṇḍa releases contraction to attain the eligibility to sit on Īśvara stage as per the given definition, "The Īśvara possesses worldly nature." Similarly the rise of Cit in Māyāṇḍa is Sadāśiva. This is shown in diagram below:

Fig.51: Various spaces and the positioning along with their elements

This representation of unity in trinity of Pārthivāṇḍa, Prakṛtyāṇḍa and Māyāṇḍa planes, to propose Śuddhavidyā is esoteric secret of Guru's cult.

Visarga merges in Bindu when Bindu pervades and Bindu merges within Visarga when Visarga pervades. Ka becomes Ha and la merges with in va when Bindu pervades.

Bindu enters within prakṛti during pervasion of Visarga however this merger is not complete.

La (Visarga-pramātā of Dream state) becomes va and finally ha of śa-class (while losing its contraction). Visarga completely unifies within Bindu however it is not the case when Bindu merges within Visarga; this merger of Bindu in Visarga is not complete but has discrimination.

Although the ma stays near pa (the one who bestows earth) but then also it is liberator in intrinsic stage that's why Bindu does not merge completely within Visarga. The Visarga (of the form of earth) is manifested outside hence Bindu does not unify with Visarga. Hence the Ma is visible within pa-class

Bindu has four parts and Visarga has five parts during the state of Suṣupti. When Visarga merges within Bindu, Bindu has four parts and when Bindu merges within Visarga, Visarga has five components. The same is explained here in detail.

Bindu when swallows the Visarga within it has four components in its intrinsic state. When Bindu pervades and Cit and Caitya become one. How does this unification happen within intrinsic state of Cit? (Commentator says) Everything including mana, buddhi and ahaṁkāra also merges within Cit. Ka of Visarga merges within Ha. Similarly śa, ṣa and sa (the form of Ca-class, Ṭa -class and Ta-class) when release their contraction; merge within ha. Śuddhavidyā also merges within ha, as indiscriminating state is singular, Śuddhavidyā etc. are not experienced in intrinsic state. However this Śuddhavidyā is felt during the pervasion of Visarga in extrinsic world.

Hence the three karāṇas (mana, buddhi and ahaṅkāra) are seen when the Visarga is manifested from the womb of Cit. Hence the five parts of Visarga is proved; as Visarga has no existence without Cit and Cit's exclusive presence within Visarga is visible.

The five parts of it are: prakṛti mana, buddhi, ahaṅkāra and Cit.

Ha the desire which faces towards jñāna and kriyā is soul, undivided and resting within and outside. Kūtākṣara bestows Lord Śiva (resting in Suṣupti state) with smell of tendency of his own existence).

Ha the Śakti element is Lord of Sadāśiva and Īśvara elements and knowledge and action are the forms of Sadāśiva and Īśvara respectively, hence ha is called as place of rest of these two. Monistic Ichhā is rest and hence this state only is called the rest.

This means Ichhā Śakti is kūtastha (placed at the top) between Jñāna and Kriyā. That's why, Ichhā Śakti is Lord of Jñāna, Kriyā and karāṇa (which is denoted by Āgama or Tantric epics as letter a). This undivided desire is known as supreme place of rest. Being away from this display (of world), this Ichhā Śakti (power of desire) only is bestowed as the rest.

Lord Śiva is defined in second part of sūtra as, the one who is full of smell of his own tendency (as there is nothing but him) or merely with awareness of his being in resting Suṣupti (Deep sleep) bestowed by letters la and kṣa. In Awaken state, any self-inspired introvert-resting-Deep-sleep only attains Śivattva (Śiva-hood) by its fortune (not all) and the same resting Deep-sleep in extrinsic world becomes Śakti element.

There is always a doubt in Awaken state that whether there is world or not similarly this doubt is their in Deep-sleep stage also. During the Deep-sleep state of Śiva, these four types of jñāna and kriyā worlds rest in him as seed only.

The way frigid-resting-Deep-sleep (the form of Śakti) is the reason behind the manifestation of this world. Similarly introvert-Awaken-Deep-sleep (form of Lord Śiva) is seed of this world as Śiva is reason behind this world. This world of four types, rests as a seed in Lord Śiva, as a kutākṣara.

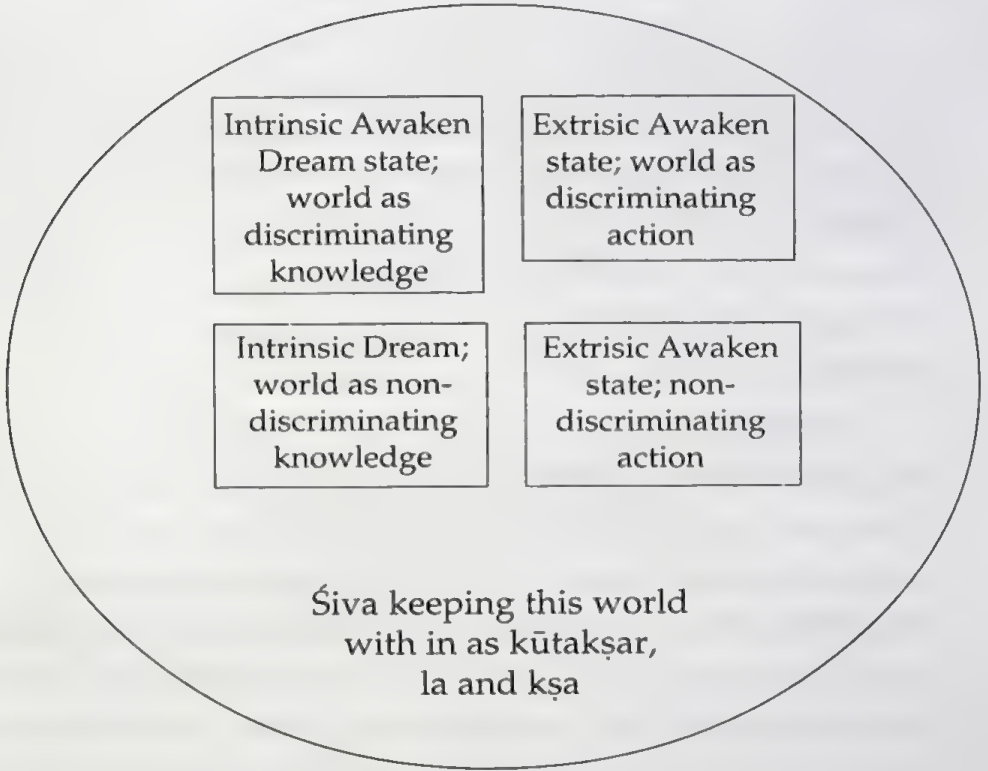

Fig.52: Illustration of world of four types as resting with Lord Śiva

ज्ञानं द्वयाद्वयमयं लसकाररूपं
तादृक् च कर्म क षकारमयं विदुस्तत् ।
श्लिष्टं पुरः स्फुरितं सद्वयकोटिलक्ष
रूपं परस्परगतं च समं च कूटम् ॥१४॥

The dualistic and monistic form of knowledge are la and Sa and the same of karma are Ka and Ṣa. These are always merged within each other and Kūtākṣara pervades in the mid stage of them.

La and sa are the letters which bestow discriminating and indiscriminating world.

Discriminating knowledge is the mother of Dream state multiple tendencies, hence discriminating knowledge bestows in this state. Ya-class bestows the Dream state. Letter la (the one who bestows prakṛti) situated within ya-class is the Lord of this class. As Dream state is the state of discriminating knowledge, la (the Lord of Dream state) is proved to be jñāna-pramātā.

La (the indicator of prakṛti) is bestowed as mana in chapter-3 however it does not have awareness of its knowledge due to its defect of invariableness. (Knowledge and arrogance are opposite to each other.) I.e. the form of mana-pramātā is subtle however la formed earth (of the form of mana) is gross. Hence though the earth (of the form of mana) has pramātā nature however it is not manifested due to invariableness.

La is said to be within va in third chapter, however due to this doubt of pramātā nature in Va or within Ya-class, is not correct. This way knowable objects like smell etc. are the part of earth (of the form of la) but then doubt of possession of kriyā-pramātā within la is not possible. This means element bestowed by la is jñāna-pramātā and not kriyā-pramātā.

This way sa (the indicator of Sadāśiva stage) is the form of indiscriminating knowledge. Like jñāna, kriyā also is of two types (discriminating and indiscriminating) discriminating kriyā is ka and indiscriminating kriyā is ṣa. ṭa-class pervades in ka-class; due to this defect, ability to action is not clear in ṭa-class. On the contrary, it is clear in Īśvara element of śa-class (the Lord of ka-class). This means although being the indicator of senses of action the sense of karma is not clear in ṭa-class due to a fraction of rigidity (Rigidity is opposite to the action); this sense of action is clear in Īśvara (the Lord of Karma) element.

This way, la (discriminating knowledge letter) is associated to sa (indiscriminating knowledge letter) and ka (discriminating action letter) is associated to ṣa (indiscriminating action). Hence this association between each other is by their nature.

This way writer explains the dualistic exposition of ka and sa and ṭa and ṣa in the first half of sūtra. Before being manifested in the form of la it is ḷa. Due to concurrence between sa and la; the la becomes ḷa (due to association with sa).

Before dualistic quivering in the association of ka and la, ka is not associated with kriyā and hence ka is kṣa (before quivering of dualism); i.e. ka tends towards destruction. These kūṭas (la and sa, ka and kṣa) are merged within each other.

First la merges in sa during pervasion of Visarga and then sa pervades in la during the pervasion of Bindu, hence sa is the seed of indiscriminating world.

In action stage, ka pervades in ṣa hence ka is discriminating stage and then ṣa pervades in ka hence ṣa is the seed of indiscriminating world. The pervasion in mid-stage is even hence this stage is steady. Kṣa is said to be seed because it is mixture of both discrimination and indiscrimination. Being the seed of discriminating world; a follower of cult and bright seeker, must know the institutionalisation of kūṭa from the words of his Guru and then investigate it.

Here kṣa (kūtākṣara-the one which highlights Śiva element) is shown here as merely a letter due to its monistic form or unity with Śiva element.

The way cow is indicated by its dew-lap or milking capacity; resting state of Lord Śiva (indicated by gross kūtākṣara) is indicated by letter kṣa. This means, by considering gross kūtākṣara to be the seed of Śiva element, the resting form of Śiva element does not destroy.

Ma is the limit of jñānātma jāgara of Dream state and kṣa is the limit of Knowledgeable Deep-sleep state. The soul (ma) and Śiva (kṣa) have been shown as seated on high place of Śrī Yantra; as triangle and Bindu. The triangle and Bindu (of the form of Visarga and Bindu) rest in side the octagon of Śrī Yantra formed by amalgamation of two Caturasras which have letters va and la on them.

The movement from Deep sleep to Awaken happens as per the diagram given below; letters during the state with their rank are also mentioned in diagram:

Fig. 53: Movement from Deep sleep to Awaken (pervasion of Visarga) and Dream state

When the pervasion of Bindu happens i.e. during opposite movement:

Fig. 54: Dream state during opposite movement

Sin

Fig.55: ha; the station of termination of discriminating and indiscriminating Awaken state in liberating Deep-sleep

Next to ha is kṣa, hence kṣa is edge of jñāna-Deep-sleep state (or Fourth state). When the element traverses from Awaken state to Deep-sleep state then jñāna-Deep-sleep state ends in ha while starting from śa (of the form of tannātrā). Hence the limit of jñāna-Deep-sleep state is kṣa (situated in ha).

This way ma and kṣa represented by triangle and Bindu of Śrī Cakra are mingled with each other where the first one is the edge of jñānātmaka (Knowledgeable) Awaken state (or Dream state) and the second one is the edge of jñānātmaka (Knowledgeable)- Deep-sleep state (or Fourth state).

This means triangle is situated within Bindu and vice-versa. Jīva and Śiva are merged within each other by their nature hence their association is proved.

Discrimination is of three types and the same is represented by the triangle of Śrī Cakra, hence the triangle is representation of Jīva (the pramātā of discrimination) and hence it is effected by all three kinds of discrimination. Indiscrimination has no qualities hence the form of abheda-pramātā (indiscriminative-pramātā) the Śiva is Bindu only.

Now there is question, "It was said earlier that Jīva is prameya as prakṛti is shown as pramātā of discrimination, then why jīva is shown here as discrimination pramātā and the one who wants to climb on the position of indiscrimination?"

Commentator answers. "The definition of pramātā is, the one who investigates; as the Caitya only becomes Cit, it only is investigator." Hence Jīva and Śiva both are mingled in each other.

Śrī Cakra has two Caturasras, one has ya, ra, la and va on it and the other one has śa, ṣa sa and ha on it. The result of merger of these two is Octagon of Śrī Cakra, in which Bindu and triangle are posed which are Lord of this aṣṭāra (octagon). Caturasra (with letters śa, ṣa sa and ha) is the Cakra of rays of Śiva and the other one is the Cakra of rays of Jīva. Hence this is display of Bindu and Visarga hence it is proved that Lord Śiva is Bindu and Jīva is Visarga.

Bindu is situated between jñāna-Deep sleep and Kriyā-Deep-Sleep states and jīva is situated between jñāna-Awaken and Kriyā-Awaken states.

Awaken and Dream states are indiscriminating in Deep sleep with knowledge, which is denoted by śa-class. Deep sleep with discriminating action is bestowed by Bindu. This way Lord Śiva indicated by Kṣa rests between discriminating and indiscriminating Deep-sleep state.

Discovery of Knowledge means, Discriminating Dream state (denoted by ya-class). Discovery of action means, Awaken state (denoted by sparśa-class). This way ma is situated between discriminating Dream and discriminating Awaken states.

There is one more opinion on the placement of kṣa and ma, "Discovery of knowledge is symptom of discriminating Deep sleep also, hence Lord Śiva's position is said to be between discriminating and indiscriminating Deep sleep and position of Jīva is said to be between Deep sleep state (discriminative by nature and discovered by knowledge) and Awaken state (discovered by action)."

Lord Śiva the form of kṣa and Jīva the form of ma only are Bindu and Visarga in dualistic world; i.e. kṣa is Lord of baindava (pervading in Knowledge-Deep-sleep and action-Deep-sleep states). Similarly, Knowledge Awaken state along with Discriminating sleep have symptom of Awaken hence ma which has qualities of Visarga, is placed between them.

As they have been placed between the stages of pravṛtti and nivṛtti the body of pravṛtti and nivṛtti are Visarga and Bindu (respectively) only.

Union of Awaken, Dream and Deep sleep (the mixed stage of Awaken, Dream and Deep sleep) with ya-class and śa-class is in collective pervasion and not in limited pervasion. The reason behind īśat-Spṛiṣṭatā is union of Awaken and Deep-sleep and as śa-class is subject of īśat-Vivṛttatā hence there is union of Awaken and Deep sleep state. I.e. Vowels and sparsā letters (representative of Deep sleep state and Awaken state) pervade in ya-class and śa-class; that's why the letters between ma and kṣa are called vyāpaka.

Hence to place Lord Śiva (denoted by kṣa) and Jīva (denoted by ma) (pervading between vowel and sparsā letters in Śrīcakra) in mid position is logical.

Śrī Tripura-Sundari resides in the mid triangle of Śrī Yantra, the edge of both the extreme contraction and the completeness. Visarga has three stages and the Bindu has only one stage the Fourth state; all these stages together are four arms of Śrī Tripura Sundari.

Pervading up to daśāra-yugma (the representation of Awaken state and the limit of extreme contraction) and caturdaśāra (the representation of Deep sleep state and the limit of extreme completeness). Union of ma and kṣa (the Lord of Centre triangle covered by aṣṭāra) is Śrī Tripura Sundari (the one who graces the central triangle of Śrī cakra), the Lord of entire Śrī cakra.

Śrīcakra has three cities, pramāṇa, prameya and pramātā in the centre of which is aṣṭāra formed Cakra which is city known as Pramāṭṛpura (the residence of Śrī Tripura-Sundari). This means coherence of ma and kṣa only is Śrī Tripura Sundari as she is Lord of aṣṭāra (also called Pramāṭṛpura).

Visarga can be classified in to three types Awaken state, Deep-sleep state and Dream state. Bindu is of only one type Fourth state. If there would be further classification of Fourth state, it would be called as, the one who promotes discrimination, hence this classification would not be an eternal truth. This means Fourth state is of one type only.

Cult says that Śrī Tripura Sundari has four arms, this is not an eternal truth; in reality four states mentioned here only are her four body parts. This truth can only be known by those who are relived from doubts by the grace of Guru.

Letters of ca-class & ya etc. only are displayed like Sugarcane-bow, flower-arrows and a rope in her three arms. Deep-sleep state is water due to frigidness; Awaken state is like earth due to rigidity and Dream state is like air as air is synonym of mana.

Deep sleep is of the form of water due to its frigidity; Awaken state is earth due to its contraction and toughness and Dream state is like air as air is synonym of mana.

Citi herself bears Ikṣu-Cāpa, puṣpa-bāṇa and pāśa formed weapons by the virtue of a, ka and la powers; one by one, in the sequence of Deep sleep states etc. A, ka and la or akala power is Caitya formed earth. Due to extreme Caitya (empirical state) earth has toughness in nature in which i dwells in the qualities indicated by ca-class and ya-class (i.e. in water, five tanmātrās and air). Five tanmātrās are dependent on earth hence they are dharma of earth.

Words in three states had been shown as Ikṣu-Cāpa etc. (sugarcane bow), the same is described as below:

Deep sleep had been bestowed as water, the quality of water is to spread sweetness, Deep sleep it is shown as Ikṣu-cāpa due to Sweetness.

[This logic does not look completely appropriate; it could have been said as, "Deep sleep state only is the first step of creation of this world, hence it is like launcher of this world; Bow also is a launcher of arrow hence the bow is symbolic to Deep sleep state. This bow is said to be made up of sugarcane the source of sugar because when the world is created the jīva starts loving it, this affection is symbolised by sugarcane.]

Awaken is the one which bends the jīva, the display of world becomes clear in this state, due to which jīva becomes hallucinated. Hence Awaken state is indicated by the five kusuma-bāṇas (flower arrows).

Dream state is swollen state, i.e. variableness is created in this state and hence it is of the form of air. In this state business of traverse happens the way it happens in air which has illusions of discrimination and indiscrimination. This only is the reason behind the bond of living being. The rope is symbolic to bond and hence this state is represented by rope.

This way, the word bestowed by i, ca-class and ya only are represented by ikṣu-cāpa, puṣpa-bāṇa (arrows of flower) and pāśa and the Citi being covered by jīva (Cit covered by worldly objects) is shown as earth power with three arms. Śrī Tripura Sundarī [the Lord three states by the virtue of Caityātmikā (soul of Caitya)–Sakti] is shown having three arms.

As word pentads (dependent on power of soul of Caitya), only are representative of Deep sleep states etc.; Ikṣu-cāpa etc. have been shown as weapons.

Being place of pervasion of Citi, Fourth state is of the form of fire. Caitya is like an elephant suffering from great disease called frigidity. Salutations to the one who has four arms which define four directions and is known as kṣmātmāṅginī and sits in the centre while being turātīta-state.

This sūtra describes about the fourth arm of Śrī Tripura-Sundari, which is liberator; after describing three arms of her, which are reason behind the bondage. Being place of pervasion of Citi, Fourth state is of the form of fire. In this state, Cit element (bestowed by ha) is associated with sa (the form of aṁkuśa). Here Caitya is compared with an elephant. Cit does not evolve in Caitya due to caitya's frigidity, this phenomenon is called mahāroga (great-disease). The way aṁkuśa (goad) is required to make an elephant understand, sa (the vimarśa of the form of Sadāśiva) is required to make a Caitya understand the instructions. Hence sa is aṁkuśa. This sa (the indiscriminating vimarśa) is part of Samvita-Śakti (denoted by ha). That's why sa is contemplated as a weapon of fourth arm of Śakti.

The one who has four arms which define four directions such Śrī Tripureśwarī is also known as kṣmātmāṅginī (i.e. the one who adopted kṣa and ma as her body parts). She is union of kṣa and ma, i.e. these four states stand because of these two.

As it stands in the centre of Fourth state, kṣa is the Lord and is called seed. Similarly ma also stands in the centre of three optional states like Deep sleep state and hence ma is also called seed. As they both are the foundation of all the states, their union only is called turātīta state. The use of word jaya in sūtra is to glorify the excellence of this state.

Fig.56: Illustration of four arms of Śrī Tripura-Sundari, three arms hold the weapons which bind the jīva in world and fourth holds the weapon which liberates the jīva

Five supreme elements like sky etc. have been bestowed as five faces of Śrī Tripura Sundari however four states also may be used to showcase face of her. The Deity whose body part are said to be the states must have body which should not be the state however here Turyātīta state is said to be the body of Deity this looks contradictory; this sūtra clarifies the same doubt.

Discrimination is experienced during evolution i.e. in the sequence of Deep sleep, Dream and Awaken state. Experience of Cinmaya due to the merger of states in sequence of Awaken, Dream and Deep sleep state is known as Fourth state.

The experience of resting Deep sleep in Fourth state [apart from Cinmaya (Lord Śiva) experience of Awaken and Dream states of Fourth state] is called Turyātīta nature. This is head of Lord Śiva.

Those who consider four states only, accept the Cinmaya resting Deep sleep state but as inherent in Fourth state and not as an independent state. Hence this Turyātīta nature is merely not a state but the Lord of all states. As per this concept, union of kṣa and ma only is Turyātīta nature hence this has been accepted as bodice and not merely the state.

As per commentator, "It is ok to accept Turyātīta state as union of all states however to consider kṣa and ma as placed in centre position is not correct." The Commentator explains, "The way union of entire body is understood by the word body however the soul is said to residing in louts of the heart; considering Turyātīta state to be union of kṣa and ma is logical and not that it is merely placed at any one location.

Again, those who consider Turyātīta state as fifth state consider the union of kṣa and ma as the union of all states and the life of Śrī Tripureśvarī.

तुर्यं द्विखण्डमभवस्यजघन्यभागो

जाग्रच्छिराः स्वपनंसुप्ति जघन्यभागो-

मप्राणकः पशुरसौ विपरीत बोधः ॥21॥

This sūtra explains the body of Śiva.

The body of Śiva is explained as below:

Head: Indiscriminating Deep sleep based Fourth state

Throat: Place Prāṇa, the Kṣa situated between and prime and not-prime body parts

Thigh: Fourth sta. of the form of indiscriminating Awaken and Dream states

Fig.57: Explanation of body of Lord Śiva

Then writer explains the body of Living being in detail:

Fig.58: Schematic description of the body of empirical living being and its relation with states and prāṇa(ma)

मात्मापशुः प्रकृतिरेवतयानिगीर्णो-

हात्मापि चित्प्रकृतिरेवनिवृत्तिरूपा ।

इत्थं द्विधा प्रकृतिविश्रमभूः क्षकारः

शम्भुः परः परत एव भवेत् प्रकृत्याः ॥22॥

A doubt arises from description that as ma is bound to the prakṛti of empirical living being kṣa must also be bound to the prakṛti of indiscriminating world then worship of Deity who is union of both states must not be done!!! Writer clarifies the same here

Being effected by the prakṛti empirical living being (of the form of ma) is prakṛti only and Cit (of the form of ha) also is liberating prakṛti both have consequent relation.

Similarly kṣa also looks like of two types (because it is resting place of both evolving and liberating prakṛti). Being pure and introvert, kṣa is attached to both intrinsic and extrinsic cores. Hence being uncovered by prakṛti it in itself is cover of prakṛti, hence kṣa is beyond prakṛti and is Para Śaṃbhu not a living being (being covered by prakṛti).

Only extrinsic form of prakṛti (ha) and extreme extrinsic form (ma) only is slave of prakṛti and not kṣa (Paraśaṃbhu) hence it is venerable and so is the union of kṣa and ma.

यद्वाशिवः क्ष इह मप्रतियोगिभावात्

सौषुप्तमेव परशम्भुपदम् चिदात्मा ।

यच्चक्रमध्य पदता तदधीशता च

शम्भो (स्तस्य) सदेश्य गुणगन्धितयार्च्यभावात् ॥२३॥

As kṣa competes with ma, it is must that it would have a bit of impurity in it, hence pure nirvikalpa Cit Deep sleep's state (the Parama Śaṃbhu) only is eternal element. As Śaṃbhu sits on the centre of Śrī Yantra and it only is Lord of it, he is venerable due to this quality.

A few intellectuals think that as kṣa competes with ma, there is a chance of frigidity in it, hence only pure nirvikalpa Cit Deep sleep state is eternal element. Hence that only is eligible for worship.

As kṣa and ma are attached to each other and pervade within each other, kṣa (or Śiva) has defect of tendencies and not in Parama Śiva. 'Cidātmā Ciṇmaya Deep sleep state' only is Paramaśiva, hence he only is venerable.

[Cidātmā: The soul of Śiva. Cīṁmaya: The one dwelling in Cit; eternal truth. Both words are used here as adjective to glorify the Fourth state.]

Commentator counters to these facts and say, "Even the Cit Deep sleep also has multiple tendencies within it, if multiple tendencies are proved in it, then frigidity in eternal element would come up. There is no use of worshipping the frigid elements, hence supreme element with a bit multiple tendencies is eligible for the worship."

As kṣa is situated in the centre of Cakra and it is Lord of Cakra, its eligibility to be worshipped becomes clearer.

Kṣa is the indicator of Śaṁbhu, hence according to the cult Śaṁbhu also sits in the centre of Cakra as kṣa does and hence the headship of Śaṁbhu only is proved.

[The statement should have been, "As Lord Śaṁbhu and kṣa are same, when it is said that kṣa sits in the centre of Śrīcakra, position of Śaṁbhu in the centre of Cakra along with his Lordship is already proved.]

Eternal element (Lord Śaṁbhu), is worshipped because of his qualities and not due to the fact that he has no qualities. This proves his position in the centre of Cakra as per the cult.

[This sūtra supports worship of saguṇa Śaṁbhu and not nirguṇa worship. Tendencies here are like a defect]

Moon pervades in Fire and Fire pervades in Moon; Sun is even level of Moon and Fire. These three stages dwell in vowel like a etc. Vowel class also has three parts like Sun, Moon and Fire and the Akhaṇḍa stage is like it only. It is also known that the dates are equal in these three stages.

Time management is determined done in this sūtra while bestowing various repeating stages as dates. Fifteen dates of Śukla pakṣa and fifteen dates of Kṛṣṇa pakṣa, total thirty dates keep repeating. As per Yoga cult, the number dates and stages are equal in stages (of the form of dates).

It had been proved in two sūtras that manifestation of world is done by five supreme elements, according to the stage which is active. It is explained as, Moon (of the form of water) is of the form of Deep sleep state; fire (of the form of brilliance element) is Dream state; sun (of the form of air) is Awaken state; prakṛti (of the form of earth which has three qualities) is the form of Fourth state and puruṣa (of the form of sky) is Turyātīta state (resting state of prakṛti and the seed of entire creation).

Although there are various Kalās in the nature of Deep sleep etc. however they originate within five elements only, hence each state has five subsidiary states within it also.

For ex:

- Suṣupti-Suṣupti has nature of water element.
- Suṣupti-Jāgrata has nature of air.
- Suṣupti-svapna has nature of fire.
- Suṣupti-turya has nature of earth.
- Suṣupti-Turyātīta has nature of sky.

This way one must know about the states and its parts.

This way, if five states within Deep sleep, Awaken and Dream states are counted together, it would be total fifteen. Hence these fifteen states are fifteen days of Śukla pakṣa. In liberating world, elements of evolving state become liberating, hence fifteen days of Kṛṣṇa pakṣa evolve. Moon waxes in evolving world and wans in liberating world.

As per literal meaning of sutra, Moon and Fire pervade in each other, hence both fire and Moon are of the form of Fire. Fire does not accompany the Moon and vice versa in all states, however if this is accepted then as Fire would annihilate the Moon in all states during evolution and their would be loss of Śukla pakṣa.

The even state of Fire and Moon is Sun.

Being the bundle of this creation, Sun, Moon and Fire exist in three stages like vowel, Sparśa and vyāpaka letters. The amorous of letters is also like Sun, Moon and Fire.

Akhaṇḍa stage is of the form of earth (the synonym of prakṛti). Being collection of three qualities, stage of prakṛti is akhaṇḍa. This stage also rests in sky (as Moon etc. do). Sky means svātma tattva (the self being). This state also is eternal in all stages the way five sub-stages are. The count of dates in these stages must also be considered equal.

भेदाविभेद समता तनुभिः सुषुप्तिः

स्वप्न प्रजागर पदैस्त्रिगुणी कृताभिः ।

पृथ्व्यादिखान्तर्तिथिभिर्ननु शुक्लपक्षः

कृष्णस्तु जागरपदादिक तन्निवृत्या ॥25॥

Discriminating, indiscriminating and dual natured Deep sleep, Dream and Awaken states when are multiplied with five elements like earth etc. in the sequence of evolution then dates of Śukla Pakṣa evolve and the multiplication in the sequence of liberation result in dates of Kṛṣṇa pakṣa the liberating state.

States merge in Fourth state during liberation; similarly if the liberation of dates also is accepted, then Kṛṣṇa pakṣa is evolved. This way, as per Siddha cult, cchapta eyed man is proved to be Kāla pañcātmaka (the time with virtues of five elements); by the association of judgement of time.

देहात्मिका प्रकृतिरेव पराविमर्शा

सैव प्रवृत्ति विनिवृत्युभयादिभूता ।

वागर्थ मिश्रवपुरिन्द्विनलार्यमत्रय्ये-

कैकयुक्त्रिपुटिका नवमूर्तिरेका ॥26॥

Prakṛti in bodice only is Parā Vimarśa; evolution, liberation and both (together) are her amorous only.

Her form is mixture of vāka (sentence) and its meaning and with three forms each of tripuṭi she is Navamūrti.

The count of various stages of Mahāprakṛti Parātmika Vimarśa Śakti is, nine. Hence as per Samaya Siddhānta, image of Vimarśa-Śakti is Śrī Cakra the one with nine triangles.

Body formed Prakṛti, the Parā Vimarśa only is liberation, evolution and dual state and hence Prakṛti only is the foundation of this world.

Body formed Prakṛti means, three states of Śrī Tripureśvarī like Awaken state, Deep sleep state and Dream state, are the body of Prakṛti. Prakṛti only is of the form vāka (which has attribute of making its essence, flow everywhere.)

The form of Prakṛti is a mixture of Vāka and meaning. She is called as Parāvāka but it does not mean that she is merely sound however the base of everything is sound. The word has meaning within, hence Prakṛti is word, meaning and dual mixed form (both word and meaning together).

[There are four types of Vāka: Parāvāka, paśyanti Vāka, madhymā Vāka and Vaikhari Vāka. Parāvāka is at a top of all. It is the form of Śrī Tripureśvarī where the latter mentioned three are the expansion of first one.]

There are three forms of Parāśakti present as word; prameya, pramāṇa and pramātā, hence she is called Śrī Tripura Sundari. As these prameya etc. have Moon (the form of evolution), Fire (the form of liberation) and Sun (which has dual nature), Śrī Tripura Sundari though has one form in resting state however in Vimarśa state they become nine. Hence the Śrī Yantra is divided into three parts where each has three further parts for example, primacy of Visarga, primacy of Bindu and the primacy of both Bindu and Visarga in Caturdaśāra (the Suṣuptipura; city of Deep sleep, present as prameya due to frigidity). Similarly daśāra-yugma (the Jāgratapura of the form of pramāṇa) and aṣṭāra (the svapnapura, of the form of pramātā) also are divided into three stages viz. primacy of Visarga, primacy of Bindu and the primacy of both Bindu and Visarga.

This way division of prameya, pramāṇa and pramātā into nine parts is shown as nine Cakras of Śrī Yantra. These nine types of amours (representing various states) in the form of Cakra, is the image of Śrī Tripura Sundari.

स्तुल्या यद्विन्दुनलयोरुभयंतदिच्छा ।

स्यात्कर्म चावगलितं तु मिथोजडज्वात्

ज्ञानं तयोः समपदं च तथा द्विरूपम् ॥२७॥

Frigidity and cognizance both dwell equally in Cit and Vimarśa. Desire of both are associated with Moon and Fire. Both are action and the doer of action and both are of the form of jñāna due to equality.

It was told that only saguṇa form of Lord Śiva must be worshipped. As the frigid form of him is not eligible for worship. Later Śrī Tripura Sundari (as Śrīcakra) is said to be eligible for worship. Hence here again a doubt arises whether to worship her or to not worship her! To clear this doubt writer proves that both Śiva and Śakti are eligible for worship; in this sūtra.

Frigidity and cognizance are equally existent in both Vimarśa and Cit. As both frigidity and cognizance are two opposite attributes, their existence together is a miracle. This miracle is due to the pervasion of Cit and Vimarśa in each other. Caitanya (cognizant) is pervasive and frigid lacks in it, the above mentioned miracle exists in them also eternally. Hence it is proved that Prakāśa and Vimarśa both are associated with Ichhā, jñāna and Kriyā.

Moon is frigid kriyā and fire is throbbing and of knowledge form. As the icchā dwells in between them, icchā has nature of both, jñāna and kriyā. Hence the form of desire of both is proved to be Moon and Fire. When Prakāśa pervades, its desire is Fire and when there is lack of light (state of Vimarśa), form of desire is Moon.

Although the form of desire of Vimarśa is Moon, however when Vimarśa pervades desire shines like fire. On the contrary when Vimarśa lacks (state of idaṁtā), fire adopts the frigid nature of moon and hence here fire is of the form of moon. Hence it is proved that as the form of desire of Vimarśa is fire only (during pervasion and lack of Vimarśa) and Vimarśa is ajāḍa.

This way, by proving the desire of Prakāśa and Vimarśa as moon and fire, their dual nature is proved. This way both Prakāśa and Vimarśa are jñātā, jñeya and jñāna. As both Prakāśa and Vimarśa have dual nature and pervade each other, both are doer of action and both are action. Both are subjects of each other. Hence due to this equality both are of the form of knowledge. Both Prakāśa and Vimarśa are knower and knowable for each other and both are knowledge.

Hence it is proved that Prakāśa and Vimarśa have all kinds of equality between them. Hence it is not possible to bestow the frigidity in both Prakāśa and Vimarśa and both are Caitanya (cognizant).

पक्षद्वयेऽपि परिवृत्तिवशात्रयाणा-

मिच्छादिकत्रितयताप्रतिधामधाम्नाम् ।

षट्स्वत्रवृत्तिसु च कारणकार्यतास्या-

द्विन्दुक्षयोर्मभबोः पफवर्ग (र्ण) योश्च ॥ 28 ॥

Each section is of the form of Ichhā, Jñāna and Kriyā due to its revolution in both sides (right and left). Six such states have action and reason between them. Bindu is related to kṣa; ma is related to bha and ba and pa and pha are related to each other.

Each section of Mātrkā Mahāmantra (the one which has vowels, clasp and Vyāpaka letter sections) move in both sides. (Please ref. sūtra-1.17) I.e. amongst these three sections any one of them may be called as first section, middle section or last section. Due to this wonder, relation of kārya-kāraṇa (action and reason) within sections, each state has essence of Ichhā, Jñāna and Kriyā. Anyone may be considered first (it would be icchā) similarly if it is said to be second one (it would be jñāna) and if it said to be last one (it would be kriyā). If we consider that Mantra traverses in both right and left side, it would have six states. Amongst these six each is action and reason for each other. This way, the kārya-kāraṇa relation between Bindu, kṣa, ma, bha and ba and pa and pha are related to each other:

- Bindu of vowel-class has kārya-kāraṇa relation with Kṣa.
- Ma (or ma of vyāpaka class) has relation with bha and ba the letters of clasp-class.
- pa-pha has mutual relation with Visarga of vowel-class.

The flow of Mantra of each section, starts from the heart (which owns life) and the heart only is place of Bindu and Visarga i.e. Bindu's movement towards Visarga (during evolution) and movement of Visarga towards Bindu (during liberation) happens in the heart only. Hence the Bindu and visarga of Vowel-class are represented by pa, pha, ba and bha (those who bestow prakṛti, ahamkāra, mana and buddhi in caturasra).

It means pa and pha reside in Visarga and ba and bha reside in Bindu and ma and kṣa of vyāpaka class reside in Visarga and Bindu. In this situation:

- After plunging in vyāpaka-class, when revolution starts from Bindu and ends on Kṣa (regular movement), kṣa is kārya and Bindu is kāraṇa.
- When revolution starts from Kṣa and ends on Bindu (reverse movement), Bindu is kārya and Kṣa is kāraṇa.

Similarly Visarga is kāraṇa, when revolution starts from Visarga vowels and ends on pa and pha Visargas where pa and pha are kārya. Vowel Visarga will become kārya and pa and pha Visarga will become kāraṇa during reverse revolution.

Same way, ba and bha of clasp class (both Bindu) when revolve to move towards ma of vyāpaka (form of bindu), ba and bha become kāraṇa and Ma become Kāraya; during reverse movement ba and bha become kāraṇa and Ma becomes kāraṇa.

As per the opinion of cult, Bindu formed by union of vigorous Bindu and Kṣa is pure. Visarga created by the union of Visarga of vowel and pa and pha is pure. Bindu formed from ma and Visarga formed from the union of va and bha have impurity.

As anyone can be Prameya, Pramāṇa and Pramātā, anyone can be foundation during the movement, here there is no first or second in sequence. This principle is accepted on the basis of the experiences of Siddhas.

It is practically realised that when the pot quivers, then pramāṇa (the eyes) quivers and sight-pramātā quivers. Hence a few consider the quivering of pot as prime, a few consider quivering of eyes as prime and a few consider quivering of pramātā as prime. This is as per expertise of the preceptors. On the contrary, Siddhas say that it would be correct when the one would accept sum of above mentioned three principles, which were used to explain the quivering of pot etc. due to the wonder of Prakāśa and Vimarśa.

[Means to consider all the three principles as prime only is logical.]

विश्वस्य बीजदशयोः प्रथमे पदे चिद्।

चित्ये निमज्जति परत्र चितौ तु चैत्य-

मेतत्समस्तमुभयोल्लसिते तु भानौ॥२९॥

Māṭṛkā Mahāmantra had been proved as, "It has three parts; svara-part, sparśa-part and vyāpaka-part. Followers of Śākta-cult consider worship of caturasra (the form of Deep sleep and representatives of vowels) as prime; Saivāitas consider vyāpaka part (the form of Cit which dwells in Caitya; form of Dream state and the representative of Śiva element) residing in aṣṭāra as prime for worship. A few thoughtless seekers think that the ten petal lotus (sparśa letter's and Awaken state's representative) must not be worshipped (they doubt that this is the representation of paśu state) however this cult says that this Awaken clasp-class only is primary part for worship.

The form of Śrī Yantra is of the form of Moon, Fire and Sun. Moon is represented by vowel class hence the place of rest of Moon (the form of Visarga) is said to be vowel-class.

Ya-class is representative of fire and the rest place of fire is vyāpaka class. Cit merges in Caitya in svara-class hence here only Caitya rules. Caitya merges in Cit in vyāpaka-class hence here Cit rules. This world is of the form of Prakāśa and Vimarśa and hence being the resting place of world, Cit and Caitya both are the seed of this world.

Cit merges within Caitya in vowels and hence Cit is not visible and Caitya merges within Cit in vyāpaka-class and hence Caitya is not visible in this state. This way both vowel and vyāpaka class are unified states. When the Sun (the even state where both Cit and Caitya pervade together) is prime, then both Cit and Caitya are visible in the clasp-class (the representative of Sun). Hence the state of view of both Śiva and Śakti together are Jāgrata Cakra only which can be worshipped worship, this is opinion of cult.

The Caitya (of the form of Cit) residing in caturdaśāra (the moon) and Cit (of the form of Caitya) residing in aṣṭāra (the fire); both Deities are shown together in caturasra (the foundation of two ten petal lotuses).

Caturdaśāra is said to be Moon and aṣṭāra is said to be fire. Both caturdaśāra and aṣṭāra have two Cakras each; within. Caturdaśāra has two Cakras: aṣṭāra (the form of Cit) and sixteen petal (the form of Caitya).

This way aṣṭāra has triangle (form of Caitya) and Bindu (form of Cit). The Cit and Caitya of both cakras enchroach each other. I.e. enchroachment of Cit over Caitya and Caitya over Cit is natural. Caitya (of the form of ṣoḍaśāra) pervades in Cit (of the form of aṣṭāra) hence sixteen petal lotus is placed outside eight petal louts. As Bindu pervades over triangle (the Caitya) in aṣṭāra hence the triangle exists as rays of Bindu outside Bindu; this way is the arrangement of two images.

This couple of sixteen petal lotus and eight petal lotus along with couple of Bindu and triangle are the form of caturasra. This caturasra (mentioned as pa-class) is placed in two ten petal lotuses as the image of Sun.

As existence of caturasra is proved using: ṣoḍaśāra, aṣṭāra, trikoṇa and Bindu; caturasra is prime and it must be worshipped first.

Catuśpada is the image of caturasra. Cit and Caitya are like Gaṅgā and Yamunā and Caturasra is like Prayāga. Caturasra also is part of Cit and Caitya and hence it must be worshipped first.

It is proved in last sūtra that catuśpada (image of caturasra) is place of union of four Deities. Gaṅgā and Yamunā are the form of Cit and Caitya. Water of Gaṅgā is as pure as Cit and water of Yamunā is like Caitya. The way Caitya is dull due to impurities of this world water of Yamunā is blue hence Caitya is called Yamunā. Confluence of Gaṅgā and Yamunā happens at Prayāga; when one bathes in confluence of Gaṅgā and Yamunā, he experiences God. This way worship of caturasra which is of the form of Prayāga must be done first.

The complete sequence is as given below:

1. Caturasra.
2. Aṣṭāra
3. Caturdaśāra

Caturasra Cakra is ascertainment of two ten petal lotuses but the couple is ray and caturasra is image, as image Cakra can't be within Rays of Cakra; caturasra is shown outside.

Caturasra of the form of sun is between Fire and Moon, hence it is proved as the part of fire and moon. In order to prove that it must be worshipped first it is shown as complete stage by Ādi Śiva because it is gist of jaḍājāḍa.

As per opinion of a few intellectuals the addition of the Awaken state (shown as caturasra cakra) in outer periphery of Śrīcakra is derived while keeping pupils in mind but it must not be followed by proficient seekers. Hence worship of caturasra placed in the mid must only be worshipped.

Writer says that outermost caturasra must be worshipped first, hence the commentator abandon such defects of thought here.

Place of caturasra (described as between Fire and Moon or eight and fourteen petal lotus) is placed in the end of two ten-petal-lotuses. Hence it is not good to doubt on the contrary part of placement of caturasra in bāhyadeśa.

Being within Moon and Fire, Sun is its part; caturasra is of the form of Sun, hence caturasra also is the part of Moon and Fire. As caturasra is gist of Moon and Fire (the jadājadā) to prove its first worship, first Siddha Lord Śiva had shown it as complete stage of Srīcakra (the bāhyadeśa of caturasra is said to be complete stage).

Fig.59: Caturasra described as madhya-cakra

Those who worship caturasra called middle-cakra first, consider it seed. They say that the way seed is prime amongst root, seed and sprout; caturasra is prime amongst caturasra, caturdaśāra and aṣṭāra, hence it must be worshipped first.

Those who consider that above statement is for the sake of wellbeing of immature pupil only, consider the above statement as merely the sermon.

In short, eight and sixteen petal lotuses are placed in the centre of fourteen petal lotus and these two Cakras are placed within caturasra (indicator of two ten-petal-lotuses). Hence fourteen and eight petal lotuses must also be worshipped the way caturasra is worshipped. It means, the production of caturasra is done for the sake of pupils because sixteen petal lotus is indicator of fourteen petal lotus and eight petal lotus is indicator of aṣṭāra.

This means, all the states i.e. Deep Sleep state, Awaken state and Dream state are eligible for first worship.

Fourteen petal lotus (the Suṣupti Cakra) is shown in the outer part of Śrīcakra, hence it must be worshipped first.

The followers of cult accept the reverse sequence of worship, hence they accept the primacy of Dream state. Those who accept the primacy of Awaken state situated between Deep-sleep state and Dream state as seed; consider the primacy of periphery situated outside caturasra, ṣoḍaśadala and aṣṭadala. Hence these worshippers must worship the outer most caturasra and not the one which is placed in the mid.

Again outer caturasra of Awaken state is prime for those who are immature seekers, the contemplation of it is merely for the sake of bringing in proficiency in the pupils.

[No reason is given, how it would make the seeker proficient. It seems that there was some sort of practice followed at the time this commentary or Book was written, which is not mentioned here to avoid the lengthening of epic or to hide some aspects.]

All States of Śrīcakra are prime for proficient pupils.

[Commentator had given opinions of various cults here and concluded that all the states are prime in Śrī Yantra. He countered the opinion of writer also.]

This supreme secret of Matṛkā residing within Śrī Yantra is told by the loudly here. If the same is owned 'within' which is pierced by Śakti, then neither me nor anyone would be a hurdle.

Here ends Śrī Mātṛkācakra Viveka's "Tripura's Judgement" named fifth chapter's Sarveśvari English commentary based on commentary of Sri Śivananda Muni

The commentary of this work is lucid and is unique in nature because this commentary is without any excerpt from other books and is only based on the experiences of Yogīs which is called as darśana and not philosophy. Being translated in English along with various diagrams and tables, this Kāśmirī Mantra Śāstra, is rare and only work of its type and is a must readout for those who want to know how mantras work.

About Author

Giri Ratna Miśra, is an Electronics and Communications engineer by qualification and an ex-IT Executive of an MNC. Being initiated by the great social reformer and Saint of India, Aghoreśvara Bhagvāna Rāma Jī, he is now involved in serving his Deity under the guidance of his able Guru. Being born in Varanasi as a son of Smt Padmā Miśrā and Śrī Rāghvendra Miśra, he has taken up a responsibility to spread the pragmatic message of Tantra to society; so that Tāntrika diaspora may convert into mass. ŚRĪ MĀTRKĀCAKRA VIVEKA.....

Excellent Siddha darśana scripture written by ŚrīSvatantrānandanātha. The exposition of Parādvaita principle, Āgamika Yoga and Śrīcakra worship rituals are done in mysterious though mesmerising stanzas. While bestowing the dārśanika principles of Yoga and worship, this Tantra equals the Kāśmīra Śaiva darśana, though the way of presenting the facts in it are a bit different.

ŚRĪ BAGLĀTATTVA PRAKĀŚIKĀ

(An authoritative scripture on philosophical and worship aspects of Śrī Baglāmukhī as mentioned in Vedas, Upaniṣadas, Purāṇas, Śrī Durgā Saptāṣaṭi and Tantra)

By: Gīrī Ratna Mīśra

Beyond the limits of time when there was not even time at all, there was Only one and you may call him Śiva, Viṣṇu or Brahmā; he was enlightened by his divine throb vibrating within him. When he wanted to create this world, his divine throb made him a living being. As he was made living being, his throb known as the Mahāciti became Citta of him. This entire exercise is not merely a myth but is the story of origin of this world, which may either be called as big-bang.

This transformation of Mahāciti as Citta is not an incidental activity but is the effect of great weapon called as Brahmāstra. Being known to the world as Parābhāṭṭārikā Bhagavati Śrī Bagalāmukhī, she only is Brahmāstra. It is not an imagination of any devotee, it is what Vedas, Purāṇas and Tantras say.

A detailed Study of Philosophical aspects of Śrī Baglāmukhī as mentioned in Vedas, Upaniṣadas, Purāṇas, Śrī Durgā Saptāṣaṭi and Tantra along with worship aspects of her by the help of various worship rituals, hymns and Mantras will certainly be useful for Those who actually want to Know who is Parābhāṭṭārikā Bhagavati Śrī Bagalāmukhī.
